ULSTER COUNTY

NEW YORK

Creativity is alive and well in the Hudson Valley's home for arts, music and culture. Walk in the footsteps of Bob Dylan and The Band at Woodstock, catch electrifying live music at any of our venues, hike the trails of the Byrdcliffe Art Colony, and explore quirky shops and cafes on Tinker Street in the heart of Woodstock. With the majestic Catskill Mountains as your backdrop, get inspired by the place where counterculture is the culture.

LETTER FROM THE CHAMBER PRESIDENT

WELCOME TO THE 2022 ULSTER COUNTY REGIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMUNITY RESOURCE GUIDE & MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY

To the more than 1,000 members of the Ulster Chamber, our friends, and visitors to our very special region, welcome to the Annual Guide & Directory of the Ulster Chamber. This is the publication where we showcase our Chamber members and urge everyone in the Ulster Region to Shop Local ... Buy Local ... Keep it Local, each and every time you're in the market for any goods, products or services.

Our 'Shop Local' message has even more importance this year than ever, as so many local businesses are just now coming out of the most difficult period in their history. They all need your financial support.

On the positive side, however, the last two years showed the remarkable resilience of our local business community as businesses and organizations worked together to help each other, for the common good of all. Proving once again that we are blessed to be living and working in one of the most amazing regions in the country.

We truly have it all, a vibrant and strong business community, and a four-season vacationland ... all rolled into one.

Thank you for your support of the Ulster Chamber and our members, listed inside this publication. Please take this book with you and keep it on your desk, at work or at home, for a quick and easy guide to all the local businesses in our region.

They are here for you.

ACCOMMODATIONS

FROM BRICKYARDS TO CASTLES

Hutton Brickyards

Long ago on the banks of the Hudson River, hard-working men dug clay by hand and sent it to a tempering pit to be mixed and molded into the 100 million tons of bricks that would build the fastest-growing metropolis in the world.

If you use your imagination at the newly repurposed Hutton Brickyards in Kingston, you can almost see the ghosts of the 19th-century. Dust-coated men burning brick in kilns and loading the finished products onto barges heading to New York City.

The 106-acre grounds, now serving as an imaginative retreat with 31 riverside cabins, an acclaimed open-air restaurant, spa and 40,000-square-foot event space, channels nostalgia for the local brick-making industry, which at its height represented 120 manufactories employing upwards of 8,000 workers.

“Hutton Brickyards is an amazing historic site that opened in 1865,” said James Bryant, the corporate director of operations and general manager of the hotel. “After the Great Fire in New York City in 1835, an ordinance changed the building codes from wood to brick and mortar. Brick became all the rage, and all these brick-making facilities started popping up along the Hudson River.”

Hutton, which closed in 1980, was the last one standing. Real-estate developer Karl Slovin saw potential in the abandoned property and bought it seven years ago with the aim of repurposing it into a cultural hub.

He made sure to preserve the industrial architecture and features like a rare Lidgerwood crane and steel-frame kiln sheds. After a massive cleanup, Hutton Brickyards opened as the Smorgasburg open-air food market in 2016 and concert venue for Bob Dylan in 2017.

During the COVID-19 shutdowns, Slovin and his team built the tiny house-like resort that includes king and queen cabins and a spacious bridal suite known as The Cottage.

“It’s not a hotel that is clustered together. It allows people to distance and get out to enjoy activities like archery, kayaking and guided hikes,” Bryant said. “You won’t find anything like it in a big city. In fact, it’s something that you won’t see replicated anywhere.”

The amenities prove the point. Guests can raise the “thirsty” flag outside their cabins for afternoon cocktail service or settle onto Adirondack chairs by the riverside to toast marshmallow-and-chocolate sandwiches from their complimentary s’mores kit.

