ULSTER COUNTY

NEW YORK

Creativity is alive and well in the Hudson Valley's home for arts, music and culture. Walk in the footsteps of Bob Dylan and The Band at Woodstock, catch electrifying live music at any of our venues, hike the trails of the Byrdcliffe Art Colony, and explore quirky shops and cafes on Tinker Street in the heart of Woodstock. With the majestic Catskill Mountains as your backdrop, get inspired by the place where counterculture is the culture.

Letter From The Chamber President

WELCOME TO THE ULSTER COUNTY REGION!

We are a true 4-season vacationland with a quality of life second to none. Outdoor recreational opportunities abound in our region, from the majestic Catskill and Shawangunk Mountains to the scenic Hudson River. You'll find something to do in the Ulster County Region twelve months a year.

Our amazing quality of life has attracted vacationers to our area since the mid-1800s, first to escape the heat of the big cities and relax. More recently to climb our mountains, hike and bike our trails, boat and swim in our waterways and enjoy an abundance of fresh, clean air.

What has transpired lately, however, is even more exciting, as scores of vacationers who discovered our region have elected to stay. They've brought their families to live in Ulster County and now they're relocating their businesses to Ulster County. By comparison to the larger metropolitan areas, our real estate prices and taxes are very affordable and, with the latest advances in technology, it's very easy to work online from Kingston or any one of our twenty towns, hamlets or villages.

The second noticeable spike in our business economy has come from the film and movie industry. Thanks to New York State extending the tax credit for filmmakers to now include Ulster County, film producers have discovered that they can save significant production costs by shooting in Ulster County. On a warm summer day it's quite common to see a film crew setting up lights and cameras in front of a local storefront or on a street corner.

If you're new to the Ulster County Region or you've lived and worked here all your life, the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce is here for you, providing valuable programs and assistance for your business or organization and offering outstanding networking opportunities.

If you're not yet a Chamber Member and would like to learn about the benefits of Chamber Membership, you're invited to attend one of our great monthly Networking Mixers. To register, go to www.UlsterChamber.org and look for the tab 'Try it for Free.'

We look forward to meeting you and helping you grow your business or organization.

Accommodations

BOONDOCKS BLISS

Ask any etymologist where the term “glamping” came from, and you’ll likely be pointed in the direction of Ulster County. That’s because we have so many dreamy landscapes, reimagined historic sites, and the visionaries to fuse them into unforgettable experiences.

Whether it’s a cabin on the Hudson River at Hutton Brickyards or a high-end airstream suite at AutoCamp Catskills, you’ll doze off deliriously happy in the great outdoors.

We officially welcomed AutoCamp Catskills to Saugerties last June. It marked the company’s second East Coast location (Cape Cod was the first). The 37-acre property is far from a rough-it spot. Yes, there’s electricity. Yes, there’s WiFi. Yes, there’s a bonafide mattress, and hooray for the 89 air-conditioned spaces that include 65 airstream trailers, 10 cabins and 10 BaseCamps. Your hosts even throw in complimentary bottled water, coffee and bathrobes. And if it’s a hot tub you want to linger in under the pines, you’re in luck.

While new accommodations are always a good thing in a popular tourist spot like Ulster County, established sites like Rip Van Winkle Campgrounds offer a different dynamic, especially since it’s family-owned for close to six decades.

“We’re going on four generations now,” said Eric Ellsworth, whose grandfather, Elton Johnson, opened the 160-acre campground in 1966. “We have people come here who remember my grandfather from way back when. Now, they have their own kids and grandkids.”

Ellsworth described the grounds with 200 campsites as “heavily wooded and one of the more spaced-out properties” for the ultimate outdoor experience. He said the “glamping and camping” trend really caught on once COVID restrictions were lifted and families began looking for safe activities.

Rip Van Winkle
Campground

“The people who normally did hotels or Disney World opted to camp instead,” Ellsworth noted. “We got a heck of a boost at a time when people were concerned about social distancing.”

