BEAUTIFUL NEW TR

UPDATE LEADS TO A

Written & Photographed: Alexandra Stanton

Remodeling projects are multi-layered. What can start as a simple update to your foyer can snowball into redesigning the rest of your house, or more specifically for a family in Head of the Harbor, their kitchen. While the original layout was functional it did not reflect the new transitional design direction the rest of the house had taken. The homeowners turned to Karen Young of Coastal Cabinet Works, who set to work designing a space that better reflected the family's style.

TRANSITIONAL SPACE

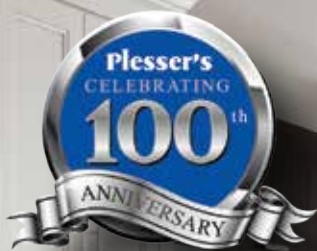

COASTAL CABINET WORKS

Keeping in line with transitional design, Karen kept ornate details to a minimum. A shaker door style was chosen for its simple elegance in a bright white paint while the island and bar were given a frappe finish to provide visual depth. Karen left off crown molding, instead using fascia to create a modern touch with clean lines. She placed open shelves above the desk to keep the room feeling light and fresh.

Stacked cabinetry play into the ceiling height with the glass doors reflecting light throughout the kitchen. The appliances were paneled for a polished look allowing the eye to travel around the room uninterrupted. To take a closer look at this remodel, 'head' to the Head of the Harbor Project on Coastal Cabinet Work's Facebook page to view the before photos.

WHAT'S APP?

Appliances Connection has the most abundant and innovative selection of smart appliances on the market today. As our daily routines continue to evolve, so too does the company, connecting customers with appliances that connect back to you. These smart appliances communicate remotely with your smart-phone or tablet, allowing you to monitor programs, change settings, and contact customer support wherever you are. Appliances Connection's smart offerings are so connected, they can even download updates through the internet. That way, your purchase can keep up with all the features of newer models for years to come, saving you money. Three of Appliances Connection's sought-after brands at the forefront of this technological revolution are Miele, Dacor, and Thermador.

SMART APPLIANCES THAT CONNECT TO YOUR PHONE OR TABLET

Miele

Miele is one of the most venerable and coveted ultra high-end appliance brands available at Appliances Connection. Their reputation for the meticulous German engineering in their products is incomparable. Committed to finding you great deals on long-lasting units, Appliances Connection offers a range of sturdy Miele appliances with the expectation of a 20-year lifespan. With technological innovations being created every day, you'll need units that make the most of their enduring design while keeping up with the features of newer models.

Refrigeration

15 years ago, Miele introduced their revolutionary new line of refrigerator columns they called MasterCool. They boasted ingenious features such as SuperCool and SuperFreeze that would drop the temperatures in the refrigeration and freezer compartments respectively. That way, optimal conditions were maintained when loading new fresh and frozen foods. Back then, smart technology was quite rudimentary. A device called RemoteVision would send information to the manufacturer when the unit malfunctioned so it could be diagnosed before a service person was dispatched. That was pretty much the extent of its capabilities.

This year, Miele unveiled the new generation of MasterCool column refrigeration. These have upgrades including Brilliant-Light, which uses LEDs rather than the halogen bulbs found in previous models. More germane to our discussion, though, these columns also have what Miele is calling WiFiConn@ct. This smart device app will interface with the refrigerator, allowing you to control the aforementioned SuperCool and SuperFreeze modes right from a phone or tablet.

Normally, temperature and other features in both the refrigerator and freezer compartments can be manipulated using the intuitive MasterSensor touch controls. In order to increase interior capacity from the old generation of MasterCool to the next, Miele changed the placement of these controls from a thick middle shelf to a much more discrete panel at the top. This has the unfortunate side effect of making it unreachable to those who are differently abled. However, all the functions on the MasterSensor can be accessed using the WiFiConn@ct app. This remedies the height issue and qualifies the MasterCool models for ADA compliance.

Control your Miele appliances from a smart phone or tablet

Laundry

One area for which Miele is especially lauded is in the realm of laundry. Those with a certain level of means almost exclusively choose Miele washers and dryers. They aren't merely paying for the name. The quality of Miele's laundry units is such that they've earned a certification seal from the Good Housekeeping Institute. This is no mean feat and includes a two-year limited warranty from the Institute.

