LETTER FROM THE CHAMBER PRESIDENT

Welcome to the 2020 Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce Community Resource Guide and Membership Directory

Three words. Three very important words to the more than 1,000 local businesses and organizations that comprise the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce: "Keep it Local!" These words resonate throughout our region. They have appeared in print hundreds if not thousands of times. We speak them at all our events and every week on the 'Spotlight on the Chamber' Radio Show. Not a day goes by that we don't urge someone to Keep it Local.

There are many important reasons for all of us to remember to Keep it Local. Dollars spent locally circulate seven times in the local economy. Spending your dollars locally increases the amount of sales tax collected which allows municipalities to continue to provide their essential services and reduces the burden on property taxes. Shopping locally also keeps local people employed. You'll find many of the helpful staff behind the counters at your favorite shops and stores to be your friends and neighbors.

A close inspection of the membership list in this directory shows the diversity of our local economy. We have small and large businesses – in business parks and in basements – multi-million dollar businesses and a variety of hospitality options, mom-and-pop stores, shops and restaurants. They are the lifeblood of our local economy and we could not survive as a community without them.

As we continue our mission of "Shop Local," "Buy Local" and "Keep it Local," we urge everyone reading this publication to shop in our area stores, buy local products and keep your dollars right here, circulating in our local economy.

We invite you to join the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce in our efforts to promote our members and help our community succeed.

If I can be of any assistance to you, please don't hesitate to contact me directly: 845.338.5100 x101 or Ward@UlsterChamber.org. or visit our website www.UlsterChamber.org.

OVER A CENTURY OF SERVICE

The Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce is a private business membership organization working to advance the health and vitality of Ulster County. With a membership of over 1,000 businesses and organizations that employ approximately 25,000 local workers, the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce is the largest business-advocacy organization in Ulster County.

Through the energy of its staff, board and volunteers, the Chamber represents the interests of the business community and helps businesses solve problems and promote themselves through shared experiences, ideas and resources. We believe that it is through our collective experience and knowledge that we can accomplish together what no one voice could do individually.

MARKETING OPPORTUNITIES

WEBSITE & PRINT LISTINGS

With your Chamber membership, we include your business in print and on the Chamber's website. All members are listed in our keyword-searchable directory with all contact information and both alphabetically and by category in our annual Community Resource Guide & Membership Directory. The directory is distributed extensively throughout the region and is included in all relocation packets. Preferred Website Listings are also available for a nominal annual fee. Active members' web pages and emails are included.

MONTHLY NEWSLETTERS

"ChamberNews," the official newspaper of the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce, is printed and distributed to 15,000 Daily Freeman subscribers each month and is direct mailed to 1,600 Chamber members. It keeps members informed about Chamber events and features stories on several members each month. New members receive a free business card size ad in "ChamberNews," valued at $150. The newsletter is also posted on our website.

WEEKLY RADIO PROGRAMS

"Spotlight on the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce" features interviews with a different Chamber member each week. The half hour program is broadcast on 7 Hudson Valley radio stations each week and archived on the Chamber's website. There is no cost to be interviewed but the promotional value of being a guest on our radio program is $700.

RIBBON CUTTING CEREMONIES

The Ulster Chamber assists members by conducting a ribbon-cutting ceremony for opening new businesses, expanding and renovating current businesses, and businesses that are celebrating a significant anniversary. Local officials and the media are invited to attend and a picture of the event is published in the Chamber Newsletter and posted on social media.

RECOGNIZING OUR MEMBERS

Each day a Very Important Member is recognized on the Chamber's Facebook Page which includes a link to the featured member's website. Once a week the Chamber honors a member on our popular Meet Monday's Member Email Blast.

MAKING CONNECTIONS

BUSINESS REFERRALS

The Chamber actively promotes members and their services through staff referrals, direct links from the Chamber's website, the Chamber newsletter "ChamberNews," and through the many networking opportunities available for members. Our "KEEP IT LOCAL" initiative encourages members and the community to do business locally and support our Chamber members.

BREAKFAST MEETINGS

Our monthly educational and informative breakfast meetings are held at the Best Western Plus in Kingston starting at 7:30 am. Speakers who are well known and respected are invited to speak and answer questions. Members are encouraged to network with their peers.

NETWORKING MIXERS

Monthly Mixers offer a great opportunity for Ulster Chamber members to meet other business leaders and promote their business. A different venue is featured each month with complimentary food and drink provided. These are held after work from 5:00 - 7:00 pm and are always well attended.

BUSINESS CARD EXCHANGES

These events are held quarterly and provide Chamber members with an opportunity to network and fine tune their elevator speeches.

WORKSHOPS/SEMINARS

The Chamber conducts frequent meetings, seminars and workshops, which offer members a chance to stay connected with other business leaders. Early registration is urged, since these events are typically held in smaller venues and often sell out.

PROGRAMS & EVENTS

BUY LOCAL EXPO

This is one of the Chamber's signature events, held every fall at the Diamond Mills Hotel and Conference Center in Saugerties. The Expo is open to the public and promotes local and regional businesses. It is heavily promoted in the "ChamberNews," on our website, in newspaper ads and on local radio.

BUSINESS RECOGNITION AWARDS DINNER

The Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce and the Ulster County Economic Development Alliance annually recognize Ulster County business leaders, businesses and organizations that are leaders in their sectors, have achieved outstanding results, or shown dedication and commitment to furthering business and the quality of life in Ulster County. Recognition is given to the Business of the Year, Small Business of the Year, Business Person or Entrepreneur of the Year and Tourism/Hospitality Business of the Year. Other awards include Commitment to the Community, the Heritage Award, the Emerging Young Leader of the Year and the Len Cane Heart of Ulster County Award.

RELOCATION PACKETS

Chamber members are invited to subscribe to a legal hotline for ongoing advice regarding labor and employment issues from one of the leading personnel law firms in the state. There is a nominal annual fee.

LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS AND ACTIVITIES

The Ulster Chamber is the regional voice for local business with members actively involved in local, statewide and national legislative affairs on behalf of the entire membership. Research is done on the cause and effect of proposed local, state and federal legislation and how it impacts the business community. Follow-up takes place with the appropriate officials.

It's not exactly the Ponderosa homestead, but it sure heck feels like a place where Hoss and Little Joe would want to hang their hats at sundown.

Even if you're too young to remember the TV series "Bonanza," the Rocking Horse Ranch in Highland certainly hooks intrepid cowboys and cowgirls. The rootin'-tootin' resort packs an Old West flavor and has garnered mountains of praise in the 61 years it's been operating.

To prove the point, TripAdvisor recently rated it the No. 1 all-inclusive family resort in the United States, and for good reason, said Steve Vittoria, the marketing director.

"We have over 500 acres of property, mostly devoted to horseback riding. There's so much to do here that you won't want to leave the grounds. It's a family-based destination, where you can put down your phone and have an awesome outdoor experience," he said.

