Payroll Tax: To opt-in or not?

By Ken Pokalsky
Vice President
Business Council of
New York State
ken.pokalsky@bcnys.org

Employers in New York will face an interesting decision this fall – should they voluntarily start paying a new state payroll tax as a means to reduce federal tax liability of their employees?

Adopted as part of the FY 2019 state budget, the “employer compensation expense program,” or “payroll tax”, is intended to mitigate the adverse impact of federal tax reforms on some New York State taxpayers. The idea is to substitute a tax that is assumed to retain full federal deductibility (an employer payroll tax) for one whose federal deductibility is now limited (the state's personal income tax, which is subject to the new federal cap of $10,000 on deductibility of all aggregate state and local taxes – or SALT – paid by individual taxpayers).

Key elements of this new legislation include:

- Employer participation is voluntary, and employers would be allowed to “opt-in” to the program on an annual basis by December 1 of each year;
- The employer would pay a flat payroll tax on each employee's wages over $40,000, at a rate of 1.5

percent in 2019, three percent in 2020 and five percent in 2021 and thereafter. Importantly, this tax would apply to the entire wages paid by that employer to a covered employee, including wages paid for work performed outside of New York State; and

- Employees would continue to pay the state personal income tax on their wages salary, but would receive a state PIT tax credit based on the payroll tax their employer paid on their wages.

Letter from the President

It's September now, primaries are right around the corner and Election Day, November 6, is barely two months away. The political debate and campaign commercials are rapidly becoming more prevalent on television, radio and other media outlets.

I know that Election Day seems relatively far off, but now is the time to start taking note of those who will be running for office, and all the issues confronting municipalities, state and nation. Start educating yourself on these issues and as candidates come forward, please listen carefully to their messages and platforms and remember what they say today so that you may hold their "feet to the fire" tomorrow.

Make it a point to look for consistency in the words these candidates put forth to make sure they are not just saying what is convenient at the moment, and try to avoid putting too much emphasis on the political pundits. Research the candidates and check the accuracy of the claims and statements they make, while also checking the history of the incumbents to see if they stuck to the promises they made to get elected.

We all know that campaigns are by no means becoming "kindler and gentler," so try not to get caught up in the hype that so often turns ugly.

Consider only the meaningful facts in the messages put forth by the candidates and their representatives. Consider every statement made and test their truthfulness.

So why am I writing this in September when November seems so far off? I recall the days when I was in school and the many times I would have to cram for a test. Believe me when I tell you that is a very frustrating situation to be in. Despite the fact I would always manage to get by, I found my performance was always much better when I would consistently study the topic of the test regularly, starting well before the date of the test.

Remember, as citizens we can make a difference, and as citizens we do have an obligation and duty to vote in an informed way. If we don't take that obligation seriously and intelligently, it could end up being no more than a wasted vote that you end up regretting. I am asking you NOT to cram for that very important test that will take place on November 6. Start studying now so that when you walk into the voting booth to make those very important decisions you do so fully informed. Have the confidence that the choice you make will be the right one for our future.

Most of the tunes they play were either written by, or recorded by, Django at some time in his all too brief musical life.

RYAN LEDDICK TRIO – Chamber Rotunda Art Gallery, 2 N. Main Street, Gloversville

Rooted in soulful vocal nuances, and rhythmic acoustic rock; The Ryan Leddick Trio showcases numerous foot tapping fusions that pique ears and turn heads with their new age power trio set up.

Formed in the fall of 2015 as a side project of Ryan Leddick, the acoustic power trio has grown into a well-established group in Upstate New York. Having played many stages, most notable LarkFest, and Move Music Festival - the group is growing followers left and right all over New York State. Not your average power trio set up, pulling from a Dave Matthews style of guitar playing, Ryan Leddick heads the group with his vocal prowess which is echoed with the swooping sound of the Trombone played by Dave Paul. Together both are bound by the momentum and driving nature of the hand drumming of Ryan Szablewski.

As a group, they pull from the eclectic to the rock sides of history to create a sound unlike any. Whether recording or performing at favorite venues across the capital district and beyond, their acoustic live sound is always in the forefront and evident. Pulling from the likes of Dave Matthews, The Police, Bernhoft, Trevor Hall, John Mayer, Bob Marley, Damien Rice, Blink 182, and Martin Sexton, the trio's sound is new and refreshing. They are an act you do not want to miss...

Additional details about the series and concerts can be found on the Chamber Music at the Chamber Facebook page (www.facebook.com/chamberatchamber/), and on the Gloversvillebid.com website, the Gloversville Community Music Facebook page, and the Chamber's website at www.fultonmontgomeryny.org.

While not specifically addressed in the law, this program anticipates that employers would adjust wages to reflect their payroll tax costs.