Even post-pandemic, Rip Van Winkle is one of the busiest places from the time school lets out in June up through the fall.

“We run full houses all summer during the weekends,” Ellsworth said. “It’s a good way for families to take a vacation multiple times. We get a lot of repeat customers in the summer from Long Island, northern New Jersey and Westchester County. What we offer is old-fashioned family fun in a safe place. We are different because we care. We want you to have a good time.”

For additional first-rate glamping and camping experiences, put GlampStar in Woodstock and Yogi Bear’s Jellystone Park at Lazy River in Gardiner on your bucket list.

By the way, if we’ve got you hooked on the idea of camping, make sure to visit Camping World of the Hudson Valley at 124 State Route 28 in Kingston for the best selection of new and used RVs.

And there’s good news for indoor types. Check out the historic Victorian resort known as Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz or boutique destinations like Hotel Kinsley in Kingston.

Up in Mount Tremper, the Emerson Resort & Spa is a good place to unplug, while down in Milton, Buttermilk Falls Inn & Spa is a smart choice. Other hotels that get high marks include Diamond Mills Hotel and Tavern in Saugerties and

BREWING UP THE WORKDAY

Let's face it. Most of us need a mighty jolt of java before work. And mid-day breaks. And post-work commutes. Heck, any social gathering really is an excuse to grab America's top power drink. That's why coffeehouses are an essential part of our business landscape in Ulster County.

Our workforce is indebted to visionaries like Samantha Sapienza, founder of ALL THAT JAVA, an on-the-go coffee shop with four locations, including Kingston. The native New Yorker who lived in Seattle for 15 years made it her mission to bring the western coffee vibe to the East Coast and opened her first shop in Rhinebeck six years ago. The star, of course, was the brew by Dillanos, a Seattle-based wholesale roasting company.

"It's a taste of Seattle brought to the Hudson Valley," Sapienza said. "Coffee is such a part of the culture in that city, and whenever I came back to the East, I would notice the void. I said, 'One of these days, I'm going to change that.'"

Not only has she introduced locals to Dillanos rich blends, but she even opened a pilot kiosk at Hannaford's on Ulster Avenue in Kingston.

"Almost every grocery store in the West has a coffee store, but it's not a thing here. We want to make it a thing," said Sapienza. "Why not get a mocha while you shop? People are getting it. They're catching on."

Meanwhile, Monkey Joe Roasting Company in Midtown Kingston has been satisfying local coffee connoisseurs since 2000. Melissa Brown, who co-owns the shop with Brittany Cox, said the demand for more independently owned local coffeehouses has accelerated in recent years.

"The Hudson Valley loves its coffee, but the demographic of people living here has also changed," Brown said. "There's an influx of new people here, and the coffee shops have sprung up to meet the need. It's the supply and demand of business in general. There are people up here now who are happy and willing to support the number of coffee shops we have."

Samantha Sapienza founder of ALL THAT JAVA

Coffee lovers looking for a perfect compliment to their Monkey Joe Coffee can enjoy classic old fashioned donuts at Hole in Wall at The Anchor on Broadway, made fresh each morning by owner Brandy Walters.

Another success that capitalizes on the caffeine craze is Super Coffee, a bottled beverage developed in 2015 by Kingston brothers, Jordan, Jake and Jim DeCicco. Their sugar-free coffee now ranks third in the United States behind Starbucks and Dunkin'.

And while local cafes daily fill our cups, other industries in Ulster County continue to fill orders on a grander scale. One of the mainstays is the Kingston-based Howmet Fastening Systems, which manufactures hydraulic and pneumatic tools for giants like Boeing, Ford and Amazon.

Last spring, Ulster County welcomed a new neighbor to town as RBW, a lighting design and manufacturing company, moved its global headquarters to a 100,000-square-foot facility on Boices Lane in Kingston.

