LETTER FROM THE CHAMBER PRESIDENT

Welcome to the 2021 Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce
Community Resource Guide and Membership Directory

This is the space reserved for the President of the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce to put on his rose-colored glasses and look with enthusiasm to the year ahead. I do so as we are ending the most difficult year in our memory as Covid-19 affected every local small business in our region.

2020 also showed the true strength and character of Ulster County's small business community. I can't recall a time when we've seen our community come together, so eagerly and determined, working as one for the good of all.

Strangers reached out to assist healthcare workers. Restaurant owners gave free meals to first responders. Small businesses purchased PPE for frontline workers. Neighbors helped neighbors. New relationships were formed. Hope was everywhere. Businesses were thankful to be open and were embracing the new mantra of the pandemic: We Are All in This Together!

In 2021 and beyond, your Ulster Chamber of Commerce is here to remind everyone, Chamber Members, as well as the local community, that this will not be a success story without everyone pitching in. We need all 188,000 residents of Ulster County to keep all your business local.

Together we can make a difference.

Together we can improve our local economy.

SHOP LOCAL - BUY LOCAL - KEEP IT LOCAL

We all do that and there's no pandemic that can stop us.

DROP YOUR BAGS AND ENJOY

John Wayne once said that courage is being scared to death but saddling up anyway. After all, that's just what cowboys do. As evidence, let's drop in at Pine Ridge Dude Ranch in Kerhonkson. The Western-style resort stands strong, even though it got sideswiped for a spell by the pandemic.

Witness the pleasant pastures, happy horses, robust riding programs, stellar staff and gratified guests making their way around the 150-acre property in the foothills of the Catskill Mountains.

"We're all about bringing people together," said owner Mike Offner, tipping his Stetson to guests checking in for the weekend.

They're smiling and preparing for all-inclusive family fun. They've been doing that since Independence Day weekend when Pine Ridge reopened with strict COVID-19 guidelines in place. At every turn, you could spy hand-sanitizing stations or employees wiping down common areas. Temperature checks at the door and masks were mandatory. Meals were served outdoors in the socially distanced picnic area. In short, the ranch exceeded New York State Health Department guidelines for safety.

While the ranch operated at half capacity, Offner and his team remained upbeat. For sure, this wasn't their first rodeo.

"We just reopened two years ago, so reopening for us wasn't that much of a challenge," Offner said. "This was just another mountain to climb. It took true grit."

The ranch, formerly known as Pinegrove Ranch and Family Resort, had fallen on hard times years ago and was shuttered in the fall of 2017. Magic happened in January 2018 when Offner and two investors purchased the property.

Ever since, the new owners have renovated all buildings and grounds, while staying true to the original wrangler spirit introduced at the resort decades ago. Since it was reinvented in 2018, it has earned countless awards such as ranking among the top 10 family resorts in the nation by familyvacationcritic.com.

Another award-winning stopover is the Forsyth B&B, known as the "perfect home base for the modern explorer." Named the "Best B & B Breakfast" in the region by Hudson Valley Magazine in 2018 and the Reader's Favorite B & B in the 2020 Chronogrammys, this handsome bed and breakfast on Abeel Street in Downtown Kingston offers guests a cosmopolitan experience.

"Our secret sauce is that we take extremely good care of our guests anticipating their needs, feeding them delicious food, giving them a clean and safe environment and making sure that they have enough information to enjoy all the cultural and natural assets of Kingston and the Hudson Valley," said innkeeper Tamara Ehlin.

Choose from four chic and cozy rooms with private baths as well as the newly renovated barn loft overlooking the garden courtyard.

Pine Ridge Dude Ranch

One thing sure to pop out is the property's stunning midcentury artistry.

"I come from a family of artists, so almost every piece in the house was done by a family member or dear friend," Ehlin said. "We also collect things that interest us. It could be from a yard sale or an auction—as long as we find it interesting."