Because of Ulster County’s deep and varied history, many of our accommodations pay homage to bygone times. That sense of history envelops guests at the Hotel Kinsley, a campus of four boutique 19th-century buildings with 42 guest rooms in Kingston’s historic Stockade District. Developed by Charles Blachman, in partnership with Michael Barry and CBSKI, the project was the first destination hotel to open in Uptown Kingston in 2019.

The first to debut was the 10-room Wall Street Building, a circa 1860s structure that once operated as the New York State Bank. The hotel houses Restaurant Kinsley, an inspired locale run by architect-restaurateur Taavo Somer. Conceived by the esteemed Zak Pelaccio, it is now executed by veteran Chef Zach Wade.

The other buildings include the Pearl Street Building, a 1770 Georgian stone structure, Fair Street Building and John Street Building, the former homestead of Kingston Village President Henry J. Sleight, who welcomed George Washington after the British surrendered at Yorktown, Va., in 1781. Fairly new to the campus is Lola Pizza, specializing in wood-fired pizza as well as seasonally driven antipasti and pasta. Don’t miss Lola’s build-your-own ice cream option.

As a cradle of American history, Ulster County offers a diverse selection of storied accommodations such as the Mohonk Mountain House, a beguiling Victorian castle in New Paltz, or the more intimate 19th-century, four-unit Strand House on Abeel Street in Kingston. Schwartz’s Inn on North Front Street is another tasteful nod to the past as is The Forsyth B & B, an 1830s brick home in Kingston known for its casual and chic guest rooms and grand breakfasts.

Other luxury digs include Diamond Mills Hotel and Tavern in Saugerties; Buttermilk Falls Inn and Spa in Milton, Emerson Resort and Spa in Mount Tremper and Honor’s Haven Retreat and Conference Center in Ellenville.

Want something more adventurous? Saddle up at the rootin’-tootin’ Pine Ridge Dude Ranch in Kerhonkson or Rocking Horse Ranch Resort in Highland.

Ulster County also offers a myriad of familiar lodging options such as the Best Western Plus, Hampton Inn by Hilton, Courtyard by Marriott, Holiday Inn Express, Residence Inn by Marriott, and the Super 8—all in the Kingston/town of Ulster region. Go a bit farther, and you’ll find the Holiday Inn Express and Suites and the Howard Johnson Inn, both in Saugerties as well as America’s Best Value Inn and the Hampton Inn by Hilton, in New Paltz.

CREATIVITY & ADAPTABILITY PAY OFF

It's a new era for many Americans in business and professional occupations. The COVID-19 lockdowns changed the way they did their jobs—and where. As long as they had a dedicated workspace, computer, Internet connection and supportive management, telework was not only possible during the shutdowns of 2020, but it represented a wave of the future.

United Healthcare in the town of Ulster was one of the local companies that adapted to the remote model early on in the pandemic and continues to thrive with the majority of workers still telecommuting, according to Jessica Coumbes, the Director of Consumer Services.

“During the initial phases of the pandemic, we transitioned staff to work from home and have been working in this state successfully since March of 2020,” she said. “Our office is open and following all state, local and CDC guidelines around masking and social distancing. We also have enhanced sanitation and cleaning protocols at the site. We do have approximately 100 individuals on-site each day. The rest of the population continues to work from home.”

United Healthcare employs more than 1,000 workers in a range of careers from customer service and claims payment to nursing and account management.

“We have an amazing group of talented employees who really enabled the transition from office-based work to working from home to be seamless,” Coumbes said. “We had no interruptions in service to our customers when we transitioned to a mostly telecommuting workforce. We truly came together to support, answer questions, provide necessary equipment and, most importantly, provide information and updates on the consistently changing and challenging nature of the pandemic.”

As far as the future, Coumbes said United Healthcare intends to be “thoughtful” and “thorough” as it considers the post-pandemic work model.

“Our primary focus continues to be on ensuring the health, well-being and safety of our employees, so they can bring their best selves to work each day serving our customers.”