Their newest W1 T1 laundry pair is the most advanced yet. One thing that sets it apart is its TwinDos system. In the washer, CapDos uses specialized compartments to dispense just the right amount of detergents and fabric softeners and pre-mixes them with the wash water so that every piece of clothing is evenly and thoroughly saturated. In the dryer, FragranceDos uses fragrance pods to infuse clothing with pleasant scents.

These new laundry units also incorporate Miele@Mobile. This app has a pretty impressive amount of functions. Users can start and stop wash and dry programs, view their status, and determine whether new TwinDos pods need to be ordered. It even includes a library to advise how to remove a multitude of stain types.

Appliances Connection's partnerships stretch all the way to the other side of the country, allowing them to bring Dacor's hand-crafted kitchen appliances to the east coast. Thanks to their 2016 partnership with Samsung, Dacor has merged its top-tier design with the electronics behemoth's cutting-edge technology. Appliances Connection is now a purveyor of the results of this union, Dacor's Modernist Series. For a rustic, traditional look, Appliances Connection also carries the Heritage Series, providing smart appliance functionality without sacrificing the appeal of traditional kitchen design. With these, Dacor jumped into the smart appliance game with both feet.

A Connected Kitchen with Dacor's iQ Kitchen App

Dacor Modernist's effort to seamlessly connect the kitchen is not one of half measures. Virtually everything a user can safely control or monitor from a smart device can be done via Dacor's iQ Kitchen app. Internal cameras in the refrigerator compartment can be used to view its contents, alleviating the worry of an incomplete shopping list. The FlexZone drawer has separate temperature and humidity controls so it can be set to have damper air for produce or dryer air for meats, fish, and cheeses. When it comes to the freezer, the icemaker can be set to produce traditional ice or "cocktail ice" perfect for a malt scotch. In both the fridge and freezer, the iQ Kitchen app can be used to precisely control temperature in one-degree F increments.

Dacor Modernist ranges/cooktops and hoods communicate with each other using Bluetooth. The cooking appliance's control panel can be used to control ventilation in every respect one could directly on the hood. The hood also has temperature sensors so it can automatically increase and decrease fan speed as necessary. The iQ Kitchen app comes into play here as well. Temperature probes in Modernist ovens can cast information to the app so the user can be alerted as to the doneness of meats. All hood controls are available via the app so if one is doing prep work across the kitchen, fan speed can be adjusted without undue distraction. The Dacor Modernist Series undoubtedly sets a high bar in the field of smart appliances.

Thermador is a storied old firm that has brought its hundred-year legacy of professional, luxury design to Appliances Connection. They invented the first wall oven and cook top as well as the first home version of the warming drawer. Appliances Connection seeks to match their reputation by being the first retailer to provide you with Thermador's newest, feature-rich smart appliances. The vast selection of Thermador smart cooktops, ranges, and more at Appliances Connection do not simply follow commands. They are your partners, connecting you to top-tier cooking expertise from seasoned chefs across the internet. That way, your entire culinary experience is perfected from the grocery store to the dinner table.

Thermador maximizes the capabilities of their smart appliances through the Home Connect app. It has all of the expected functionality discussed thus far including remote management and observation via a smart device. It also provides further elegant solutions. It's not necessary to wait for an appliance to have a catastrophic malfunction to know it isn't working as it should. Appliances notify Home Connect as soon as the unit isn't operating at peak efficiency. This saves money on utility bills in the long run and prevents the need for costly comprehensive repairs.

Customer assistance is available directly through the app for any Thermador smart appliance issues. If a unit is experiencing any issues, a Thermador associate can access its diagnostics to figure out exactly what the problem is. If the problem cannot be solved remotely, Thermador will help schedule a repair with an authorized servicer. This greatly expedites the repair process, ensuring the servicer is familiar with a particular model and will have the parts necessary to resolve issues in a single visit. Additionally, customer support representatives will assist with any inquiries unrelated to cooking instructions, the app will advise on all manner of beverages that complement specific dishes. Users can cultivate their inner sommelier with wine and food pairings that are sure to impress. Finally, the app can connect to the users' contact lists and/or social media for easy recipe sharing.

No matter your cooking, cleaning, or food storage needs, Appliances Connection's smart appliances can be easily accessed wherever you are. Never before has such a diverse array of convenient functions been at your fingertips. As innovations in smart features are made in leaps and bounds, the range of smart appliance offerings at Appliances Connection troubleshooting, such as comprehensive walkthroughs of special features. Every program will be explained in detail so products can be used to their full advantage.

