

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

THE STARS AND STRIPES NATIONAL MUSEUM AND LIBRARY PRESENTS MARCH KIDS DAY AT THE MUSEUM: WWII WEEKEND

Bloomfield, Missouri – The Stars and Stripes National Museum and Library will be hosting our March Kids Day at the Museum: WWII Weekend on Saturday, March 23, 2024 from 10am to 4pm. This FREE family-friendly event is perfect for history buffs of all ages and offers a unique opportunity to explore the daily lives of soldiers during the Second World War.

The centerpiece of this event is our iconic Big Red Barn, which will be transformed into a living history exhibit. Inside the Barn, visitors will discover a WWII barracks, medic station, mess kitchen, clerk's room, and a supply room with authentic WWII gear.

Outside, WWII vehicles will roar to life, offering a glimpse into the machinery that powered the war effort. Visitors will be able to take rides in select vehicles. The air will crackle with excitement as reenactors stage living history battles or skirmishes, demonstrating the tactics and bravery of soldiers in combat.

This event promises an educational and engaging experience for everyone. Join us as we pay tribute to the Greatest Generation and learn about the history that shaped our world.

Our monthly Kids Day at the Museum program is sponsored by The Boys and Girls Club of the Heartland, the Dexter Kiwanis Club, and the Sikeston Kiwanis Club.
