WHY PATIENCE?

This month, we’re focusing on PATIENCE: waiting until later for what you want now. This one is tough for most of us, including me. Waiting in line, waiting for a delivery, waiting for a phone call, waiting for someone to arrive, waiting, waiting, waiting!

However, according to research, it could be one of the most important skills in our lives.

Author and speaker James Clear posts a great article about delaying gratification with links to a lot of research (<https://jamesclear.com/delayed-gratification>), including this as it relates to our impact on children: “...the child’s ability to delay gratification and display self-control was not a predetermined trait, but rather was impacted by the experiences and environment that surrounded them. In fact, the effects of the environment were almost instantaneous. Just a few minutes of reliable or unreliable experiences were enough to push the actions of each child in one direction or another.”

And this advice we can apply in our adult lives:

“The studies above do make one thing clear: if you want to succeed at something, at some point you will need to find the ability to be disciplined and take action instead of becoming distracted and doing what’s easy. Success in nearly every field requires you to ignore doing something easier (delaying gratification) in favor of doing something harder...”

In other words, don’t shrug this one off. Whether you work with kids in our community or you work with their parents, find a way to have conversations about waiting, doing what’s difficult, and creating new habits.

WAYS TO LOOK FOR THIS VALUE/SKILL:

You show patience when you:

- Wait without complaint in the grocery line with the young person bagging food ahead of you
- Have a conversation with your family as you wait for your food to be prepared instead of checking your watch (or your phone!)
- Set goals that are more than a few months away, and then do the work in the meantime to see them through

A Partner for P.E.A.C.E. (Public Education Ambassador for Community Engagement) is encouraged to share the monthly value and promote that value within the company so that possible employees and customers will see that you also support public education. It is in hopes that the adults who see these values at their workplace will share with the children in their lives who are also seeing this at school. These Core Essential Values are taught at both Brenham and Burton ISDs.

Thank you to these dedicated Partners for P.E.A.C.E. who continue to make this program a success in Washington County. They help reinforce the Core Essential Values students are learning in local public schools at their businesses and through their employee interactions:

— 45 Years

What services do you offer?

— Car/Truck/Tractor tire repair, new tires, gas, oil changes

Tell us something unique about your business.

— We are the only business in town that sells non-ethanol gasoline. We have our on-premise license, so we are also a local watering hole.

— We love that small businesses can thrive because WC has maintained a small-town atmosphere.

How long have you been in business?

— We have operated as Citadel Christian School since June 2018. Before that, the school was Brenham Christian Academy. It was started in August 1993.

What services do you offer?

— We offer an exceptional education with a biblical worldview in a supportive, loving atmosphere to students in PreK 4 through 10th grade. We plan to add 11th grade in the 21/22 school year, and 12th grade in the 22/23 school year in order to provide services to all students PreK through 12th.

Tell us something unique about your business.

— We are the only independent (governed by a board of directors, not by a church or denomination) Christian school in Washington County, and the only one to offer services to students in high school. We have a wonderful faculty and staff that cares deeply about each other and each student. And with our smaller class sizes, faculty have the ability to help every student reach their potential academically, socially, and spiritually.

What do you love about Washington County?

— It's in Texas--so that's a great start! The friendly, helpful people make it a great place to raise a family. Its strategic location helps it to maintain a small-town feel, but also to have easy access to large cities when you need them. When thinking of Washington County, Blue Bell and bluebonnets come to mind, and that brings a smile to everyone's face. But even when the bluebonnets fade, the well-maintained parks still provide great places to enjoy nature and recreation. There is ALWAYS something to do and plenty of opportunities to be involved in service to others here in Washington County. It's just a great place to be!