With the Home Connect app, users have access to Thermador's exclusive recipe book for countless culinary inspirations. In addition to step-by-step tion is certain to expand. With demands for time-saving units ever increasing in the modern era, we are always primed to deliver the most advanced smart appliances in the industry straight to you. For the latest in smart technology at deals unmatched by competitors, make the smart decision. 3 KITCHEN AND BATH TRENDS

When it's time for a home remodel, specifically of a bathroom or kitchen, many homeowners turn to trendy looks as inspiration. Color, texture and material variance, like using different types of tile, lead the way in this year's kitchen and bath trends

To help amplify the look and appeal of your space, consider these tips from the experts at the National Association of the Remodeling Industry:

TRY DIFFERENT SHADES

White is classic, crisp and always in style, while gray also provides a traditional look. Many designers pair white or gray cabinets, tile and wall color with a pop of color to add interest without overwhelming the space. There are many ways to introduce color, such as a bright island or items that are easily switched out like window treatments and artwork.

Combining different shades of white, gray and other neutral colors like beige is an effective way to create a warm and inviting space. One important note to consider when mixing these hues is that they need to be in the same color family. When incorporating white and gray, go for colors that have the same base – either yellow or blue. Mixing a yellow-gray with a blue-white can result in discord that may not “feel” right. A qualified remodeler who has experience in design can provide expert advice and guide the decision-making process to help avoid costly mistakes.

CONSIDER VARIOUS TILE TYPES

Another popular treatment in kitchens and bathrooms is to use different types of tile and surface stone. Incorporating tile of different shapes and texture such as quartz, marble or granite can energize even the smallest space.

Scale provides another way to create interest. To achieve a mosaic feel, look for 1-by-1-foot tiles prepped on larger 12-by-12-foot sheets. Sometimes these sheets include a pre-defined pattern that can help simplify installation.

PICK ALTERNATE PATTERNS

Tile options are available in many varieties, so it can be difficult to know where to start. Subway tile, a classic standby, can be invigorated by arranging the rectangular 3-by-6-inch shapes in patterns like herringbone or basket weave. This versatile tile can be used in both traditional kitchens and bathrooms as well as transitional or more contemporary spaces.

Many manufacturers now include textured tile, featuring patterns that carry the look of wood grain; tiles are also available in three-dimensional textures adding movement and interest with easy care. For example, using a variety of gray hues can create a relaxing and warm environment.

Turn Your Interior Design Dreams into Reality in as Little as a Day

Have you ever started a new design project in your home and stood there and thought 'where do I begin, how do I bring this all together?' Shopping for the right colors, textures, flooring, furniture, lighting, paint, window treatments, and accessories can be overwhelming. Have you ever wished you had someone with you to help narrow things down? Point you in a direction you may have never considered? Wendy Interiors now offers her expertise as your Designer for The Day!

What is a Designer for The Day? In a nutshell, it's Wendy's undivided attention to you, and all of your details. You and Wendy will start with an in-home consultation and based on that, Wendy will provide you with a customized and detailed plan including design ideas, shopping resources, and color palettes – all based on your personal needs and budget. At the end of your consultation you and Wendy will begin shopping, all for one flat fee.

Let's take a bathroom remodel as an example. You want to redo your entire bathroom – from tiles to towel racks, plumbing to painting. On your scheduled shopping day, Wendy will map out the day - visiting a tile show room, a plumbing store, a lighting showroom, and go pick out cabinets, paint, hardware and window treatments, towels, any coordinating accessories that may be needed.

"One of the best things about hiring a Designer for The Day is that you have the undivided attention of one person working solely for you," said Wendy Lepkoff, owner of Wendy Interiors. "When you utilize my services for a Designer for The Day, you are privy to my industry discounts, you don't incur commission costs on purchases, and the most valuable piece is that you have someone who helps guide you in the right direction – saving you time, money, and frustration – all of which is priceless."

With a Designer for The Day there is no piecemealing a project. When you are out looking for accessories, you'll have your paint color samples with you – not at home where they usually end up when you find that perfect pillow and you just aren't sure if it will go. From start to finish with Wendy Interiors as your Designer for The Day, your project is done fast, easy, and with no do-overs.