The math is somewhat complex, but it works. With the combined effect of federal deductibility of the payroll tax, employer wage adjustments, and the state PIT credit to employees, both the employee and employer should end up with the same net (or even more) after-tax income as they would have had without the federal SALT deduction cap, while also avoiding a loss in tax revenues to the state. This would be achieved at the expense of the federal government, which would see a reduction in their tax revenues compared to their post-reform projections.

Presumably, employers would opt into this program as a means to preserve their employee's after-tax income. However, employers will likely consider other factors as well before opting in, including:

- The increased costs of administering the payroll tax and monitoring compliance;
- Their willingness and ability to modify payrolls, especially for unionized work forces;
- The impact of wage reductions on other employee benefits, such as pensions, 401K matches; and others;
- The impact of the program on non-resident employees, who may see a reduction in the value of tax credits in their domicile state for taxes paid in New York; and
- The degree to which the employer's workforce would already be receiving federal tax reductions without any state-level change.

This payroll tax proposal raises other tax policy issues as well. Chief among them:

- Will Congress or the IRS act to limit the federal deductibility of employer payroll taxes, since Congress adopted the SALT deduction cap to pay for other elements of federal tax reform?
- Will this be an effective measure to keep those high-income earners hit hardest by the SALT deduction cap from leaving New York, since the majority of their income comes from non-wage sources, primarily capital gains?
- How does the state address the impact of SALT deduction caps on employees of state and local government, and non-profit organizations, whose employers have no federal tax liability against which a payroll tax can be deducted?

This new provision of the Tax Law is effective immediately, and employers have until December 1 to opt into the program for the 2019 tax year. The state Department of Taxation and Finance is issuing guidance in a host of areas including: further information on the definition of covered employees; the mechanisms for remitting payroll taxes to the state; the ability of employees to adjust tax withholdings to reflect the new payroll tax credit; and other topics.

The Business Council will develop plans for the next forum during a steering committee scheduled for our upcoming Annual Meeting in September. The meeting will also enable committee members to discuss next year's legislative priorities and issues of importance prior to the 2019 legislative session.

DRAFT FORMS FOR 2018 ACA REPORTING RELEASED

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) released draft 2018 forms for reporting under Internal Revenue Code (Code) Sections 6055 and 6056.

- 2018 draft Forms 1094-C and 1095-C were released July 11, 2018, and will be used by applicable large employers (ALEs) to report under Section 6056, as well as for combined Section 6055 and 6056 reporting by ALEs who sponsor self-insured plans.

- 2018 draft Forms 1094-B and 1095-B were also released in July 2018, and will be used by entities reporting under Section 6055, including self-insured plan sponsors that are not ALEs. Draft instructions for these forms have not yet been released. The draft 2018 forms are substantially similar to the final 2017 versions.

ACTION STEPS

Employers should become familiar with these forms for reporting for the 2018 calendar year. However, these forms are draft versions only, and should not be filed with the IRS or relied upon for filing.

Background

The Affordable Care Act (ACA) created reporting requirements under Code Sections 6055 and 6056. Under these rules, certain employers must provide information to the IRS about the health plan coverage they offer (or do not offer) or provide to their employees. Each reporting entity must annually file all of the following with the IRS:

- A separate statement (Form 1095-B or Form 1095-

C) for each individual who is provided with minimum essential coverage (for providers reporting under Section 6055), or for each full-time employee (for ALEs reporting under Section 6056); and

- A transmittal form (Form 1094-B or Form 1094-C) for all of the returns filed for a given calendar year.

Reporting entities must also furnish related statements (Form 1095-B or 1095-C, or a substitute form) to individuals.

Forms must generally be filed with the IRS no later than Feb. 28 (March 31, if filed electronically) of the year following the calendar year to which the return relates. Individual statements must be furnished to individuals on or before Jan. 31 of the year immediately following the calendar year to which the statements relate.

2018 Draft Forms

The 2018 draft forms are substantially similar to the final 2017 versions. However, the revised version of the Form 1095-C clarifies that the "Plan Start Month" box in Part II will remain optional for 2018. The IRS previously indicated that this box may have been mandatory for the 2018 Form 1095-C.

Additional Resources

The 2017 versions of these forms are currently available on the IRS website:

Form 1094-B (www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f1094b.pdf) and Form 1095-B (www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f1095b.pdf) (and related instructions); and

These forms must have been filed with the IRS no later than Feb. 28, 2018 (April 2, 2018, if filing electronically). However, the IRS extended the due date for furnishing individual statements for 2017 an extra 30 days, from Jan. 31, 2018, to March 2, 2018.