We are also proud to be the home base of other industries like Optimum Windows, the largest and most diversified manufacturer of steel windows and doors in the United States; Ametek Rotron, which designs and manufactures military and aerospace cooling products; and Markertek, a company that services the video production and entertainment industry.

Bailey Pottery Equipment Corp. is another local business that has made a global mark. The company is known for its custom-designed gas and electric kilns as well as ceramic equipment, carried by major art centers across the world and nation.

Other notable enterprises include Usheco Inc., which makes custom-molded plastic parts; Wineracks.com, a venture that supplies products for wine enthusiasts, retailers and restaurants worldwide; and Community Manufacturing Solutions, a textile company specializing in furniture and children's toys.

Aside from manufacturing, Ulster County's healthcare sector is in good shape. In fact, the Kingston-based United HealthGroup, with 1,000 employees, continues to be the county's largest private employer, offering a broad range of careers from customer service to account management.

We have so much going on in Ulster County that we again tip our hats to the roasters and baristas who give us that extra punch of energy to get our work done.

A Community That Cares

IT'S ALL ABOUT OUR YOUTH

The Greek philosopher Diogenes once said the foundation of every state is the education of its youth.

In Ulster County, two organizations putting that mission front and center are the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County and the YWCA Ulster County, which is marking its 100th anniversary in 2023.

The YMCA of Kingston & Ulster County focuses on three main areas: youth development, healthy living and social responsibility.

“Our driving factor is we want to make our community better,” says CEO Heidi Kirschner. “That means helping those in the community be more successful and that means developing our youth. I think the priority for a community is always your youth. If you help your most vulnerable succeed, you will succeed as a community.

“We’re one aspect of the community and there’s a lot of people who help us get to where we are.”

Kirschner said the YMCA runs a myriad of sports programming, from basketball to swimming, along with four camps and 11 childcare programs featuring before-and-after school sessions.

“Girls Write Kingston” teaches young women writing through a partnership with Bard College.

The YMCA also offers classes teaching STEM, bike safety, and much more.

Kirschner said the healthy living aspect involves physical fitness activities at the YMCA facility, along with its small farm, where kids learn to grow their own food.

Youth are also taught social responsibility and to find their voice. Those involved with the farm were instrumental in establishing the statewide Sojourner Truth Day.

Kirschner said “diversity, equity and inclusion” is part of the YMCA’s programming.

“We open our doors to everyone, and we have community discussions about issues that might be hard to address,” she said. “We are a place where people can come and openly discuss and not feel like they’re going to be judged for what they say.”

It’s a similar scenario at the YWCA Ulster County, where the primary focus is on early childhood education, said CEO Athena Demetra Fliakos. The Magic Circle School, with about 50 kids, is a state-licensed childcare center for youth up to age 6 and includes an extension program called “Bridge to Build,” which continues learning beyond kindergarten by pairing students with adolescent mentors.

The YWCA also runs a six-week family-preservation program called “Families Now” to help struggling families stay together. The success rate is about 97 percent.

Fliakos said the YWCA also operates an afterschool program at Meagher Elementary in Kingston with a universal pre-K before-and-after school with 16 kids.

“We’re sort of like a human kiosk,” she said. “We try to connect people, particularly women and people of color, with services in Ulster County.”

YWCA Ulster County

Additionally, the YWCA is a haven for crime victims and women who have suffered domestic violence and often refers people to outside organizations like Family of Woodstock. A program run by Rondout Savings Bank further teaches women about money.

Fliakos said the YWCA is also focused on environmental action, preservation and climate change “as a feminist issue.” She mentioned that the YWCA’s mission is to “eliminate racism and empower women,” while promoting economic, social and political equality for women.

“That’s a longstanding mission,” she said. “There seems to be no greater purpose in terms of civics and civic responsibility and honoring democracy.”