You may not need a whole room remodeled and that's okay. This one-on-one personalized service is just that – personalized. You may need furniture for one room, a countertop for your kitchen, window treatments for your family room, or a rug for your dining room. You may end up buying everything in one day, or just narrow some things down. But no matter what you do, you have the assistance and expertise of your Wendy at your side.

including design ideas,

"I am thrilled to offer this service to my clients," said Lepkoff. "This is truly for the person who wants to be involved but needs a little direction. This process allows me to help my client's taste shine through, while I am able to give them advice on how to piece everything together and afford them with an abundance of resources, connections, and designer discounts."

Wendy Interiors is also a full-service interior design firm specializing in kitchens, bathrooms, and open concept renovations, as well as home offices, media rooms, green concepts, and therapy rooms for children with autism.

IS IT TIME TO REPLACE YOUR WINDOWS?

Did you know that windows are one of the most important items in your home? They help it feel healthy by welcoming in fresh air and sunlight; they keep it comfortable by trapping in heat during the winter and cool air during the summer; and they act as a gateway to the outside world, whether to keep you safe or to make a first impression. Even when you're not opening or closing your windows, they are working hard to make your home feel comfortable and secure. If they're not, then something is wrong.

Yet despite all the ways that windows play an important role within a home, they're not usually top-of-mind for the average homeowner. You may not even know what type of windows you currently have or how old they are.

Unlike other areas of the home, we don't usually interact with our windows multiple times a day. So, despite being one of the most prominent elements of how a home looks and functions, windows are easy to overlook during routine maintenance and upkeep.

While the need for window replacement is not always as obvious as, say, the need to unclog a drain, it can be equally detrimental to the overall performance of a home. For this reason, it's important that you check out your windows every few months to assure they're working correctly.

If you answer yes to any of the questions, it may be time to think about replacement.

Do your windows look worn out?

The most obvious signal that it's time to upgrade your windows is visual decay. Rot, mold or warping on the window frame are all strong signs that it's time to intervene.

Are your windows difficult to operate?

Opening windows within your home should never feel like a work-out. If it does, something is probably malfunctioning.

Does moisture build up on your windows?

Moisture fuels the growth of mold and can cause serious damage to your windows' surrounding area.

Are your energy bills too high?

It's possible that your windows have drafts. Not only are these uncomfortable, but they're also unnecessarily costly, spiking up cooling and heating bills year-round.

Photos of WindowRama's Farmingdale Design Showroom

Is your home too hot?

Modern windows are designed with ultraviolet protection, so they can provide more sunlight without adding heat.

Does your home feel unsafe?

Security glass makes modern windows harder to break, while newer locks are difficult for burglars to bypass.

Are you interested in smart-home technology?

Many windows now come equipped with built-in sensors that connect to your home alarm sensor and smart phone.

Is your home too loud?

If your peace and quiet is constantly being disrupted, then your windows might be failing to block out sound.

If you answered yes to any of the above 'signs to replace,' then it's most likely time to take the next step. Go to your local WindowRama showroom or visit Replacement101.com to get started.

It's important to check your windows every few months to make sure they're working properly.

CELEBRATING 100 YEARS IN BUSINESS!

• 100 Years of Low Prices • 100 Years of Great Selection • 100 Years Of Unparalleled Customer Service

Babylon, NY August 2019

Founded in 1919 by Sam Plesser, Plesser's is one of the country's oldest independent appliance stores. Always a family-run business, Plesser's current owners, Marc and Al Howard, are third-generation appliance men who follow the same credo Sam Plesser established back in the beginning of the 20th century: "Let the customer do business with the boss, treat the customer with respect and offer the customer the best price and service available."

Community Minded

Plesser's remains true to these roots when it comes to serving the people who patronize its Babylon and Southampton, Long Island, New York locations. "We have a loyal and dedicated local consumer base that has been shopping in our retail store for generation after generation, and we will always cherish this relationship," says Marc Howard, Plesser's President. "We still enjoy all the little things that a local retailer needs to do. We are very community oriented," he says. With this commitment to community in mind, Plesser's Charity Foundation, Inc., was founded. PCF Inc., a 501 (C) 3 charity, is dedicated to making a difference. It helps support local charities on Long Island as well as nationwide. Since its inception, PCF has held golf outings, wine and cheese benefits and other events in support of local and nationwide charities. This past summer, Plesser's Third Annual Charity Golf Outing benefited the Fiver Children's Foundation.