Aside from the look and feel of the 1830's house, guests are sure to swoon over Ehlin's culinary presentations. Travelers rave about her ricotta fritters, potato latkes and fresh fruit bowls.

While COVID remains a risk, she has made some changes that include serving non-communal meals, requiring guests to wear masks outside their rooms and following all CDC guidelines for sanitation. Ehlin said she looks forward to a return to normalcy.

An abundance of overnight accommodations that include the nature-inspired Emerson Resort and Spa in Mount Tremper, the bohemian Hotel Dylan in Woodstock and the jaw-dropping gorgeous Buttermilk Falls Inn and Spa offer visitors the opportunity to experience nature, culture and fine dining in our region.

Boutique destinations like Diamond Mills Hotel and Tavern in Saugerties positively glimmer, while Honor's Haven Retreat and Conference Center in Kerhonkson beckons majestically from Ellenville. Historic landmarks like Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz enchants, and Rocking Horse Ranch Resort in Highland teems with adventure.

We also have our share of familiar hotel chains like the Best Western Plus Kingston Hotel and Conference Center; Howard Johnson Inn in Saugerties; Quality Inn and Suites, Hampton Inn by Hilton, Residence Inn by Marriott, Courtyard by Marriott and Holiday Inn Express, all located in Kingston. Holiday Inn Express Saugerties has recently opened with majestic views of the Catskill Mountains.

For more intimate experiences, try Mountain Meadows B & B in New Paltz, Woodstock Inn on the Millstream, Schwartz's Inn and the new Hotel Kinsley in Kingston.

Whatever bed you choose, it's going to feel like home.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

PUTTING US ON THE MAP

The times they are a changin'.

Bob Dylan once called Ulster County home and, if he saw Kingston today, he might be inclined to quietly hum one of his most famous songs. Many of the venerable brick factories remain to remind us of our rich past, but those buildings are quickly filling up with modern tech companies like Exago, a growing software firm.

"We were in Uptown Kingston for a number of years and we knew we needed more space," explained Stewart Meyers, a co-founder and Exago's chief technology officer.

The company moved to Midtown into the former Fuller Shirt Factory on Pine Grove Avenue in 2020 and announced plans to add more than 100 jobs in the next few years.

Exago, which began in 2006, currently employs 80 people, 40 of whom are in Kingston, and boasts an impressive list of clients, including Walmart, Lockheed Martin, KPMG and Deloitte.

"We would love to be able to hire more locally," Meyers said. "We are hiring quite a few people, even now."

Meyers said Kingston and Ulster County remain an attractive destination for New Yorkers escaping the rat-race or COVID-19. He grew up in Brooklyn and said the brick-façade buildings and vibrant arts scene in Kingston remind him of his hometown.

"Kingston is becoming more of a known entity," he said. "There are a lot of people from the city, particularly Brooklyn, who are moving up this way. Kingston is a great place to come to. It has that kind of feel. It's a small city but has a bit of a feel of Brooklyn."

While the local economy has taken a hit from COVID-19, Meyers is confident we're on the comeback. He has immersed himself in the community and joined community groups studying how to improve the economy.

"I'm positive in my gut that it's going to come back. I really do believe that this city has so much to offer," he said. "Besides being a city with lots of things going on, it's got tons of beautiful parks and nature."

"That's why I came up here. You can even go back and forth to New York City in a day for a bit of big city fun. I think it just has a wonderful combination of things."

Ulster County is also home to many longstanding family-owned businesses such as Boice Brothers Dairy, which like Exago, calls Midtown Kingston home at 62 O'Neill St.

Founded in 1914, Boice offers several varieties of milk, half-and-half, cottage cheese, sour cream, butter, eggs, fruit juices and drinks, ice cream and ice cream cakes. Everything is produced at local dairy farms that are part of the Hudson Valley Fresh Dairy Farmer Partnership.