YMCA of Kingston & Ulster County

Our community is full of other non-profits with big hearts, many of which stepped up during COVID-19, including Catholic Charities of Orange, Sullivan and Ulster; People's Place, which marked 50 years in 2022; The Salvation Army, which provides a food pantry, utility assistance and Christmas gifts and the United Way of Ulster County.

The Arc Mid-Hudson, Resource Center for Accessible Living, Center for Spectrum Services, and Gateway Hudson Valley help those with special needs.

Meanwhile, Ulster County Habitat for Humanity, Ulster Literacy Association, Community Foundations of Ulster

County, Hudson Valley Hospice, Circle of Friends for the Dying, the Boys and Girls Clubs of Ulster County and the Center for Creative Education all contribute as well to making Ulster County a harbor of compassion.

Education

NEW LEADERSHIP AT THE HELM

Both SUNY New Paltz and SUNY Ulster have new presidents heading into 2023 and are excited about working together in a post-pandemic landscape.

“I think this is a rich academic arena here in the Mid-Hudson Region,” says Dr. Darrell Wheeler, the new president of SUNY New Paltz. “You’ve got the public and private colleges, and you’ve got the community colleges, so the students, the family and the community have a broad, diverse and rich array of academic programs from which to choose.”

SUNY Ulster’s new president, Dr. Alison Buckley, added, “SUNY Ulster is such a gem of a college, and I am so happy to have landed in the Hudson Valley.”

Wheeler, who comes to Ulster County via Iona College, said he carries the college’s mission statement in the front cover of his notebook “to constantly remind myself of the power of what we do and why we do what we do.”

“We are the public four-year college in the Mid-Hudson Region to provide excellent education opportunities for those seeking credentials and degrees,” he said. “We have a responsibility to support the pathway to those credentials and degrees. It’s our hope that each of our graduates or certificate-completers leave here and are launched on a career that enables them to fulfill their life journey.”

Wheeler said his second focus is for SUNY New Paltz, Ulster County’s largest employer, to “be a significant contributor to the positive return on investment.”

“Those are the two reasons we exist so everything that I’m envisioning and everything that I’m organizing is about strengthening the great platform I inherited to further advance those two critical elements of our purpose,” he said.

While the pandemic was tough on higher education, particularly community colleges, Buckley said she is excited and optimistic about what lies ahead.

“Community colleges are fairly unique in that we were really built on this notion that education improves community,” she said. “It’s one of the reasons I love this sector and this notion of the very tight relationship between the institution and the community you are centered and grounded in.”

Buckley said for the last 50 years, SUNY Ulster has developed a close partnership with employers and workforce development, and she vowed that would continue.

“It is about a high-quality education at an affordable price. I am eager to build relationships with many organizations in the community, the public and the private,” she said.

Meanwhile, Buckley, who comes from the Connecticut State Community College, said she and Wheeler have discussed their joint mission.

“I think Dr. Wheeler and I are off to a great start as the new presidents and we are looking at ways we can partner and work together,” she said. “That involves really spending time with our employers and thinking about what the needs are and what we can do to make sure the residents of Ulster County have access to great jobs with wages to support a family and a first-rate education that can take them in many different places.”

SUNY New Paltz, a four-year college, offers more than 100 undergraduate and 50 graduate programs for its nearly 7,857 students. The tuition and fees for in-state students is just $8,359 a year.

The college always ranks high in surveys of affordability and quality from national publications. SUNY New Paltz was rated the No. 6 best public university in the Northeast and appeared on 14 distinct lists in the 2022-23 edition of the U.S. News & World Report’s college rankings. That was the most in school history.

SUNY Ulster, a two-year community college with an enrollment of about 3,686, was ranked the No. 1 community college in the state base on its academics, affordability and other factors. Tuition is only $2,540 per semester.

Other colleges in the area include Bard College in Annandale-on-the-Hudson and Marist and Adelphi University’s Hudson Valley location, both in Poughkeepsie.