National Presence

Marc & Alan Howard, Vice President of Sales, formulated a multi-faceted business plan to ensure the company's ongoing success at a national level. "Diversification is the key in today's marketplace", says Marc Howard. "Diversification in product availability, and even more importantly, diversification in building the Plessers brand... locally, regionally and nationally." With the local and regional facets of the business plan in place, Marc and Alan put their efforts into the national branding phase by launching plessers.com in 2008, now one of the country's fastest growing on-line appliance retailers. "Our goal in embarking in the online sales division was to bridge the gap, both for our customers and the manufacturers we represent, between brick and mortar sales and Internet sales." Internet sales are now becoming the fastest growing side of the business."

To supply local and national customers Plesser's is affiliated with both the Inter-County Appliance Co-Op and NECO Nationwide Buying Group. With more than 500 member stores throughout the country, and a combined $10-billion in nationwide buying power.

Builder & Trade Sales

As this expansion in business philosophy broadened so too has the logistics of running the company. A builder division was established in 2007 headed by Beth Howard-Price. "Our proficiency, expertise and cost efficiency have helped us develop the builder and trade partner aspect of our business. From initial consultation and planning, through specification, pricing and delivery, more builders, contractors, designers, and others in the trade community engage in our services to meet their major appliance needs," according to Beth.

The Celebration Continues

To celebrate the 100th year milestone, Plesser's will be giving away a prize each month and a grand prize of a fully equipped, move-in ready, mobile Tiny House. In addition to this biggest give-a-way in celebration of their 100th anniversary, 2019 also unveils a massive renovation and expansion of the new state-of-the-art Babylon showroom. There will be several grand re-opening events, with huge promotions to commemorate this special occasion.

Crawling with Problems

BY KENNETH RUDDICK

The homeowner knew he had problems in his crawl space: the floors on the ground level were bouncy and unlevel, there was mold present in the crawl space and there was excessive groundwater seepage as this was a waterfront property. He was very interested in not only solving the foundation issues but also improving the overall health of his home and his family. Upon Healthy Basement System's inspection, they measured the moisture in his wood joists and supports. The moisture was highly excessive, making the wood holding up the home and floors spongy.

"We were able to replace the homeowner's old rotting jack posts with our own heavy-duty SmartJack system, providing the crawlspace with the stability it will need long-term," said Bill Simone owner of Healthy Basement Systems. SmartJacks are steel support systems that are laboratory-tested and verified to support loads many times greater than what is actually required to stabilize a sagging floor.

Among the negative effects of having a dirt crawlspace are the bugs and mold that tend to fester without proper maintenance. To free it of anything unwanted, Healthy Basement Systems installed their antimicrobial CleanSpace polyethylene liner as a vapor barrier that permanently isolated the home from the ground. To prevent the floors from cooling, they installed TerraBlock floor insulation beneath the CleanSpace. For additional insulation, they installed SilverGlo wall panels to reflect heat back into the crawlspace and ultimately reduce the homeowner's energy bills.

To waterproof the damp space, Healthy Basement Systems installed three SmartSump systems to ensure that all areas of the crawlspace will stay dry. Included in the pumping system was an UltraSump Battery Back-Up, which allows for additional DC-operated water removal in case the power fails. They connected the pumps to discharge lines that run underground and away from the home. They then connected the lines to the IceGuard discharge system which allows water to escape if pipes freeze or become blocked for any reason.

Healthy Basement Systems also installed their patented SaniDry Sedona dehumidifier into the open space to control humidity and filter the air of mold spores, dust mite droppings and other particulates from the air with a MERV 8 filter. The SaniDry Sedona is the most effective and energy-efficient flow-through dehumidifier in the world.

“The homeowners are so pleased that they’re referring us to all their neighbors, friends and family members and many of their referrals have already booked appointments for free estimates,” said Healthy Basement Systems owner Bill Simone. “The family is thrilled with their crawl space and stabilized home and so are we!”

KITCHEN IN THE KNOW

what to know when beginning A KITCHEN PROJECT

BY SAMANTHA O'LEARY (DESIGN SPECIALIST WITH KITCHEN & BATH DESIGNS, COMMACK, NY)

Considering a kitchen renovation can be daunting and scary! There are so many so details to consider, it's very overwhelming! Believe it or not doing a kitchen renovation is a very special process that most homeowners are only able to have the opportunity to complete once or twice in their lives- so enjoy it while it lasts! Here are a few great places to start and things to consider in the initial steps.