The products can be found at several retail locations in Ulster County, or at Boice's Milk House, a popular Midtown gathering spot.

Since IBM left Ulster County in the mid-1990s, the area has recreated itself and diversified with a galaxy of star businesses leading the way. Many of our products go all around the world, including movies from the burgeoning film industry that has taken

Rifton-based WineRacks.com provides high-end wine accessories and storage products for international customers. Meanwhile, music lovers all over the world order windchimes, sun catchers, bells and gongs from Woodstock Chimes. The owner knows about music and sounds—he's Grammy Award-winning musician Garry Kvistad.

America has always made a manufacturing comeback in recent years and Ulster County went along for the ride.

Howmet Fastening Systems, formerly known as Arconic, located in the Kingston Business Park, makes tools to install fasteners in the commercial transportation, aerospace, rail, automotive and solar industries.

Among our prominent manufacturers are Usheco, Excelsior Wood Products, Community Manufacturing Solutions, Bailey Pottery Equipment Co., WCD Windows, JBT John Bean Technologies Corp., R & F Handmade Paints Inc, and LHV Precast Inc, all in Kingston.

Simulaids, ImmuneSchein, Stainless Design Concepts, and Ceres Technologies are located in Saugerties.

Then there's Optimum Windows in Ellenville, Fair-Rite Products Corp in Wallkill, Ametek Rotron in Woodstock and Zumtobel and Selux Corp., a pair of Highland lighting companies shining bright.

Ulster County is also home to several businesses in the growing solar industry, including Prism Solar Technologies in Highland, SunCommon in Rhinebeck, Lighthouse Solar in New Paltz and PLUGPV Solar in Saugerties.

The times may be a changin', but Ulster County is adapting in a exciting kind of way.

A COMMUNITY THAT CARES

LEVELING THE PLAYING FIELD WITH LOVE

Ever since she was a child, Stacey Rein has felt the pull to make things better for others. She grew up between the Bronx and Scarsdale and witnessed the demarcation of two distinct worlds—the “haves” and the “have nots.”

“Seeing the impact of income inequality was very disturbing to me,” said Rein, president and CEO of the United Way of Ulster County. “I felt strongly, as early as high school, that I wanted to do something about it to even the playing field so that everyone had an equal opportunity to achieve their full potential.”

She has done so for close to 40 years. Through Rein’s inexhaustible drive, thousands of lives have been impacted for the better.

In the past year, the United Way spent $1.1 million on local programs for needy populations. Since she has been at the helm, the nonprofit has distributed $18.8 million to local programs addressing everything from homelessness to substance abuse prevention.

“Sometimes, it’s the simple things that make a difference,” Rein said. “People who call us are often brought to tears just because there was someone who took the time to listen and try to help them.

“We come into this world with unequal opportunity. I think it’s important to continually strive to lessen that inequality. Who you are born to or what neighborhood you are raised in should not dictate where you end up. At United Way, we’re trying our best to rectify that.”

From winter through fall, the United Way helped close to 800 families and 4,000 individuals during the pandemic with emergency housing, utility assistance and administered the county’s Project Resilience food and childcare programs.

Another nonprofit that rose to the challenge was Catholic Charities of Orange, Sullivan and Ulster. According to Shannon Kelly, the chief operating officer, the pandemic “stressors” brought many working poor to the agency for the first time.

“A virtual COVID support group was created to help people cope with the challenges,” she said. “Requests for all types of assistance have grown over the past six months and are expected to increase further when the eviction moratorium and other restrictions are lifted and high unemployment rates persist.”

The agency answered the call by transitioning its food pantry, which last year provided 91,000 meals, to a grab-and-go option and delivered meals to high-risk county residents. Kelly said Catholic Charities also introduced pop-up food pantries and produce markets throughout the county and assisted the non-English speaking community with information about COVID testing and stimulus benefits.