Rocking Horse Ranch, known as much for its AAA 3-Diamond lodging as its riding trails, has 113 guest rooms in the "Oklahoma" building, which includes space for four all the way up to rooms suitable for larger families.

Vittoria said sleeping well comes easily for guests after a full day at the ranch, which is home to the Big Splash Indoor Water Park and year-round horseback riding.

Because the ranch has been owned and operated by the Turk family since 1958, the pride really shows, Vittoria said.

"They've put in a lot of blood, sweat and tears to make this what it is today. Being that it's family-owned, there's more attention to detail, and the result is a top-notch experience."

Another award-winning Ulster County resort in the spotlight these days is Pine Ridge Dude Ranch in Kerhonkson. Formerly known as Pinegrove Ranch and Family Resort, the Kerhonkson property was reborn last spring with a new name and look.

Everything from the rooms to the trails have been updated under owner Mike Offner, a visionary who has taken the property to new heights with expanded horse-riding programs and activities. In a year's time, the ranch has picked up national accolades and the added distinction of being named among the top 10 family resorts in the United States.

That same level of excellence and hospitality is offered at other hotels across Ulster County. One of our newest, the Holiday Inn Express and Suites on state Route 32 in Saugerties, is set to impress in a big way.

The four-story hotel with 85 rooms features a heated swimming pool, conference room for groups up to 40 and electric car charging stations. Owner Bipin Patel said guests can peek out of their windows and spot extraordinary views of the mountains as well as Winston Farm, the home of the Woodstock '94 music festival.

"Hotels are in high demand in Ulster County," Patel said. "Many, in the past, have traveled to Kingston to find lodging, but now there will be an additional option just off the New York State Thruway. I think of this place as a home-away-from-home for those who are visiting our region."

Each room has two queen-size beds, a microwave oven, refrigerator and 49-inch TV, while the larger suites feature king-size beds and pull-out sleeping sofas.

The hotel is a pebble's throw from tourist attractions as well as the world-famous Horse Shows In The Sun, Saugerties (HITS), which runs from May through September. Patel said the building has personality and a sense of presence.

"This is not your typical Holiday Inn," he said. "It looks historical with a stone facade and a color scheme of earth tones. Architecturally, it reflects the historic structures nearby and ties into the area so well," he said.

As you might imagine, Ulster County has plenty of other options for travelers who don't want to strain their wallets such as The Best Western Plus Hotel and Conference Center, Residence Inn by Marriott, Quality Inn and Suites, Hampton Inn by Hilton, Courtyard by Marriott and Super 8 all in Kingston.

Great deals also abound at America's Best Value Inn and Hampton Inn by Hilton in nearby New Paltz, Holiday Inn Express and Suites in Lake Katrine as well as Howard Johnson Inn and Comfort Inn in Saugerties.

On the more exclusive end, the Emerson Resort and Spa in Mount Tremper, Diamond Mills Hotel and Tavern in Saugerties and Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz offer sumptuous comfort, while Buttermilk Falls Inn and Spa in Milton offers a taste of luxury in the country.

Those seeking a refreshing alternative find it at the Forsyth B & B, Schwartz's Inn and Rondout Inn, all part of Boutique Inns of Kingston, or the Stone House Bed and Breakfast, a 300-year-old house in Hurley.

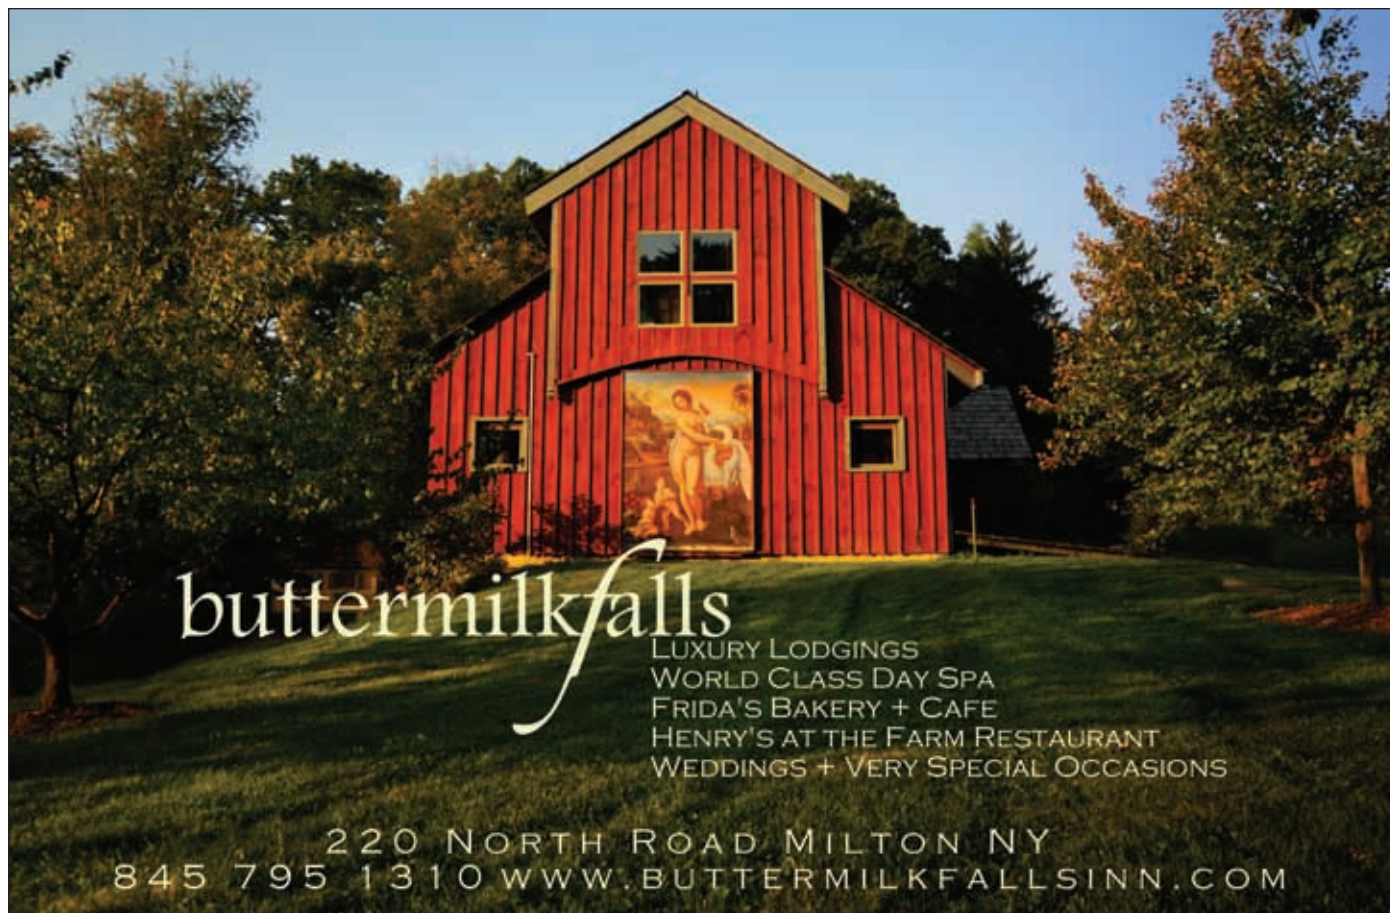

The Hotel Dylan on state Route 28 in Woodstock, The Woodstock Inn on the Millstream and Mountain Meadows B & B in New Paltz round out the variety of lodging options in our county.