For other businesses such as restaurants, the answer was not as simple. In fact, the state suspension of indoor dining on St. Patrick's Day 2020 sent shockwaves through the local industry.

Linda Bradford, owner of Stone House Tavern in Accord, wondered how her six-month-old restaurant and others would survive. That's why she sent an urgent plea for help to the Ulster Chamber of Commerce staff.

After a lot of brainstorming, the Chamber launched Ulster Eateries United, a Facebook Group for restaurants and the public to share weekly specials, takeout and delivery options, menus, outreaches, and even what's-for-dinner photos. That effort, along with a second Facebook Group known as Ulster Small Business United and a Chamber website, solely committed to sharing helpful guidance for members, led the Business Council of New York to name the local chamber its “Chamber of the Year.”

“Ulster Eateries United has been a game-changer,” Bradford said. “It gave us a way to communicate when everyone was homebound. “Right away, it was well-received,” added Jess Davis, the Chamber’s Membership Director. “The restaurants were coming on left and right and announcing curbside and specials. They got creative very fast.”

Bradford was one of them. She quickly pivoted, opening a drive-up window, creating an outdoor space in a field behind the restaurant and using golf carts to transport food up the hill.

“I’m certainly glad I reached out to Jess,” she said. “What they’ve created is far more than I could have imagined. We have quite a few customers who said they saw our posts on Ulster Eateries United, so it definitely drove people to us.”

Nor did the pandemic spell doom for other Ulster-based businesses. With strict safety practices in place, factories like Howmet Fastening Systems in Kingston kept churning out parts for big companies like Boeing, Great Dane, Mack Truck and Ford.

Other local powerhouses such as Usheco, Optimum Windows, Zumtobel, Ametek Rotron, Excelsior Wood Products and Community Manufacturing likewise kept the products flowing, as did specialized companies like Bailey Pottery Equipment, WineRacks.com, Woodstock Chimes, Stavo Industries dba ErtelAlsop and ImmuneSchein.

Also worthy of praise is Boice’s Milk House, which kept us nourished during a challenging time.

NEW SKILLS FOR A NEW WORLD

The world and technology are changing at a frantic pace. You may look up one day and find your job skills are outdated or even obsolete. That's where the Ulster County Career Center can help.

The Career Center, located at 521 Boices Lane in Kingston, which consists of the Ulster County Office of Employment and Training and the local New York State Department of Labor Re-Employment Office, assists with resume writing, interviewing skills and job-hunting skills and resources.

Tomasine Oliphant, Director of the Ulster County Office of Employment and Training, said the Career Center funds short-term training for the most in-demand local occupations. A few of the popular areas these days are healthcare, manufacturing, green energy, new technology, truck driving, building trades and heating, air-conditioning and ventilation.

"We work with adults and youth with a priority on veterans," Oliphant said. "Eligible training providers are colleges, BOCES and private training providers. Classes are in person or online. Once the individual successfully completes the training, the training provider and our office assists with the job search."

The Career Center, located at 521 Boices Lane in Kingston alongside the state Department of Labor, also helps with resume writing, interviewing skills and job-hunting skills.

Oliphant said the Career Center also offers a Young Adult Employment Program for ages 16-24 who are not in school. "We pay the wages and benefits, and the employer provides the job and training," she said.

The center further offers an array of other services, including summer youth employment, free on-line job listings, on-the-job training, and connecting individuals with disabilities to employment and other services.

"It is very rewarding to assist people in getting the skills to put them in successful long-term employment where they earn a living wage," Oliphant said. "We help individuals on unemployment insurance, social services, disability or just not in the workforce to re-enter the workforce."

"We also assist people that are underemployed to upgrade their skills to get better jobs or go to the next level in their profession. This helps the individuals, their families and the community to be a better place to live and to work."

Given Ulster County's rural nature, farmer education and training are issues covered by the Hudson Valley Farm Hub, which was founded in 2013 and describes itself as a "non-profit center for resilient agriculture" located at the former Gill Farm in Hurley.