Catholic Charities, which has had a presence in Ulster for 40 years, operates the county warming center during the winter and works closely with Ellenville Regional Hospital to fight the opioid crisis. Each year, thousands of Ulster residents of all ages are served through Catholic Charities programs, regardless of religion or ability to pay.

Our charitable spirit extends through other nonprofits as well. From People’s Place, where the hungry are fed and clothed, to The Salvation Army, where the needy find a food pantry, energy assistance and gifts for Christmas, we wear our hearts on our sleeves.

Others like Family of Woodstock, Ulster County Habitat for Humanity, the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, the YWCA Ulster County, the Ulster Literacy Association and the Community Foundation of Ulster County provide help for our struggling neighbors.

The disabled population finds support at The Arc Mid-Hudson, the Resource Center for Accessible Living, and Gateway Hudson Valley while those facing end-of-life issues are comforted through Hudson Valley Hospice and Circle of Friends for the Dying.

We furthermore invest directly in the lives of our children, unlocking their potential with programs like the Boys and Girls Clubs of Ulster County and the Center for Creative Education.

In Ulster County, leveling the playing field isn’t just talk. It’s sparked by love and a genuine desire to give everyone a shot at a happy, stable life.

EDUCATION

OVERCOMING COVID

COVID-19 presented many challenges for Ulster County's two colleges, but SUNY New Paltz and SUNY Ulster handled the pandemic well and were looking ahead to 2021 with optimism.

SUNY New Paltz President Dr. Donald Christian said college students were largely abiding by safety protocols.

"Our students are happy to be here, and they've been paying attention to the requirements we put in place for health and safety," he said. "We managed it well. About 75 percent of our classes were offered remotely or online in the fall."

SUNY Ulster President Dr. Alan Roberts said the Stone Ridge campus shut down in March when COVID hit, just as students were returning from spring break. Like SUNY New Paltz, the semester ended with remote learning. When it came to diplomas, students didn't get to walk across a stage, but they did get a home visit from the president.

"I personally traveled 470 miles and delivered 150 diplomas to students, which was actually a lot of fun," Roberts said. "It took me four days."

When classes resumed in the fall, Roberts said about 65 percent of the learning happened through remote modalities. Many students had a "hybrid" education with some classes online and the rest in person.

Both institutions were bracing for massive state budget cuts due to COVID, but the two schools remain among the most affordable you'll find anywhere.

SUNY New Paltz, a four-year college, offers more than 100 undergraduate and 50 graduate programs for its nearly 7,600 students. The tuition and fees for in-state students is just $8,502 a year.

"Affordability doesn't mean a lot if it doesn't come with quality," Christian said. "One of the biggest tragedies and travesties in higher education is students who incur loan debt but never graduate. That's why graduation rates are very important. Ours

Christian said the graduation rate at SUNY New Paltz is about 75 percent and he is particularly proud that first-generation, low-income, Black and Latino students are within 5 percent of that rate.

"That's just not seen in the national statistics," Christian said. "We have high graduation rates for all of our students and great equity in graduation rates."

US News & World Report magazine again placed SUNY New Paltz on its list of Best Value Colleges, ranking it 9th among public schools in the nine-state North region.

SUNY Ulster has a full-time enrollment of about 2,000, for only $2,440 per semester. BestColleges.com recently ranked SUNY Ulster the No. 1 community college in the state based on its academics, affordability and other factors.

Roberts said SUNY Ulster offers a wide variety of career-orientated 2-year programs, including such diverse offerings as nursing, veterinary technology, fashion design, manufacturing and more.

"We have a wide spectrum of both career and transfer programs available," he said. "We're a one-stop shop. Whenever someone is interested in furthering their education, whether it's for transfer or for career, you can do it here and it's reasonable. Our ranking kind of proves that we have the quality."

Other colleges in the area include Bard College in Annandale-on-the-Hudson and Marist College and Adelphi University's Hudson Valley location, both in Poughkeepsie.