ARTS AND CULTURE

FABULOUSLY FINE-TUNED

In the psychedelic world of Woodstock, violins are as cool as Stratocaster guitars. Bach and Mozart are as groovy as Dylan and Joplin and other rock legends connected to this artistic town in Ulster County.

Way before Jefferson Airplane and Jimi Hendrix left their mark at the rock fest in nearby Bethel, Woodstock had a reputation as a cultural mecca for poets, Utopians and musicians.

It therefore shouldn't raise eyebrows that the town has had its own symphonic orchestra for decades. In fact, the Woodstock Symphony Orchestra is getting set to mark its 40-year milestone, a tribute to the free-spirited vibe unique to this community in the Catskill Mountains.

"The reason the 1969 Woodstock Festival was going to be held here originally was because it was a cultural town known for its music and arts," said Greg Dinger, the president of the orchestra's Board of Directors. "All of that predates the Woodstock Festival. It goes back to the early 20th century with Maverick Concerts and the Byrdcliffe Art Colony, so it's fun to use the fame of the name but show there's another aspect of Woodstock's music history."

The orchestra, formerly known as the Woodstock Chamber Orchestra, not only has a new name, but a new maestro and a clearer vision as it embarks on its 40th season this fall.

"It's to expand the audience and present the best concerts we ever presented," says Dinger.

With conductor Jonathan Handman at the helm, they're on their way. Handman has a rich musical background and in his 20s played cello for the orchestra he now directs. Music critics and audiences have noted the difference since he came on board in 2016, Dinger said.

"If people have heard the orchestra before, they know the quality, but they might be impressed by the improved quality. If they have heard us recently, they will be very happy, and if they've never heard us before, they will be extremely happy. It's a product that keeps getting better."

The Woodstock Symphony Orchestra, made up of 60 professional musicians from around the region, will perform four concerts this year at three venues—the Woodstock Playhouse, Olin Hall at Bard College and Arlington High School.

Creative endeavors are vitally important to our community and places like SUNY Ulster in Stone Ridge. The college's immersion in the arts goes back to the late Larry Berk for whom the celebrated Artist-In-Residence series is named.

Under his direction, the program launched in 1999 with the aim of celebrating the rich arts culture in the community and giving students the chance to appreciate it and make it part of their lives, according to Iain Machell, a recently retired art professor and fine arts program coordinator.

"This has been going strong all these years, and it's because of Larry Berk's persistence. He persuaded the college foundation to support it," Machell said. "It encompasses all of our arts department from theater and fashion to poetry and gallery art."

What the Larry Berk Artist-in-Residence Program does is bring established regional artists to campus for a semester to present a series of workshops and performances, all of which are open to the public.

"It's a major attraction," Machell said. "Several people say, 'I can't believe this is free.' We get a tremendous community response, and we get our students engaged. It can lead to internships with these artists for academic credits."

A standout feature, Machell said, is that for a college its size, the SUNY Ulster program carries weight.

"It's a really good focal point for our students and community. There's no other place like this, and that's truly extraordinary."

The same can be said about other cultural hotspots in Ulster County such as the historic Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild and Opus 40—an outdoor attraction at the base of the Catskill Mountains featuring more than six acres of chiseled bluestone sculptures.

Music aficionados will appreciate the Ashokan Center in Olivebridge, the Phoenicia International Festival of the Voice, Maverick Concerts and the Ulster Chamber Music Series.

Circling back to Woodstock's rock stars, Levon Helm Studios keeps the memory of the legendary drummer alive with its Midnight Ramble concerts, which have featured the likes of Jackson Browne, Elvis Costello and Donald Fagan.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

WE MAKE THE WORLD'S PRODUCTS

These days, a considerable number of companies are emerging as leaders in the field of robotic technology, but did you know the fastening tools to build those machines were made right here in Ulster County?

Arconic Fastening Systems is one of Ulster County's shining business stars. The company, located in a 140,000-square-foot facility in the Kingston Business Park off Delaware Avenue, employs 120 people. However, the company's reach is worldwide.

"We make tools to install fasteners that are used in commercial transportation, which would be in truck and rail, as well as in the aerospace industry," says Russell Yeager, the plant manager at Arconic.

Arconic Fastening Systems (formerly known as Huck International and Alcoa Fastening Systems) has an impressive list of customers across the aerospace, railcar, automotive and solar industries.

"Just about any plane you fly in has our products," Yeager said. "When you sit at a railroad crossing and you see a coal car, that has our products on it too."

Now back to those robots. Nick Gougoutris, product engineering manager at Arconic, had this to say regarding one of the more well-known robotic technology leaders who are also Arconic clients: "They build robots and use fastener installation tools on the robots that pull inventory in their giant warehouses. Basically, every new warehouse that they build, they put together their robots with our tooling and fasteners worldwide."

Another new client is a California-based solar company. The solar industry continues to thrive using both Arconic fasteners and Kingston-based manufactured installation tools.

While Arconic's reach is worldwide, it's not the only Ulster County business to be toasted globally.

WineRacks.com, based in Rifton, has been providing high-end wine accessories and storage products for international customers since 1992.

"We specialize in custom wine cellars and commercial wine storage, in addition to solutions that will fit in anyone's private home," says owner Michael Babcock. "Our product selections have expanded to include a wide range of small capacity wine racks, wine accessories, cooling units and lighting for wine cellars."

Woodstock Chimes, owned by Grammy Award-winning musician Gary Kvistad, makes windchimes, sun catchers, bells and gongs and more for retail customers around the world. He founded the company in 1979 with a single great idea—"to make the world's best sounding windchime."

"Our mission is to produce musically-tuned, affordable, high-quality products that enhance well-being through beautiful sights and sounds," Kvistad said.

The products manufactured by Optimum Windows in Ellenville can be found in major retail, universities, hospitals, municipal buildings, maximum-security prisons —and even an estate owned by NFL great Tom Brady.

Optimum Windows, the largest and most diversified manufacturer of fire-rated windows in the United States, has been featured in a host of magazines, including Architectural Digest. Not bad for company owner Candido Perez, who started in the Bronx in 1986 with just seven people.

Ulster County is also home to several businesses in the growing solar industry, including Prism Solar Technologies in Highland, Sun Common in Rhinebeck, American Reliant Corp. in Saugerties, Lighthouse Solar in New Paltz and Monolith Solar in Albany.

Those are certainly not the only business titans that call Ulster County home.