Sara Katz, education program manager for the Farm Hub, said the program's focus is adult farmer training, such as a 72-hour farm mechanics program that starts in January for new farmers or those who want to increase mechanization.

"I wouldn't say that we're primarily an educational organization, but education and training are a big part of what we do," Katz said.

The Farm Hub and its partners have helped farmers with business planning, financial management, goalsetting and budgeting through programs, public events and workshops.

Meanwhile, the Farm Hub also partners with colleges and educators to conduct in-field research around issues important to farmers. Katz said the Farm Hub's Language Justice Program helps train staff and the public to be bilingual in English and Spanish.

If you're looking for a bargain when it comes to higher education, you've come to the right place. Ulster County boasts two colleges that are not only affordable, but often recognized by national publications for their quality and affordability.

SUNY New Paltz, a four-year university, offers more than 100 undergraduate and 50 graduate programs for its nearly 8,000 students. The tuition and fees for in-state students are just over $8,000 a year excluding housing.

Another stellar option is SUNY Ulster, a two-year community college with a full-time enrollment of about 2,000, for only $2,440 per semester.

Ulster County Career Center

Hudson Valley Farm Hub

Three other area colleges are just across the Hudson River in Dutchess County: Bard College in Annandale-on-the-Hudson and Marist and Adelphi University's Hudson Valley location, both in Poughkeepsie.

We'll also match up our public education system with anywhere in the country. Ulster County offers the Kingston City School District, Ulster BOCES and the Onteora, Ellenville and Wallkill school districts.

Woodstock Day School is just one of the many alternative educational choices in our area, while The Center for Spectrum Services provides an excellent education to students on the autism spectrum.

HEALTH & WELLNESS

LIVING WITH COVID

It's a new day at Ellenville Regional Hospital, which rang in 2022 with a new and enlarged emergency room that provides space to isolate COVID and other infectious patients.

Steve Kelley, the hospital's President and CEO, said the $4-million project increased the ER's square footage from 3,500 to 8,000.

"Our new ER department is now two and a half times the size of the one we had before," he said. "It's been substantially enlarged and modernized. It's state-of-the-art and has all the latest and greatest technology. The main function is to be able to serve COVID patients and those with other infectious diseases that require a great deal of isolation."

Kelley said Ellenville Hospital was hit hard during COVID's second wave. The hospital transferred acutely ill COVID patients to surrounding hospitals for care, but got them back for rehabilitation, including those "long haulers" suffering from lingering COVID side effects like brain fog, balance, gait and respiratory problems.

"We see them on the back end rather than the front," Kelley said. "That's our specialty basically. In the second wave, we saw a lot of patients. We've been busy. We're doing a lot of COVID rehabilitation, both inpatient and outpatient."

The unprecedented pandemic has also caused a priority shift across Nuvance Health, with a focus on telehealth appointments, enhanced infection prevention and the launch of the latest treatments for COVID-19. These include monoclonal antibody infusions and a recovery program for the "long haulers."

Nuvance has also expanded the breadth and depth of its primary, heart, neurology and cancer care, so locals can feel confident staying close to home for their health needs.

Across the Hudson River, Northern Dutchess Hospital (NDH) is investing $1.5 million to expand diagnostic imaging services and $3 million will be spent this year in capital improvements to hospital facilities and surgical equipment.

Breast cancer and cardiology are key priorities for the Rhinebeck-based hospital, along with heart health. To treat irregular heart rhythm, patients now have access to a new minimally invasive treatment option at Vassar Brothers Medical Center called cryoablation. The treatment uses a balloon catheter that is frozen with liquid nitrogen and inflated to scar and destroy the tissue causing the arrhythmia.

Meanwhile, fulfilling a promise to deliver more advanced services to the Ulster County area, Westchester Medical Center Health Network (WMCHHealth) opened a new cardiac catheterization lab at Health Alliance Hospital on Broadway in Kingston. The new laboratory offers emergent and preventative solutions for blocked arteries, irregular heartbeats and coronary heart disease, services never before available in Ulster County.