Ulster County also offers a strong public education system led by the Kingston City School District, Ulster BOCES and the Onteora, Ellenville, New Paltz, and Wallkill school districts.

Our alternative choices include the Woodstock Day School and Kingston Catholic School.

Additionally, The Center for Spectrum Services meets the needs of students on the autism spectrum.

Cumulatively, Ulster County gets a grade of "A" when it comes to educational opportunities for people of every walk of life.

HEALTH AND WELLNESS

INVESTING IN OUR PEOPLE

Hippocrates once observed that “Wherever the art of medicine is loved, there is also a love of humanity.”

That’s certainly the case in Ulster County where huge investments in health care continue to be made each year and new buildings are sprouting up all over.

For example, construction is full steam ahead at HealthAlliance Hospital’s Mary’s Avenue Campus. Lieutenant Governor Kathy Hochul was on hand, joining community influencers and hospital leadership when HealthAlliance of the Hudson Valley broke ground on a $92.9 million, 127,000-square-foot expansion and enhancement of its hospital on Mary’s Avenue in Kingston.

The new hospital building, along with an extensive renovation of an existing building, will transform HealthAlliance Hospital into a 21st-century, single-campus model of first-class healthcare delivery.

HealthAlliance, a member of the Westchester Medical Center Health Network (WMCHHealth), currently has two hospital campuses in Kingston—Mary’s Avenue and Broadway.

Redeveloping the Mary’s Avenue campus is the first component of a major two-phase healthcare-advancement project.

The effort includes the consolidation of all hospital services to the Mary’s Avenue Campus and the conversion of the Broadway Campus into a walkable health village.

HealthAlliance will collaborate with community partners in the Broadway Campus health village to support the community’s physical and mental well-being through preventative and primary healthcare services, as well as healthy lifestyle counseling.

The combined construction on the two HealthAlliance campuses is expected to cost $134.9 million, with $88.8 million coming from the state. The balance will come from WMCHHealth, HealthAlliance and a capital fundraising campaign.

That’s not the only major investment being made in local health care.

Nuvance Health has redeveloped the former Macy’s department store at the Hudson Valley Mall into a $20 million multispecialty medical center. The state-of-the-art project brought together Nuvance Health’s existing Kingston-based services with newly recruited providers to best meet the needs of the nonprofit healthcare system’s patients.

An Urgent Care Center offers walk-in care for people without primary care providers or those who need flexible appointments. The center is open seven days a week and can treat a range of ailments from viral illnesses like the flu to allergic reactions and lacerations.

Appointments can be made for MRIs, CT scans, 3D mammography, ultrasounds or X-rays at the full-service outpatient imaging center manned by trained radiology staff. Bloodwork, in addition to COVID-19 diagnostic and antibody testing, are offered by Vassar Diagnostic’s satellite laboratory.

Nuvance Health also has medical practices for neurology, oncology, general and bariatric surgery in the former mall store, which now is a stand-alone facility. Many of the physicians are on the medical staff at Northern Dutchess Hospital, offering seamless access to emergency, surgical and cancer infusion care.

Nuvance Health is made up of the former Health Quest and Western Connecticut Health Network. The two systems combined in April 2019.

Another medical group expanding in Ulster County is CareMount Medical, the largest independent multispecialty medical group in the state.

CareMount came to Ulster County in 2016 by acquiring existing offices in Kingston and Highland and merging with Mid Hudson Medical Group. The company opened its third local office in New Paltz in 2018.

Ellenville Hospital continues to serve residents in southern Ulster County and recently partnered with Ulster County to provide additional care managers in the fight against opioid abuse.

While COVID-19 closed indoor health centers for much of the year, they were making a comeback in late 2020. You’ll find the Mid-Hudson Athletic Club (MAC), The YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, Kingston Athletics, AM Fit and Propel to Well, all in Kingston, and Body Be Well Pilates and Little Blueberry Yoga in Saugerties, to your liking.