Ametek Rotron in Woodstock designs and manufactures cooling systems for military and aerospace applications worldwide; Zumtobel and Selux Corporation, both located in Highland, continue to shine through their innovative lighting solutions; and Ceres Technologies is a major player in providing semiconductor, solar and LED production equipment.

Speaking of production, the film industry is doing plenty of that in these parts. In almost every Hudson Valley community, film crews are out there shooting movies and spending money in our stores, hotels and restaurants.

It's not uncommon to see streets blocked off for these productions, which, in many cases, feature well-known stars. Since 2000, more than 500 films have been made in the Hudson Valley, and there's no sign of that letting up any time soon, according to the Hudson Valley Film Commission.

Ulster County features an eclectic and growing number of businesses that continue to find new ways to thrive.

A COMMUNITY THAT CARES

EVERYONE HAS A PLACE AT THE TABLE

Helen Keller once said, “Alone, we can do so little; together, we can do so much.” That’s the spirit we have here in Ulster County, where the community rallies when the unfortunate are in need.

Last year, when a Kingston soup kitchen closed and left many with no place to turn, People’s Place stepped in and filled the gap by opening a community café in Midtown Kingston. Christine Hein, the Executive Director of People’s Place, said community is at the heart of the new café.

“We like the concept of a community café where everyone has a place at the table,” Hein said. “It’s open to all people. It’s light and bright, not intimidating to anyone, and a place where everyone can dine and everyone has dignity.”

“In today’s times, we need a place where everyone can come together and just have a meal and say hello to each other and smile.”

The café is open Monday through Friday for a continental breakfast and lunch.

People’s Place, founded in 1972 as a community outreach of the Mount St. Alphonsus Redemptorist Priests and Brothers, is now a non-profit and one of Ulster County’s leading purveyors of compassion.

Kingston’s needy can find help during the organization’s annual Talkin’ Turkey in November and December’s Project Santa. Talkin’ Turkey helped 1,400 households in 2018 and Project Santa brightened Christmas for more than 2,000 children. People’s Place also holds Bag Holiday Hunger, providing breakfast, lunch and snacks for school-age children during the Christmas break.

People’s Place also operates a thrift store, which Hein called the “economic engine” that funds the organization’s 20 programs, but donations are needed as well.

“I think Ulster County is an extremely generous community, Hein says. I really believe knowing your neighbors makes a difference.”

“The folks in our community care about each other and their neighbors next door. They don’t want to see anyone suffering. They want to be able to help those in need, and many of these folks are just in a temporary situation.”

Sometimes that temporary situation is a lack of reading and literacy skills. Enter Ulster Literacy, which helps 400 people a year learn to read with the help of 200 eager volunteers (many of whom are seniors). Ulster Literacy, through a variety of programs, teaches English and literacy skills on farms, in the county jail, homes and wherever someone needs help.

“I really feel like this is a healing center and I think teaching somebody how to read is a primal gift that you can give somebody,” says Ulster Literacy’s CEO Casandra Beam.

Two of the more iconic examples of compassion in Ulster County are Family of Woodstock and the United Way of Ulster County.

Founded in 1970 and led by Executive Director Michael Berg, Family offers a 24-hour emergency hotline and help for victims of domestic violence. You can also find emergency shelters, food pantries, court advocates, counseling and case management services as well as child care assistance.

The United Way, under Executive Director Stacey Rein, last year distributed almost $752,000 to 40 local programs, including free tax preparation, women’s mentoring, childcare, housing and emergency assistance, literacy training, mental health services, parent education, substance abuse prevention for youth, and vocational training.

Gateway Community Industries, founded in 1957, offers vocational rehabilitation and training for about 1,500 clients a month with disabilities, the economically disadvantaged and seniors.

The Arc Mid-Hudson, founded just a year earlier than Gateway, is a private not-for-profit agency dedicated to helping those with intellectual and other developmental disabilities live full lives. The agency operates day programs, clinics, autism support, housing and residential options, a school-to-work program, a preschool, employment program, guardianship support, and in-home services.

Among the faith-based warriors in the battle against poverty are the Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church, Catholic Charities, The Salvation Army and the Jewish Federation of Kingston. The Ulster County Habitat for Humanity ReStore on state Route 28 offers used goods and the proceeds help build homes for the less fortunate.

Meanwhile, youth programs abound and also provide parents with a safe space for their children to learn, grow and play. The Boys and Girls Club of Kingston, the YMCA of Kingston, the YWCA of Kingston and Ulster County, and Boy Scouts of America Rip Van Winkle Council are just a few examples.

The founding of the Center for Spectrum Services in 1976 is the ultimate underdog story. It began in the basement of a small church with two students and has grown to two locations that have helped educate 4,500 students over the last 44 years, while raising awareness of autism.

When the center was founded, the prevalence of autism was three in 5,000. Today, it's one in 59.

"We've been a leader in the state for programming for students with autism spectrum disorders," says Jamey Wolff, who founded the center along with Susan Buckler. "We were one of the first programs in the state to specialize in that disability."

The center operates several programs, including developmental evaluations for children as young as 18 months. Two full-day schools in Kingston and Ellenville serve students ages 3-12 and employ state-of-the-art strategies to promote verbal behavior, social and academic skills.

"Our education programs in Kingston and Ellenville are a national model to other schools educating children on the spectrum," Wolff said. "Our staff brings a multidisciplinary approach to every student. These educators, clinicians, and therapists are experts in their field with an abiding dedication to, and compassion for, our students."

"We also contract with 45 Hudson Valley school districts every year to serve students that the districts can't serve with autism spectrum disorders. We use research-based practices and do extensive trainings for public schools and other agencies on best practices. We also offer an outreach program where people who don't have children in our program can still use our services."

Many staffers have served on state committees and national boards. For example, Wolff serves on the State Education Commissioner's advisory panel for special education.

Another unique educational institution in our area is the progressive independent Woodstock Day School for children in nursery school to grade 12. The school was founded in 1973 as a small preschool but has grown to around 200 students.

The school is "committed to valuing every student as an individual and as a member of the community," while empowering students to "confidently embrace life with knowledge, compassion, and perseverance."

"With intention, teachers plan activities and lessons that focus on attentive listening, respecting each other's ideas, and work to transform a group of rowdy kids and young people into a class,"

Other alternative schools earning high marks are the High Meadow School in Stone Ridge and faith-based institutions like the Middle Way School in Saugerties, Kingston Catholic School and John A. Coleman Catholic High School, which boasts an incredibly high graduation rate and pursuit of college studies.

Ulster County also offers a strong public education system led by the Kingston City School District, as well as the Onteora, Ellenville and Wallkill districts.

In the Kingston district, Kingston High School recently underwent a $137.5-million renovation that brought the century-old school into the 21st century

For those who want to earn a living in the trades, Ulster BOCES has been supplying local manufacturers with trained and skilled craftsmen for decades.

Speaking of college, we have two fantastic—and affordable—options right here in our backyard.

SUNY Ulster is a two-year community college in Stone Ridge with about 2,000 full-time students and it's a great place to start your educational journey.