These services operate under the direction of WMCHHealth's comprehensive Heart and

Nuvance Health

Vascular Institute and, for many community members, Ulster County's only cardiac catheterization laboratory at HealthAlliance Hospital is now the closest option for emergent and diagnostic heart care.

In addition to non-invasive cardiologists, newly recruited interventional cardiologists and cardiac electrophysiologists are caring for patients at HealthAlliance. The hospital also added positions in nursing and other specialties for its cardiac catheterization laboratory services.

WMCHHealth and HealthAlliance are undertaking a $92.9-million expansion and modernization of Health Alliance Hospital on Mary's Avenue in Kingston. The project is on schedule for completion in 2022 and will be the new home for HealthAlliance Hospital's cardiology services. The former Kingston Hospital on Broadway will become a walkable medical village.

CareMount Medical, the largest independent multispecialty medical group in the state, has also made significant investments in Ulster County in recent years.

Ulster County's gyms—hit hard by COVID-19—are starting to see life again, including the spacious Mid-Hudson Athletic Club (MAC), Kingston Athletics, YMCA and Core Cardio Kickboxing, all in Kingston.

When it comes to rest and relaxation for your mental health, Ulster County is home to some of the most highly recognized spas in the world, including the Emerson Resort & Spa, Honor's Haven Resort & Spa, Mohonk Mountain House Spa, Buttermilk Falls Inn & Spa and the Spa 21 Kingston.

HOMES & LIFESTYLES

HOUSING MARKET STAYS HOT

John Murphy thought he had seen everything in 25 years in the real estate business, but the scorching real estate market of the last few years brought something entirely novel.

“I would never believe that anybody would buy a house sight unseen, but we’ve seen that quite a bit now,” said Murphy, the owner of Murphy Realty in Kingston and a director with Ulster County MLS. “We’ve actually sold quite a few homes to people who haven’t even been in the home.”

Murphy said would-be homebuyers may not be able to make it here and don’t want to miss the opportunity to buy a property. They often enlist their broker to give them a “virtual showing” via cell phone, the latest in a crazy market featuring cash bids, bidding wars and sellers getting thousands over their asking price.

Kingston was one of the top destinations in the country for people migrating out of New York City after COVID-19. The typical value of homes in Ulster County is now $343,847, a 34 percent jump in the last year.

“People are getting better prices than they ever have,” Murphy said. “The market has obviously been red-hot since COVID. We were doing very well here before COVID broke out and then after that there’s been an influx of people from New York City buying up a lot of homes in the area.”

the river. You’ve got the beautiful mountains. People come up and they love this area and want to stay. People can work from home now. That’s been a big advantage for a lot of people moving up here.”

However, the market hasn’t been great for everyone, says Kevin O’Connor, CEO of RUPCO, the area’s leading provider and advocate for affordable housing. First-time homebuyers and those seeking workforce and affordable housing have found the going difficult.

Most recently, RUPCO purchased the former Quality Inn and Suites in Kingston with plans to convert it into 100 units of affordable housing. RUPCO is partnering with Ulster County, Family of Woodstock, and Catholic Charities of Ulster, Sullivan, and Orange on the project, which should begin accepting residents in the spring of 2022.

O’Connor said RUPCO is also working with the city of Kingston to repurpose some “zombie properties” and create home ownership.

“We’re excited about the opportunities that are just in front of us,” he said.

O’Connor said the area has not seen much housing built in recent years. The prevalence of Air B&Bs and the COVID-19 pandemic have also left the area with little to no available housing.

“We’re looking at alternatives,” he said. I think the solution has to be a hands-on approach with the public and private and non-profit sectors. It’s in all of our interests to provide a mix of housing types, housing tenure, and housing affordability. I think we all benefit if we’re more stably housed.”