Ulster County also offers a strong public education system led by the Kingston City School District, Ulster BOCES and the Onteora, Ellenville, New Paltz, and Wallkill school districts. For students on the autism spectrum, The Center for Spectrum Services helps with educational and outreach programs.

A TASTE OF HONEY (AND SPICE)

There's something immeasurably gratifying about settling down under a fuzzy blanket and sipping something warm by the fireplace. The simple pleasure intensifies when you add a ginger-based elixir to your mug, according to those in the know.

"Ginger is a warming spice, so whenever you consume it, it creates a certain comfort," said Corinna Geib, co-owner of ImmuneSchein Tea Haus and Gift Shop in Saugerties. The homegrown company is known for its small-batch, ginger-based tonics available in a variety of flavors from elderberry to lavender. Created from the herbal traditions her grandfather taught her in Germany, Geib's elixirs get rave reviews for regenerating the mind & body.

"There's an emotional connection to ginger that reminds us of our upbringing. It warms the heart," she said.

Equally important is its purported health benefits. Studies suggest that ginger can calm a queasy stomach, alleviate stress, act as an anti-inflammatory and even slow the growth of some cancer cells.

"While we stay away from health claims related to our product, we try to educate people about how our elixirs can naturally strengthen immunity when used regularly," Geib said. "We always stay true to whole-food ingredients. You will never find added sugars, powders or preservatives in our elixirs—just the purest ingredients on the market.

"We have a ton of customers on a weekly basis telling us how amazing they feel. One woman with cancer told us she felt great. I've heard this from other cancer patients, especially those undergoing chemotherapy. A lot of times people on chemo experience a metallic taste to their food, but they've told us they could actually taste our elixirs," Geib said.

ImmuneSchein makes its tonics strictly from organic ginger root, lemon juice and New York state wildflower honey and is one of many niche businesses in Ulster County that promote health and well-being.

Even our grocery stores play a significant role in keeping our populace healthy. A case in point is Adams Fairacre Farms in Lake Katrine, which is among 100 retailers nationwide to carry ImmuneSchein products.

Patrick Paulson, assistant store manager, said the owners purposely buy from as many local food purveyors and farmers as they can.

"Dealing with local farms is important to who we are as a business because that's our roots," said Paulson, noting that Adams grew out of a 50-acre farm in 1919.

"Obviously there's a much shorter turnaround getting local products to our stores, and that reduces our carbon footprint with less trucking of the goods. And if you're getting things from right here in the Hudson Valley, they're going to be fresher than if they're trucked in from California, Florida or Arizona. Our customers are very conscious of where their food comes from and want products that are grown or made in the Hudson Valley."

Adams Fairacre Farms

That's because our region has a strong agricultural tradition. Accord-based farms such as Saunderskill, around since 1680, and Kelder's, another family farm that has been in the Rondout Valley for more than 100 years, invite the public each year to their pick-your-own orchards. You can twist apples directly off the tree at the peak of harvest or gather berries from the patch in the height of spring for optimal eating pleasure.

There's also the Stone Ridge Orchard, a 200-year-old historic working farm on 115 acres in the heart of the Rondout Valley.

Keeping our residents healthy is about more than clean nutrition. Our multiple health clubs such as MAC Fitness, Core Cardio Kickboxing, The Yoga House and Kingston Athletics encourage physicality, while our slopes at Belleayre Mountain Ski Center and hiking trails at Mohonk Mountain Preserve get bodies moving outdoors.

Ulster County also is home to top-level medical facilities, including Nuvance Health, Northern Dutchess Hospital and Ellenville Regional Hospital, which has a new and enlarged emergency room.

HealthAlliance of the Hudson Valley recently opened its 79,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art hospital at the Mary's Avenue campus. Hospital officials expect to open a medical village at the Broadway campus in 2023, with an eye on preventative care. Eating well and exercising regularly are huge factors. That's why we are consistently ranked as one of the healthiest counties in the state.