With tuition at less than $3,000 per semester, SUNY Ulster is a fantastic deal.

Another choice is SUNY New Paltz, a four-year college just south of SUNY Ulster, offering more than 100 undergraduate and 50 graduate programs to its nearly 8,000 students. The tuition for an in-state student is less than $8,000 a year and several prominent publications, including Kiplinger's Personal Finance, have named SUNY New Paltz a "best value."

Colleges across the Hudson River also make the grade, including Bard College in Annandale-on-the-Hudson and Marist and Adelphi University's Hudson Valley location, both in Poughkeepsie.

The Center for Creative Education, an after-school wellness and cultural education program in Midtown Kingston, provides innovative, high quality programs for low-income, minority and at-risk children and youth. The program offers classes in dance, music, fitness, theater, spoken word, computer arts technology, and the visual arts.

ENTERTAINMENT AND EVENTS

MAGNIFICENT MILESTONES

In the beginning, Meira Blaustein and Laurent Rejto created the vision and the venue. They said, “Let there be lights, camera and action.”

They saw that it was good and called it the Woodstock Film Festival, and the sleepy town with a population of 5,800 stirred in 2000.

“Nothing as far as film had ever happened here, but now, it’s become Hollywood on the Hudson,” said Blaustein, the co-founder and Executive Director. “This is our 20th year, and it’s very hard to pinpoint what’s responsible for our growth because I think so much of it is organic.

“I remember the first year. People came from all parts of the country and the world, and I have to say, I dreaded that. I kept thinking, ‘They’re coming from all these big places. They’re going to turn around and go home;’ but that didn’t happen. These people came back and told their friends, and year after year, the word spread,” she said.

The opener drew 1,000 people and screened 75 movies in the sole venue of Woodstock. Two decades later, upwards of 16,000 attend the festival and year-round events; an average of 150 films, including world premieres, and four additional towns participate in the five-day festival each fall.

IndieWire, in fact, has named it one of the world’s top 50 film festivals, while Hollywood Reporter has praised it for “endorsing community, advocating inspiration and lauding humanitarian gestures.”

Each year, it draws industry luminaries and movie stars and features panels, parties and concerts. The festival further showcases the region as a stage for filmmaking.

Since 2000, more than 500 films, including big-budget productions, have been made in the Hudson Valley, a testament to the region’s assets and hard work of festival founders.

Blaustein credited the “artistic-embracing community” for the festival’s renown and noted area growth since its start.

“The festival has a lot of power and spurs economic development, entertainment, tourism, jobs and career opportunities. It works on so many different levels for the local community, film community, industry leaders and the press. It spurs so many different constituents.”

Fittingly, the festival marked its 20th year with a tribute to independent filmmakers, Blaustein said.

“It will be very contemporary but have a serious nod to the past and those who have contributed to the major changes we have seen in the past 20 years, including the whole Digital Revolution. We want to recognize the giants and legends who have made it happen.”

Speaking of milestones, the O+ Festival in Kingston is celebrating its 10th year with the theme “X” (Roman numeral for 10).

“It will be our most inventive and fun festival yet,” said Joe Condra, Executive Director of the nonprofit founded by a group of artist-activists and health practitioners.

“We’re celebrating 10 years together as a community and, with our partners, we’ll be teaming up with a lot of the nonprofits and using O+ as a platform for more community engagement. We have more programming for a more diverse community, and we’re going deeper into neighborhoods with murals, stages or conferences.”

The premise behind the festival is that underinsured artists create and perform in exchange for services donated by doctors, dentists and complementary care providers.

The result is more than 4,000 health clinic visits and 1,000 dental visits since its inception in 2010. It also is worth noting that O+ has grown into a national nonprofit working in various cities.

By virtue of our deep grasp of the power of arts to transform communities, Ulster County is a vortex of creative energy.

We are home to the Ulster Performing Arts Center, which routinely brings in national names and is a cultural, economic and social asset for Midtown Kingston and beyond.

A stage is set in the Catskill Mountains each summer as the Phoenicia International Festival of the Voice spotlights some of the world’s top vocalists.

Foodies flock to New Paltz for the Hudson Valley RibFest and the Ulster County Fair, known for its strong agricultural roots.

For a different indulgence, Maverick Concerts engages and inspires each summer with music in all genres, while Hunter Mountain brings out the cowboy in all of us at the Taste of Country Music Festival.

HEALTH AND WELLNESS

COMPASSIONATE CARE

When it comes to health care, Ulster County has your back.

Visit one of CareMount Medical's many locations in the Hudson Valley and NYC, with three offices in Ulster County- Kingston, Highland, and New Paltz.

The Kingston campus offers internal and family medicine, pediatrics, OB/GYN, ophthalmology, orthopedics, and more. The Highland office offers health care services for pediatric patients. CareMount's Family Medicine office in New Paltz has relocated to 264 Main Street in the ShopRite Plaza.

"For more than 70 years, CareMount Medical has been offering health care close to home. We work every day to deliver patient-centered care that is both convenient and compassionate with best-in-class physicians who are proud to serve our patients in the communities we serve," says Dr. Scott Hayworth, CareMount Medical's President and CEO.

CareMount Medical's approach to health care delivery is patient-centric, providing patients quality care and the ability to manage their health care 24/7, from anywhere, anytime, online.

If you have an elderly loved one who needs care, the locally owned Golden Hill Nursing & Rehabilitation Center in Kingston promises excellent care in a homelike setting with empathy and compassion. The center, which was recently given a 5-star rating by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, also offers a high staff-to-patient ratio.

The former county-owned nursing home, which has undergone millions of dollars in renovations in the last four years, offers post-acute care, skilled nursing and rehab and long-term care.

"We treat our residents, their family, friends, and staff with dignity, kindness, benevolence, and respect to encourage a meaningful experience," reads the center's website.

Golden Hill also offers stroke, cardiac and orthopedic rehab, comprehensive skin and wound care, adult day care, Alzheimer's and hospice services among its services.

Administrator Jeff Hoffman said Golden Hill also recently added gift and coffee shops for residents and families.

Among the other facilities offering similar care include the Ten Broeck Center for Rehabilitation & Nursing in Lake Katrine; ArchCare at Ferncliff Nursing & Rehabilitation, which was recently taken over by the Archdiocese of New York; Woodland Pond at New Paltz; and Ivy Lodge Assisted Living.

Meanwhile, our top-notch local hospitals are growing and expanding.

HealthAlliance Hospitals, members of the Westchester Medical Center Health Network, have earned national recognition for outstanding patient care and innovative medical and surgical treatments at their two Kingston campuses.

With board-certified physicians in more than 20 specialties supported by highly trained technologists, nurses and social workers, HealthAlliance has earned topmost accreditations, certifications and awards validating its culture of best practices.

HealthAlliance also is responsible for $266 million in economic impact, a U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis estimate indicates—plus more than $45 million in community benefit activities, which seek to improve the community's overall health and access to care. The hospital system employs nearly 2,000 people, more than any other county employer.

