INTERESTED?

The Automobile Dealers Association of North Dakota is looking for students that are interested in the automotive industry. Automobile dealers throughout the state of North Dakota have a growing demand for well-trained automotive technicians. While technicians are a particular area of focus, dealers are interested in assisting potential employees in all areas of dealership operations, including sales, service, parts, and management.

“Dealers across the state are hiring well-trained technicians, and offering excellent pay and benefits. Technician candidates who show talent, interest, and commitment will find that dealers are willing to assist them with their education. If they’re a good fit, it’s likely they’ll have a great job waiting for them after graduation.” - Matthew Larsgaard, President/CEO of ADAND