Inspiration: its super helpful while shopping for materials if your have a few inspiration photos to start from. Whether they be photos from a magazine, Pinterest, or even an element from a friend's kitchen. Be sure to ask yourself as you look at a photo of a kitchen you like, why do you like it? What about it do you like? Is there just one element of the photo that you like? For example: just the tile floor, or the backsplash, or the cabinets? What don't you like about the photo? Is there anything you don't like about the photo? You can even take it a step further, if you see a photo that leads you to believe you like the cabinets; what about the cabinets do you like? The door style? The color? The mouldings? Its

Work with an educated/experienced designer: working with a designer can really alleviate a lot of the stress of tackling a renovation. Its important to find the right designer for you and your project type. Someone that you feel comfortable working with is very important, because this person needs to understand the way you and your family intend to use the space as well as making it beautiful and functional for your everyday life. Working with someone who is educated and experienced is very important! And its ok to ask your potential designer how they got into the business or how long they've been involved in the industry.

Know your materials and their maintenance: many trendy looks include materials that may need maintenance, and may not benefit a working family of 4 or more with small children and pets who are constantly on the go. Its important to ask about maintenance or what a product is made from prior to making a material selection. Your designer may know a similar option with little to no maintenance that would suit your needs better.

What problems do you face now with your current kitchen? Is it too dark? Not enough counterspace? Not enough storage space? No seating area? Sink too small? All of these are important to evaluate when considering your project. Presenting current issues in your space to your designer can help inspire a design by solving a problem with your current space. Now is the time to improve that problem area in your kitchen!

Beginning your layout and wish lists: this goes hand in hand with the previous section, if you know you want a specific product or element in your new layout, it will definitely help your designer when tackling the brainstorming process. If its that you want smart storage, a 48" range, glass door cabinets, or even a farm sink its so important to mention that as early on in the design process as possible so that your designer can properly adjust for those materials.

Remember when tackling any project or renovation, do your research, ask as many questions as you need, and to breathe! Good Luck!

TRITON MATERIALS CONSTRUCTION PRODUCTS INS

Contractors are stubborn individuals, rightfully so. They have spent years training with the same methods and building with the same materials in order to perfect their craft. This tunnel vision serves as both a blessing and a curse. In using the same methods and materials, perfection becomes habitual and knowledge becomes second nature; if a problem arises, the contractor can use his or her depth of experience to tweak the job at hand and offer a viable solution. However, this one-track mind can prove to be a halting obstacle when revolutionary methods and materials arise. As new engineered products come to market, the contractors that jump on them first ultimately reap the most benefits. In these instances, you can “teach an old dog new tricks,” it just requires communicating the true value at hand.

“In the early 2000’s, when we first were introduced to composite decking, we thought ‘How much better could it really be? Cedar and treated wood work fine for decks.’ Little did we know, 10 years down the road, these materials would breed some of the most highly sought out products in the residential industry.”

– Ben Jackson, CEO of Triton Materials & Ben’s GC

An innovative mindset and proactive assimilation to the ever-changing landscape of construction serve as the foundation of Triton Materials. Forged by two brothers with a combined 70 years of experience as general contractors, Triton offers state-of-the-art construction products that provide both function and value to its customers. Triton’s founders, Ben and Tony Jackson, have not only watched the landscape of the construction industry evolve over the past four decades; they themselves have learned to overcome their skepticism and evolve with the industry. In doing so, they have proactively sought to stay ahead of the curve, with Triton Materials being the penultimate by-product of that ideology.

Triton Materials currently offers two product lines: Triton Wall System and Triton Flooring. Both lines of products came to mind after the devastation of Hurricane Sandy in 2012. As Freeport based contractors working in Long Island's flood zone, Ben and Tony recognized the need for flood-proof construction products. After researching newly engineered products on the market, the brothers began to realize just how valuable these composite products are, as well as all of the direct and indirect benefits they provide to consumers. Ben and Tony saw an opportunity to leverage their expertise and reputation as quality contractors to help mitigate the consumers' skepticism while bringing these new products to market. With that said, Triton's products are not only proved through concept; they have been tested and quality assured by the executives themselves.