HealthAlliance is in the process of a $92.9-million expansion and renovation of its Mary's Avenue Campus. The three-year project will create patient-centric, state-of-the-art facilities with advanced technology. All emergency and inpatient care will move to the new, single-campus hospital.

The Broadway Campus will then be converted into a regional "health village," anchored by integrated primary and behavioral healthcare services, with a full range of medical and complementary specialties structured to support and help patients move toward healthier lifestyles.

Then there's the multispecialty health care groups Health Quest Medical Practice (HQMP) and The Heart Center, which provide compassionate care to meet the needs of patients in Ulster County. Highly skilled and compassionate providers offer primary care and everything from obstetrics to cancer treatment.

Patients can access care in Kingston, Highland, Modena, Woodstock, Boiceville, Saugerties, and Ellenville, while being connected to a newly combined seven-hospital health care system called Nuvance Health with 2,600 physicians in the Hudson Valley and western Connecticut.

In addition, HQMP is setting up shop in the Hudson Valley Mall in the town of Ulster, a $20-million investment into the local economy that will bring about 40

The 88,000-square-foot space was detached from the rest of the mall to create a walk-in urgent care, lab for blood work and full spectrum of medical imaging services. That project is in addition to an $8-million multispecialty practice, which opened its doors on Route 299 in Highland in 2018, two years after the $1.8-million Kingston Plaza HQMP site.

Ellenville Hospital officials are planning a new, larger facility to replace the current 50-year-old building. The plan calls for more of an outpatient facility and enlarged ER.

Health care in the Hudson Valley has certainly expanded in the quality and quantity of excellent facilities.

CHERISHING OUR PAST

There's nothing wrong with textbooks, but if you really want to learn history, the best way is to see where it happened. Tangibly experiencing places like the Senate House State Historic Site can bring dry facts and figures to life and give one a better understanding of important events.

So says Aaron Robinson, the historic site manager at the museum, which last year alone drew more than 45,000 visitors.

Owned and operated by the New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation, the museum in Kingston's historic Stockade District houses colonial-era furniture, artifacts and documents and is frequented by costumed Revolutionary War re-enactors.

"One of the great things is we get people from all over, and it's great to share the history of the Senate House and the story of Abraham Van Gaasbeek," Robinson said.

As it goes, the merchant had rented out a room in his modest stone house to members of the New York State Senate in 1777. It was a turbulent time as the British aimed to torch Kingston, the state's first capital. When the senators learned that the Red Coats were near, they adjourned and fled. The British then set fire to every house as punishment for the colonists' sedition.

The story, of course, doesn't end there. The following day, General John Burgoyne surrendered his army at the Battle of Saratoga, representing a turning point in the American Revolution.

"No matter where they're from, people are struck by what was going on here when the senators met in a person's home and the whole notion of a government on the run," Robinson said. "It's a great spot to learn about the history of the area and the country, and we try to tell that story in as many ways we can."

One way that happens is through hands-on programs throughout the year, including a maple-sugaring event in the winter, an Independence Day celebration, a history camp in the summer and an autumn festival each October.

On top of that, educational programs like the spring lecture and panel discussion exploring the origins of slavery in New Netherland help shed further light on our early history.

"These events give a glimpse into the daily lives of people from the 18th century. Our visitors are able to engage in more tactile ways," Robinson said.

Because Ulster history dates back to 1614, preservation of our important documents is key to understanding where we came from.

The Ulster County Hall of Records was created in 1987 to provide a secure and safe environment for such documents. The state-of-the-art facility on Foxhall Avenue maintains three separate areas, including a records storage area, an archival vault and an electronic-microfilm media vault. Together, they have the capacity to store 31,612 cubic feet of records.

Among the items stored in the archival vault are books, maps, and papers, with the oldest, known as the Stockade Bond, dating as far back as 1658.

"That was the declaration of Gov. Peter Stuyvesant to create the Stockade area for protection," said Ulster County Clerk Nina Postupack, who oversees the Hall of Records. "We also have original Dutch records and their English translations as well as all the Ashokan Reservoir records."

Many of these valuable records are individually wrapped and stored, and a specially designed fire-suppression system further protects them.

"Ulster County's rich history and culture bring us together as a community," Postupack said. "The archives have touched the lives of many with access to its collection of historic Dutch and English colonial records, naturalization, census, marriage and others of special interest to genealogists, scholars and students of history both young and old. The county clerk's archives hold some of the oldest and most unique records in the country, and it is our privilege to care for them."

When it comes to heritage, Historic Huguenot Street in New Paltz stands among our nation's richest repositories. The 10-acre settlement includes seven original stone houses occupied by French Protestants, a burial ground, visitor center, and a reconstructed 1717 Huguenot church.

The Hudson River Maritime Museum provides a window to our past as a major river port, while the Volunteer Firemen's Hall and Museum preserves the history of firefighting in Kingston and Ulster County. Meanwhile, the Irish Cultural Center Hudson Valley and Ulster County Italian American Foundation promote programs that honor ethnic traditions brought to the area by immigrants.

HOMES AND LIFESTYLES

WE'VE GOT YOUR STYLE

Ulster County features every home style imaginable. We have our share of old stone houses dating to the colonial era. Up the block, a row of Victorian painted ladies makes a striking statement. On the next street, you'll run into contemporary gems or comfortable ranch-style homes.

We also specialize in unconventional and smaller abodes offering energy efficient living spaces meant to reduce your carbon footprint. The glass-heavy structures from Modern Shacks are a favorite of New Yorkers looking to escape the bustle of the city. In fact, one side of the building is typically all glass to take in the picturesque view of Ulster County.

"We like to bring the outside in," said Kristabelle McDermott, who owns the company along with Sarkis Simonian. "Pretty much anywhere in Ulster County or the Hudson Valley, there's always a beautiful view whether it's mountains, trees or streams."

Drivers along state Route 28 in Kingston can see Modern Shack's model, which is all of 625 square feet.

"That sounds small, but you can put a lot of living in a small space," McDermott said. "A lot of our clients come up from the city and they love this area for the beauty and nature. They want something simple and modern."

McDermott said most clients also want something small, but the company has designed 2,000-square-foot homes as well. Others want a small living space on their property for guests, Air Bnbs, art studios, pool houses and writing nooks. The cost is around $260 a square foot before kitchen and bathroom finishes.

"All of our homes are completely customizable in size, shape, layout and design," she said. "We design them around our clients' needs. They are custom-built on site. We handle everything from A to Z as far as permitting and everything else. We're happy to be able to give people what they want from the ground up."

Ulster County's relatively low cost of living, beautiful surroundings and clean environment continue to draw weekenders and new residents escaping the stress of New York City and other parts of the country. They find they can live here inexpensively, while still being close to Gotham, not to mention major highways and airports like Albany International.

The median home value in Ulster County is $227,700. Ulster County's home values have gone up 5.7 percent over the past year and it's predicted they will continue to rise.