Tourism

A RIVER RUNS THROUGH US

Tourists flocking to Ulster County spent $863 million in 2021 — a whopping 76 percent jump over the year before. Did visitors come here for our arts, festivals, shopping, historic sites, museums and outdoor sports and recreation? Yes, along with the majestic beauty of the Hudson River.

“The Hudson River Valley is storied,” says Ulster County Tourism Director Lisa Berger. “It is such a part of the founding of this country from the Dutch coming here to settle around it, to all the various waves of immigrants who moved up through it and influenced this area. The river itself is a connector and people love being on it and traveling through it and experiencing what it was that Henry Hudson first saw himself and fell in love with.

“We are so fortunate that our section of the Hudson River has so much of it still preserved. That makes it enchanting for visitors to come here and spend time.”

Berger said the river provides Ulster County the perfect micro-climate for its growing farm-to-table movement and our rich wineries.

“Having the river run through us influences everything from our history to our farms and fields and even to the art that has been created here,” she said.

The arts colony of Woodstock has a unique history of attracting artists to the area, but it is by no means alone. New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties and many other communities have that avant-garde vibe.

“We are an area that celebrates not only the scenic beauty here, but also a feeling and sentiment that’s embedded in Ulster County of independence and personal expression through the arts,” Berger said.

Some people love to fish, boat, kayak and enjoy the river itself. You can find all your equipment at businesses like the Rondout Yacht Basin and a Day Away Kayak Rentals. Hudson River Cruises will take you on the river for a scenic ride.

We’re a four-season destination, and hardly a weekend passes in Ulster County without a festival or celebration of our arts and entertainment. Some of the more popular are the Ulster Performing Arts Center (UPAC), Maverick Concerts, Shadowland Stages, Phoenicia International Festival of the Voice, Woodstock Film Festival, and Denizen Theatre.

Ulster County is also home to around 200 national historic sites, including everything from the Old Dutch Church and the Senate House in Kingston to Huguenot Street in New Paltz. Some of our museums also have a historic flavor, including the Maritime

Rondout Yacht Basin

Museum and Volunteer Firemen’s Hall and Museum in Kingston. The D&H Canal Historical Society, which boasts a new museum in High Falls, has many artifacts on display.

If outdoor recreation is your thing, the Minnewaska State Park Preserve and Mohonk Preserve are two of the most beautiful areas in the country. We also have some of the finest golf courses and ski centers in the region, while the adventurous can try out Skydive The Ranch in Gardiner.

The Walkway Over the Hudson, the world’s longest elevated pedestrian bridge connecting Ulster and Dutchess, draws 600,000 people from all over the world each year. During peak leaf season, 13,000 people a day cross the almost 1.3-mile span on weekends, said Diane Haight, the Walkway’s interim executive director.

Many of those visitors—after catching breathtaking views of the Hudson from 212 feet above the water—find their way to our quaint towns and villages for shopping, wine-tasting, breweries, unique restaurants, and world-class accommodations like the Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz, the Emerson Resort & Spa in Highmount and a host of top-notch chain hotels.

Again, the waves of the Hudson are the constant that whisper and call tourists to visit Ulster County.

“The fact that people are coming to the Walkway over the Hudson to see the views of the Hudson River and to be part of the activities and festivals that go on in the surrounding area of the Hudson River is amazing,” Haight said.

SUNY Ulster

A STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK COMMUNITY COLLEGE

HealthAlliance Hospital, a member of WMCHealth

This is where a cure happens.

Actual Patient

A lot goes into planning a birthday. Decorations. Cake. Candles. A bouncy house. For Camryn to celebrate hers, she needed a stem cell transplant to cure her Sickle Cell Disease. Yes, cure. We deploy technology, techniques, and talented specialists to deliver advanced Pediatric Care to tens of thousands of children at our Maria Fareri Children's Hospital. Helping kids like Camryn enjoy this birthday. And the next. And the next. Happy birthday, Camryn.

Advancing Care. Here.