Ulster County is also home to some of the most highly acclaimed spas anywhere in the world, including the Emerson Resort & Spa, Mohonk Mountain House Spa, Honor’s Haven Resort & Spa, Buttermilk Falls Inn & Spa and the fairly new Spa 21 Kingston.

Ulster County also boasts high quality nursing homes and assisted living facilities including Golden Hill Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, Ten Broeck Center for Rehabilitation & Nursing, Mountain Valley Manor Adult Care Home, Ivy Lodge Assisted Living, Woodland Pond at New Paltz and Island View Adult Family Care Home.

With all of this at our disposal, it’s no mistake that Ulster consistently ranks among the top 10 healthiest counties in New York. From our hospitals to our health clubs and spas, maintaining our health and well-being is one of our highest priorities.

HOMES AND LIFESTYLES

RED HOT MARKET

Pick your adjective, but the Ulster County housing market could fairly be described as a scalding hot seller's market eclipsing the days after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

Driven by an exodus of people leaving New York City over fears of COVID-19, many homeowners saw their homes go on the market and sell well above asking price. Cash bids, bidding wars and people buying properties sight unseen were commonplace.

"We have low inventory, which always drives prices up and there are not enough houses out there for the demand," explained Tim Sweeney, the President of the Hudson Valley Catskill Region Ulster County Multiple Listings Service Board of Directors. "It's pretty crazy and volatile right now. Things come on the market, and if it's a nice house, there are multiple offers. It's a very, very frothy market."

Sweeney said at the end of 2019, the average sale price for a home in Ulster County was $300,000, while the median was $250,000.

However, the numbers exploded after COVID-19. Sweeney said between June 1 and mid-September of 2020, the average sale price for a home in Ulster County was $393,000.

"We're going to sell more homes this year basically being closed down for two months," Sweeney said, adding that the draw to the region isn't new.

"Ulster County and the Mid-Hudson area has always been a destination," he said. "We have great recreation and people can go hiking in the mountains or boating on the Hudson. People have been coming here as second homeowners and vacationing for a long time and also retiring to this area."

"It's close enough to New York City, but far enough away and has an awful lot to offer. It's an attractive area, no question about it."

Sweeney said many New York City residents with jobs in Gotham and a second home here are choosing to make Ulster County their full-time residence.

"We've found there's great productivity in people working from their homes," he said. "It's going to be an interesting dynamic going forward. I think the county is going to see an increase in population without a doubt."

Sweeney said the rising home prices are good for current homeowners with no intention of selling right now.

"Houses that were worth $500,000 prior to COVID-19 are probably worth $600,000 now," he said.

A quick trip around Ulster County will show the wide variety of home styles. Some of our stone houses date back to the colonial era and it's not uncommon to see 18th-century homes just a block from modernity.

Long-time homeowners and new residents alike are also upgrading and modernizing their homes to make their home/work offices and home/school more comfortable at family-owned Williams Lumber & Home Centers, an institution in the area since 1946. You'll find hardware, lumber, building materials, tools, paint and more.

Williams prides itself on its educated associates and certified kitchen and bath designers. From kitchen and bath cabinetry, custom Marvin windows, Trex decking, and Benjamin Moore paint to everyday items, customers can expect to leave with everything they need.

Homeowners can also depend on Herzog's Home & Paint Center in the Kingston Plaza. The family-owned company completed a full renovation of its Design Center recently, which includes a new Kitchen & Bath showroom. They've been around since 1909 and feature a wide array of kitchen and bathroom products, wall coverings, paint and custom fabrics and hardware.

Several other companies can provide you with home building materials and accessories, including Builders FirstSource at Rosendale Lumber on state Route 32.

N&S Supply and Bath Classics Showroom, WinSupply of Kingston, Cabinet Designers, Marigold Home and EvolveD Interiors and Design are other outstanding choices.