With a plethora of older homes dotting our streets, one of the places to go for supplies to keep them in top shape is N&S Supply and Bath Classics Showroom, which has six locations throughout the Hudson Valley, including Kingston.

N&S, which was founded during the Great Depression as a second-hand retail business, features plumbing, heating, HVAC and bathroom remodeling supplies. The second floor of the N&S location in Kingston features an impressive bathroom showroom.

It's also the place to go for energy efficient water heaters, replacement parts, pipes and fittings, kitchen and bathroom faucets, and even tools.

Williams Lumber & Home Centers, headquartered in Rhinebeck, is a family-owned business that has been around since 1946 supplying hardware, lumber, building materials, millwork, masonry and more.

Williams Lumber operates eight stores throughout the Hudson Valley, including a High Falls location. The Rhinebeck headquarters recently underwent renovations and a grand reopening.

In Kingston, Herzog's Home & Paint Center at the Kingston Plaza has been an institution since 1909 and carries a full line of kitchen and bathroom products and fixtures, wall coverings, premium paint from Benjamin Moore and custom fabrics and hardware. Herzog's last year completed a full renovation of its Design Center, which includes a kitchen & bath showroom.

You can also find what you're looking for Cabinet Designers and Security Plumbing and Heating Supply, both in Kingston.

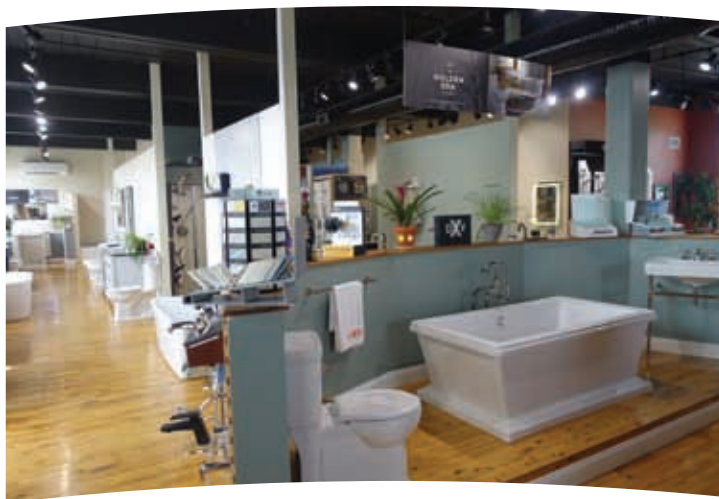

Don't forget about Builders FirstSource, Route 32 in Rosendale, which supplies structural building materials running the gamut from cabinets to columns, railings to roofing and shutters to shingles.

When you need rental equipment to fix up your home, Partner Rentals in Kingston is a great choice. The family-owned company offers a wide array of equipment, mostly catering to contractors and homeowners.

IRRESISTIBLE INDULGENCES

Ulster County is just the place to escape the big city lights, cacophony of sirens, concrete skyline and crazy high rents.

Word has quickly spread among city dwellers being priced out of home ownership that our little piece of paradise is where you can look up and see the stars from your porch, a rolling field from your window, or delightful shops and restaurants just up the block.

Fact is, many from urban areas like Brooklyn have found their path to the American dream right here in Ulster County, whether it's a fetching, old farm or stone house in need of some loving touches, a new build or a condo/townhouse.

Filling those newly acquired homes with treasures is a breeze with stores like exit nineteen nearby. The 2,200-square-foot shop in Uptown Kingston offers a well-curated stash of mid-century modern furnishings, art, lighting, accessories and gifts.

"What we do is offer something different," said John Krenek, who co-owns the store with partner Jamie Niblock. "Most of our work is actually interior design, and we're very fortunate to travel the world with our clients. Getting to travel all over the place, we find unique items and bring them into the store. We fill it with all these things you don't see elsewhere and that we would put in our own home."

Krenek and Niblock, whose design work has been featured in the New York Times, Esquire and Elle Decor, make regular trips to Paris and even Morocco to find one-of-a-kind treasures. Exit nineteen features a mix of old and new, ranging from sofas and table lamps to bottle openers and soup bowls.

"We commonly hear our clients say, 'It's so unique. It's so beautiful. Where did you get this?' The store really has something for everyone from $5 to $5,000. We want people to be taken away and leave with something that's very special," Krenek said.

As an added bonus, shoppers can hire the owners to design their abode. Krenek and Niblock have done projects in the Hamptons, Dallas, Miami, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Chicago.

"We're constantly shopping—whether it be for our design clients or our store—what we call an 'emporium of style,'" Krenek said.

Another option for those looking to embellish an already-established or new home is Wiedy's Furniture Center on state Route 28 in Kingston. In business since 1954, Wiedy's has earned the trust of the community over the decades and established relationships with its customers.

"I hear it all the time," said Sharlene Martin, the marketing coordinator. "Couples who bought bedrooms from us 45 years ago come in and say, 'It was great quality that's lasted, but now it's time for a change.' They want that same great experience all these years later."

Wiedy's, a third-generation, family-owned company, is an authorized dealer of brands like Ashley, Bassett and Flexsteel. Martin said the store goes the extra mile to offer stupendous customer service.

"We have our own service department, and we've kept our same furniture lines for years. A lot of the manufacturers have outsourced to China and Indonesia, but we stick with furniture produced in the United States," she said.

There are plenty of other options for shopaholics in search of dandy items for the home. Now occupying two locations in Kingston, including the legendary Doll House, is Maria Mendoza's Marigold Home packed with dreamy furniture, home decor and gifts.

For that vintage vibe, step inside Milne Antiques and Designs in Downtown Kingston, where you'll spy everything from garden sculptures and French-made chandeliers to retro couches from the 1950s.

Do-it-yourselfers find everything they need at Herzog's Home and Paint Centers in Kingston, and then make sure to head over to Tender Land Home in Phoenicia for rustic home accents, beautiful lamps, rugs and accessories.

For tourists, stores like Potter Brothers Ski Shop in Kingston is a one-stop destination for those hitting our famous slopes. After a day of skiing, visit the boutiques at Emerson

Wiedy's Furniture Center

Place in Mount Tremper, or head to Uptown Kingston, where Bop to Tottom's playful apparel and accessories will enchant style mavens.

Ulster County's shops truly rival the metropolises for transplants, locals or tourists craving a singular experience.

SPORTS AND RECREATION

COME FOR THE VIEW, STAY TO PLAY

The breathtaking mountain vistas, the bubbling streams, the clean air. Yes, bicycling through the Catskills will leave you with indelible images of one of America's most beautiful areas. Just ask the women who take part each May in the Woodstock Women's Cycling Grand Prix, the only weekend bike race for women in North America.

Founder Martin Bruhn said Ulster County features a unique mix of geography, a picturesque landscape and hospitality. It was the perfect place to bring women's bicycling into the mainstream.

"When you consider the beauty of the area, that in and of itself is a huge draw because it's great to ride where the sights are to be remembered," Bruhn says. "That's not to say riding in Utah and Colorado isn't magnificent and memorable, but here our race is at the beginning of May, spring is here, the trees are beginning to bud and we have this amazing topography."