From the stone houses of the 1700s to modern homes, there is no style you won’t find in Ulster County.

When it comes to fixing up your property, you’ll find what you need at community staples like Williams Lumber & Home Centers, which has been around since 1946, and Herzog’s Home & Paint Center in the Kingston Plaza, which dates back to 1909. You can also count on Builders FirstSource at Rosendale Lumber, N&S Supply and Bath Classics Showroom, and Win Supply of Kingston.

RUPCO

With interest rates staying low and a general lack of inventory, Murphy expects the current trend to continue into 2022, especially given Ulster County’s natural beauty, quality of life and proximity to Gotham.

“People love upstate,” he said. “You’ve got

“The lower you go on the income spectrum, the more difficult things become,” he said.

RUPCO has spearheaded several projects in recent years, including 57 apartments at Energy Square in Midtown Kingston and 66 units of senior housing at Landmark Place, the former Alms House in Kingston.

TOURISM

ESCAPE TO OUR FAIRWAYS

Even if your golf swing isn't picturesque, Ulster County's golf courses sure are, and they draw tourists from all over the country each year to breathe in the fresh mountain air and lasting views.

The courses contributing to Ulster County's tourism industry, which is now just shy of $700 million a year, include Wiltwyck Golf Club and Twaalfskill Golf Club in Kingston, Apple Greens Golf Course in Highland, Woodstock Golf Club in Woodstock and the Stone Dock Golf Course in High Falls.

Venerable Twaalfskill is an awe-inspiring, 9-hole private golf and country club opened in 1902 by some of Kingston's most prominent families. Club manager Andrew Connors said that has changed over the years to a more working-class group that comes for fellowship, golf, swimming and even cross-country skiing.

"The members are awesome," Connors says. "Some of them have been here for 70 years. It's an incredible place. It's aesthetically pleasing up here. It really hasn't changed much since 1902."

Yes, the club has quite a history. One of the founders was financier John Jacob Astor, who died on the Titanic in 1912. Boxing champion Joe Louis also roamed the fairways.

"We call it the hidden gem of the Hudson Valley because it's right here in Kingston and a lot of people don't know about us," Connors said. "When people come up here, they can't believe this little piece of paradise is right here in Kingston."

"The Hudson Valley is an incredible place. We've got four seasons. It's as beautiful in the winter as it is in the summer up here."

Another top-notch course is Wiltwyck, which head golf pro Luke Burbach calls a "family-friendly, fun-oriented club" with a welcoming culture. The par-72, Robert Trent Jones-designed course is known to be a challenge.

"It's really the complete golfing experience," Burbach said.

"Our biggest goal here is to make sure all golfers enjoy themselves, have fun and embrace everything that is upstate living."

"The Hudson Valley is a golfer's paradise," Burbach said. "The great selection of championship golf courses, the beautiful views, and the excellent course conditions separate the Hudson Valley from other areas. But what really makes the Hudson Valley standout is its friendly and attentive hospitality focusing on creating a truly fun and relaxed golf experience."

That's certainly true at Wiltwyck, a semi-private club that opened in 1933 and moved to its current location in 1954. Wiltwyck also offers a restaurant and banquet facility with indoor and outdoor dining, a newly renovated resort-style pool, fitness center, tennis, and pickleball.

It's not only the links that bring people to Ulster County and its four-season attractions. The area is replete with other recreational activities like skiing, hang-gliding, canoeing, tubing and boating. Cantine Veterans Memorial Complex in Saugerties draws baseball and softball tournaments and more.

You'll also find people flocking here for agritourism, such as apple picking in the fall, craft beverages, spas and fitness, our farm to table offerings, parks, trails, and arts and culture.

Ulster County is also home to almost 200 sites listed on the National Register of Historic Places, including the Senate House and Old Dutch Church in Kingston and Huguenot Street in New Paltz.