The Triton Wall System is a patented system originally created for flood prone and wet areas. It addressed the needs of a waterproof wall in both flood zones and moist living spaces, predominantly basements. The system features waterproof wall panels that are secured using snap-in composite molding attachments. Through featuring a Lego-like system and removing drywall from the equation, the product removes the need of a subcontractor for installation and makes for a quick and easy recovery after a storm or leak. The owner simply unclicks the molding, washes and dries off the panel, then snaps the panel back into place. In addition to residential projects, the wall systems have been utilized in commercial spaces such as schools and offices due to their durability, while maintaining a luxurious appearance.

In order to complement the waterproof wall system, Triton began offering engineered flooring products to its consumers. We specialize in loose-lay and click-lock flooring systems that feature both solid polymer and ceramic composite cores. Similar to the wall system, Triton’s flooring products remove the subcontractor without sacrificing quality or appeal, as they are offered in a variety of designs and dimensions. Our products are rated for all sizes and types of projects, ranging from damp basements to industrial warehouses.

The innovative mindset that brought Triton Materials to fruition will keep the company ahead of the curve far into the future. We are constantly researching the industry in order to bring the most advanced products to market, while simultaneously using our expertise to ensure our products are held to the highest standard. In doing so, we gain a comprehensive understanding of their value, and it is our obligation to communicate that value to you.

If you would like to learn more about our products, please email us at info@triton-materials.com or visit our website <https://www.triton-materials.com/>.

Lakeville Kitchen & Bath's Beautiful New Showroom, Now Located in Farmingdale, on Route 110!

For over three generations, the core philosophy of Lakeville Kitchen & Bath has remained unchanged . . . complete dedication to our customer. We treat every client with the respect and courtesy they deserve, and provide decades of experience, creative kitchen and bath design ideas, quality cabinetry, and unparalleled service.

In 1935, Lakeville began manufacturing metal cabinets as Long Island began its explosive growth. Originally starting operations in New Hyde Park, quickly moving to Floral Park, Great Neck, Hicksville, and finally, in 1955, to Lindenhurst. The Lindenhurst location was Lakeville's home for over sixty years until its recent move, in January 2019, to Farmingdale.

Richard Sirlin, President of Lakeville for over forty years, believes its continued success and growth is primarily due to their unmoving dedication to the philosophy of complete customer satisfaction. Lakeville truly understands the complex process of a kitchen renovation along with all of its challenges. It takes an experienced, knowledgeable, and understanding team to execute and deliver a successful kitchen project to a client. Lakeville Kitchen & Bath is that team that understands the importance, challenges and processes of selling kitchen and bath cabinetry successfully.

Lakeville's new showroom, located at 140 Broadhollow Road, Farmingdale, is their new design showcase that demonstrates the company's design talent and creativity, extensive selection of cabinetry from leading domestic manufacturers such as Medallion Cabinetry, Crystal Cabinetry, Plain & Fancy, DesignCraft and Wolf, and the beautiful setting and atmosphere that their showroom offers for their client's complete comfort and ease. Further, our new state of the art showroom and the addition of Bruce Wechsler, our new VP of Operations, demonstrate Lakeville's commitment to growth and our long term future success.

When not in the office, Richard Sirlin remains active with numerous philanthropies and not-for-profit organizations. Additionally, Richard remains an avid golfer and occasional tennis player as well. Most important, his wife Arlene of 38 years, four daughters, four son in laws, and seven grandchildren . . . the true loves of his life. They are the ones that make his world perfect.

Some Q & A with Richard Sirlin, President and Owner of Lakeville:

What is the most satisfying aspect of your business? And the least?

For most satisfying aspect, we have a tie for first place. The kitchen has evolved over the years to become the true heart of the home and the center for social gatherings. It gives us immense satisfaction to help our clients imagine and bring to life those special places in which to share many beautiful memories and meals. But just as rewarding to me, and to Bruce Wechsler (VP of Operations), is seeing our employees and their families grow both professionally and personally. A true "work family" feeling has developed and continues among us. The unavoidable every day frustrations of this industry are balanced and kept in perspective by the

The kitchen is the true heart of the home. **”

comradery, smiles and laughter shared among us.

The most dissatisfying element of our business? That's an easy one: Anything that results in project delays for our trade or retail clients.

Can you give us an example of when you have to think outside of the box for a project?

Almost every project requires (or can at least benefit from) some outside of the box thinking. Our designers combine their experience in crafting a kitchen with the expressed needs and wants of the client to develop a design that is both aesthetically pleasing and highly functional. That design process is, by its very nature, "outside of the box". Combined with our dedication to service, it is what distinguishes Lakeville in our industry.