"The Catskill Park is filled with everything from flat roads to short roads to the side of a mountain."

The Woodstock Women's Grand Prix has expanded to three days—Friday, Saturday and Sunday—and has been held in Phoenicia, Woodstock and Saugerties.

"There was no marque event for women in the U.S. racing-wise, and the doping scandals were putting a taint on competitive cycling, so we thought why not change all that by holding a women's-only bicycling race? That's what we did. The focus is all on women," Bruhn said.

The event, which will also be held in part in Kingston in 2020, is gaining popularity. Bruhn said 68 women took part in 2018 and 132 in 2019.

"If you're a spectator and you want to see excitement, women's bicycle racing is going to be the magnet," Bruhn said. "The Olympics are coming in 2020. We really want to be a highlighted sport. We want to be a destination race. This is a unique event for Ulster County. It's a unique event for North America."

Ulster County is also a destination for hiking, water sports, fishing, skiing, golf, and a host of other sports. The area's reputation as a hiking destination is getting a boost with the development of a series of rail trails featuring two corridors and two hubs.

There's the O&W Rail Trail Corridor, which follows the Rondout

Creek and the former D&H Canal, while the Wallkill Valley Rail Trail Corridor ranges south from Kingston into southern Ulster County.

Meanwhile, the Hudson Valley Rail Trail Corridor extends from the western end of the Walkway Over the Hudson in Highland. The newest addition to Ulster County's trail system is the U&D Corridor, extending 48 miles west from Kingston to the base of Belleayre Mountain. A temporary trail along a short section of the U&D was constructed by the county in 2018 and called the Midtown Linear Park.

The rail trails are just the beginning of the fun if you love nature. The 23,000-acre Minnewaska State Park Preserve, located in the Shawangunk Mountains, offers hiking, rock climbing, scuba diving and more. The 8,000-acre Mohonk Preserve in New Paltz is the state's largest nonprofit nature preserve.

In the winter, you can see cars with ski racks exiting the Thruway in Kingston and heading north to Windham Mountain and Hunter Mountain resorts and the Belleayre Ski Center in Highmount.

People also come from all over to the 127-acre Cantine Veterans Memorial Complex in Saugerties. Baseball tournaments—at all levels—can be found there in the spring and summer. It's also the home of the Saugerties Stallions, which play in the Perfect Game Collegiate Baseball League (PGCBL).

If you get your kicks from soccer, try the Kingston Stockade semi-pro team, which is drawing huge and enthusiastic crowds at Dietz Stadium.

There's also nothing as exhilarating as teeing off at our many golf courses and watching your drives disappear amid the mountain backdrops. Among our courses are the Woodstock Golf Club, Apple Greens in Highland, and The Twaalfskill Club and Wiltwyck Golf Club in Kingston.

Ulster County is also home to a host of recreational activities including Wood 'n Wheel Family Fun Center in Ulster Park; the Hudson Valley Sportsdome in Milton; and Northeast Off-Road Adventures in Ellenville.

TOURISM

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

Mary Joy Lu and her team at Rail Explorers really put the pedal to the metal when it came to launching their rail car ride attraction in 2018. All told, 14,000 riders came aboard the newest tourist attraction on the tracks of the historic Ulster and Delaware Railroad between Phoenicia and Boiceville.

The unforgettable ride on custom-designed, pedal-powered bikes takes passengers for an 8-mile round trip that runs along the Esopus Creek and through the woods of the Catskill Mountains.

“Many of the tours were sold-out. It was in high demand,” said Lu, who, with her husband, Alex Catchpoole, owns the Catskills Rail Explorers as well as similar ones in Rhode Island and Nevada. “People of all ages are able to do this. We’re super family-friendly and multi-generational.”

“What’s been terrific is the whole project has been a labor of love to preserve the rails out there, and the community embraced us. It’s really benefited all the businesses around us,” she said.

The “soft adventure” begins at the Empire State Railway Museum as riders take their seats on vehicles, equipped with steel wheels and hydraulic disc brakes. Pedal-pushing passengers literally become the engine that powers the hands-free rail bike on the scenic journey. A waterfront picnic area serves as the halfway mark, where passengers disembark before heading back to the station.

“For about half the trip, you’re traveling right by the Esopus, so you see it from the beginning of spring when it’s high because of the snow melt. In the fall, you pedal past golden, orange and red leaves that just take your breath away,” Lu said, adding that it’s ecotourism at its best.

“Rail Explorers primarily seeks to reuse track that no longer is economically viable as a transport route. We don’t use any pesticides on the track. We do the old-fashioned work of mowing the track’s 8 miles, and that means the experience riders get is really unique. They’re riding on a carpet of grass, and on some tracks, it’s a 360-degree panorama of trees. It’s really magical.”

As far as tourism dollars go, another big-time gravy train for Ulster County is the Kingston-based Catskill Mountain Railroad. The heritage attraction chugs serious bucks into the area. Last year alone, it had a total estimated economic impact of more than $5 million, according to

Matt Gillis, the business manager.

A good number of riders came from outside the area, with 21 percent from metropolitan New York as well as neighboring counties. With themed rides from spring through fall, it’s just the ticket for family fun, Gillis said.

“It’s unique. There’s nothing like it around. We’re really focused on family-friendly, wholesome entertainment,” he added.

By far, the biggest attraction of the year is The Polar Express, inspired by the Warner Brothers film. Last year, it drew close to 27,000 pajama-clad passengers, who enjoyed games, singalongs and a cameo from Santa Claus.

A former railroad bridge across the Hudson also had its share of visitors this year. 2019 marked the 10th anniversary of the Walkway Over the Hudson. Every month, events and outreaches commemorating the milestone took place.

Since it opened some 5 million people have crossed the historic span, including close to 600,000 last year. New welcome centers on both the Dutchess and Ulster sides have added to the overall experience of the regional attraction.

Beyond the 212-foot-high bridge, skiers assemble at Belleayre and Windham mountains each year to take the winter plunge. Skydive the Ranch in Gardiner offers free-falling summer excitement for novice and accomplished skydivers.

For a purely mouth-watering experience, Town Tinker Tube Rentals in Phoenicia invites tubers to meander the Esopus Creek.

The perfect first stop for tourists coming into our culturally rich region is Congressman Maurice D. Hinchey Catskills Visitor Center in Mount Tremper, known as the “Gateway to the Catskills.”

Once here, families wanting to horse around make tracks to Pine Ridge Dude Ranch or The Rocking Horse Ranch while bon vivants marvel at our storied resorts like the Mohonk Mountain House, a Victorian castle on the Shawangunk Ridge, which has hosted presidents, actors, diplomats, and naturalists.

Or how about a spine-tingling experience at the Headless Horseman Hayrides and Haunted Houses in Ulster Park, rated the spookiest attraction in America.

Whether you’re in pursuit of ghosts or a leisurely train ride, Ulster County has the inside track to fun.