The Walkway over the Hudson, which spans the Hudson River connecting Ulster and Dutchess counties in Highland, draws about 600,000 people a year and was instrumental in helping people maintain their mental health during COVID-19.

Northeast Off-Road Adventures

Northeast Off-Road Adventures in Ellenville offers fun-filled off-road driving classes and more as you zip through mountain trails.

Headless Horseman Hayrides and Haunted Houses in Ulster Park is a professionally done extravaganza that has our roads full of visitors each fall, along with the Hudson Valley Maritime Museum in Kingston, Catskill Mountain Railroad in Kingston, Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz, Rail Explorers in Phoenicia, Skydive The Ranch in Gardiner and the Catskill Animal Sanctuary in Saugerties.

Tourism, as you might have guessed, is kind of our thing here in Ulster County.

COMMUNITY THAT CARES

A SHOT AT GOOD HEALTH

At a time when coronavirus infection and death rates commanded daily news headlines last winter, an independent Woodstock pharmacist and his “COVID-busting,” volunteer army did something stupendous.

Throughout 2021, Dr. Neal Smoller, a holistic pharmacist and owner of Village Apothecary, and his band of 200 helpers vaccinated close to 40,000 people in Ulster and surrounding counties.

Not only that, but they drove everywhere in late February to ensure underserved populations had access to the vaccine.

Smoller’s pharmacy was among the first in the state to receive the vaccine. Within days after he and his staff got shots in early January, state officials announced that pharmacies could begin dispensing the vaccine, so Smoller got busy.

Smoller obtained 100 doses the first week, 200 the following week and 700 immediately after that. He held his first clinic at the Mescal Hornbeck Community Center, and then—bolstered by Woodstock Town Supervisor Bill McKenna—Smoller’s team opened clinics at the Woodstock Community Center.

“He literally gave us the keys to the castle,” Smoller said. “He let us work there for free, volunteered and put us in touch with the county to do even more.”

For all Smoller did, he received a New York State Senate Commendation Award, Pride of Ulster County Award and “Key to the Town” from McKenna.

Ulster County Executive Pat Ryan also acted quickly and decisively by partnering with nonprofits like the United Way of Ulster County to deliver free meals to the needy. The countywide effort, known as Project Resilience, delivered more than 500,000 meals to homebound seniors and those with health risks.

“It was all volunteer-powered and funded with community donations,” Ryan said. “When you looked at the rest of the country and saw lines of people waiting for food, we, in Ulster County, were actually delivering food to people’s doors, and that was pretty powerful at a time when people were afraid to leave their homes or had lost their jobs and didn’t have access to food.”

Our nonprofits also met the increased demand for services heroically. Agencies such as the Boys and Girls Club of Ulster County, Family of Woodstock, YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County and Center for Creative Education partnered with the county in the Project Resilience Childcare initiative, while People’s Place, The Salvation Army and Catholic Charities of Orange, Sullivan and Ulster also stepped up to care for our needy neighbors.

Heart Attacks Won't Wait

HealthAlliance Hospital – right here at 396 Broadway in Kingston – has expanded cardiac services to include catheterization and electrophysiology. Now, HealthAlliance may be your closest option for access to treatment of clogged arteries, irregular heartbeats – and to limit damage from a heart attack in process.

WMCHHealth. Advancing Care. Here.

Please
DON'T WAIT

If you have symptoms of a heart attack do not wait. Call 911 and get to the closest emergency department.

* Major symptoms of a heart attack include, but are not limited to: Chest pain or discomfort. The discomfort can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness, or pain. Feeling weak, light-headed, or faint. May also break out into a cold sweat. Pain or discomfort in the jaw, neck, or back. Pain or discomfort in one or both arms or shoulders. Shortness of breath. This often comes along with chest discomfort, but shortness of breath also can happen before chest discomfort. Other symptoms of a heart attack could include unusual or unexplained tiredness and nausea or vomiting. Women are more likely to have these other symptoms. (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention [CDC], 2021)