No matter where you decide to settle, living in Ulster County comes with endless positives and the nicest neighbors around.

TOURISM

AMERICA'S BEST ESCAPES

Jeepers, creepers! The legendary headless horseman arose last fall, terrorizing guests who were safe in their vehicles at one of Ulster County's top tourist attractions. Fright masters behind the famed Headless Horseman Hayrides and Haunted Houses in Ulster Park recreated the whole experience with COVID-19 in mind, turning the wagon rides along the mile-long trail into a drive-through.

Called "Dare to Ride the Horseman's Trail," the show went on with modifications. Every 30 seconds, a waiting vehicle was ushered onto the trail at a speed of 3 mph. All around, the production unfolded with actors, animatronics, custom-built sets and pulsating pyrotechnics. Naturally, the decapitated Hessian galloped onto the scene for the ultimate chill. Once guests completed the ride, they were escorted in small groups to the haunted houses and labyrinth-style corn maze. Masks were mandatory, and scares a given.

It's no wonder. The seasonal Headless Horseman has been consistently called the "World's Best Haunted Hayride" and No. 1 Haunted Attraction in the nation.

"We're a destination," said Michael Jubie, who co-owns the horror enterprise with his wife, Nancy. "We draw from several surrounding states and across the country and the world. It takes 375 people to put this production on in a normal season. The entire experience on our property is a minimum of 2.5 hours. In addition to the hayride and haunted houses, we have tons of activities going on, including live magic shows and concessions. It's not just a Halloween show. It's a fall attraction."

The attraction also includes three hour-long escape rooms, timed adventure games that are ideal for cooperative team-building.

Ghosts and ghouls aside, Ulster County is home to several tourist attractions that showcase our rich history. The Hudson River Maritime Museum in Kingston invites guests to build a boat, take a sailing lesson or board a solar-powered vessel, the first in the nation, to see historic lighthouses.

"The location is amazing because we're right on the Rondout, the former transportation hub in Kingston," said Executive Director Lisa Cline. "It's where the D and H Canal comes out into the Rondout. We have this junction of canal and river, which was important to the development of this area, so we interpret this rich history. You learn about the whole river here, the D and H Canal, the lighthouses and the industries that were here—brick, cement, bluestone, you name it.

"We talk about boats and all those industries and how the communities played a part in the development of this area. We do a lot of hands-on activities. You can learn how to build a boat, Adirondack chair or toolbox here. You can learn how to race on sailboats, and we also teach all types of rowing. We do walking tours, lectures and history classes, so it's multi-faceted."

The museum itself boasts an impressive collection of artifacts and exhibits dating back to 17th-century explorer Henry Hudson and the role the river named after him played in the development of America.

While there, make sure to take a ride on the U.S. Coast Guard-approved Solaris, a commercial passenger vessel powered by the sun that offers tours of the Rondout and Esopus Meadows lighthouses.

More than 3 million people visit Ulster County each year for such experiences. Whether for day trips or extended stays, tourists come to hike Minnewaska State Park Preserve, board the Catskill Mountain Railroad for themed rides or step back in time at the world-famous Mohonk Mountain House, an enchanting Victorian resort in the Shawangunk Mountains.

Eco-tourist attractions like Rail Explorers in Phoenicia show our proud stewardship of the land, while Saunderskill Farms and Kelder's Farm beckon out-of-towners to pick their own berries, apples, pumpkins and more.

Want a palpitating parachute drop? Try Skydive The Ranch in Gardiner. Care to traverse the Hudson River?

Visit Walkway Over the Hudson. Who wants to pet a pig? You can at the Catskill Animal Sanctuary. Craving a history lesson? Tour Historic Huguenot Street, the Senate House State Historic Site or the Shandaken Historical Society.

The ghosts of the past, whether at Headless Horseman or our heritage historic sites, are waiting to tag along with you during your unforgettable stay in Ulster County.