According to the IRS, information returns under Sections 6055 and 6056 may continue to be filed after the filing deadline (both on paper and electronically). Employers that missed the filing deadline should continue to make efforts to file their returns as soon as possible.

The IRS also previously released:

Q&As on Section 6055 (www.irs.gov/affordable-care-act/questions-and-answers-on-information-reporting-by-health-coverage-providers-section-6055); and Q&As on Section 6056 (www.irs.gov/affordable-care-act/employers/questions-and-answers-on-reporting-of-offers-of-health-insurance-coverage-by-employers-section-6056) and

A separate set of Q&As on Employer Reporting using Form 1094-C and Form 1095-C. (www.irs.gov/affordable-care-act/employers/questions-and-answers-about-information-reporting-by-employers-on-form-1094-c-and-form-1095-c)

The Regional Art Galleries of the Arkell Museum & Canajoharie Library welcome you to three solo shows by artists Marion Kratky, Kevin Kuhne, and Doug Mess, on view through October 17, 2018.

Living in Northville, NY, and working primarily in oil, Marion Kratky's focus has been on landscapes of the Adirondacks. This show explores her impressions of the natural landscape informed by the Adirondacks and other places observed firsthand. Recent awards include 2nd Place, Masters Division, in the Central Adirondack Art Show in 2018, 2017 and 2016 at View, Old Forge, and 1st Place, Oil, in the 2017 and 2016 Annual Hagan Art Show with a previous Best of Show. Other juried shows include The Art of New York: Annual Juried Art Show at the Arkell Museum & Canajoharie Library, The Frederic Remington Art Museum International Show, The Bennington, and the 2018 Adirondack Artist Guild Annual Juried Show, with a previous Best of Show there.

the Mohawk Hudson Regional in 2014 and 2015, and the 2014 Adirondack National Exhibition of American Watercolors. "My interest in local history, architecture, people, and conservation inspires and motivates my work. I most enjoy working plein air, throughout the year, often using my car as my studio. Formally, the beautiful shapes, color patterns, and atmosphere of everyday scenes is what attracts me. Working on site allows me to convey the energy and life in the streets and neighborhoods where I find these elements."

CRG helps new business get started

FULTON COUNTY CENTER FOR REGIONAL GROWTH

Adirondack P.E.T.S. is the realization of a long-held dream. Ms. Martinovic started developing her business plan to bring pet ambulance services to Fulton County in 2016. In 2017, she started working with Ron Peters at Fulton County Center for Regional Growth when she heard about the Microenterprise Grant Program.

"Ron took the time to understand my business. He provided insight and direction that I hadn't found anywhere else. And he worked with me every step of the way in order to make sure that my application for Microenterprise Grant Funding was complete," Ms. Martinovic stated. "Because of the dedication of the CRG, I can now assist people in need while doing a job that I am passionate about."

Elizabeth Martinovic founded Adirondack Pet Emergency Transportation Services (or Adirondack P.E.T.S) after spending 30+ years caring for animals and rescuing birds.

"I noticed there were no services around that provided 24/7 emergency transport for animals. So I made it my mission to bring that to our region," Ms. Martinovic said when asked why she chose this field of business. "I, myself, have needed this type of service in the past. I knew I couldn't be the only one looking for this kind of help."

In addition to emergency services, Adirondack P.E.T.S. can also assist with other transportation services, including pet relocation, assistance with veterinary and grooming visits, as well as routine pet maintenance needs, like the administration of medication and nail clippings. They also will be working closely with local veterinary emergency hospitals, family veterinarians, fire departments, EMS, police, humane societies, foster care facilities, rescue groups, animal services, and boarding facilities to provide a dependable, indispensable network of care.

For more information about the Fulton County Center for Regional Growth, visit them online at www.fccrg.org.

Capital City Coffee Roasters to host open house in October

Capital City Coffee Roasters, 274 S. Main Street, Gloversville, is hosting an OPEN HOUSE in October for businesses and their employees to tour their facility, and introduce their great coffee products. Watch this newsletter, and Monday's Chamber Connections, for details on date and time.

Capital City Coffee Roasters, formally known as Hudson Valley Coffee Roasters, was restructured in 2010 by lifelong coffee enthusiast Steve Scheidel. From its inception, the primary objective was to bring the highest quality coffee beans from around the world to the Capital Region and beyond. Their first roasting facility was located in a small building on the outskirts of Albany, New York.

It was during this time that David Marrotta joined the company as production manager and would later become a partner as well as director of coffee operations. David, originally a Hagan native, has many family members in the area and close ties to the community. David and his family formally founded and operated Mocha Blend Café, a high end espresso bar in Troy, NY.

In 2015, Capital City Coffee partnered with John Antonucci, owner of wholesale food distributor Antonucci Produce and Seafood, located in Gloversville, NY since 1982. The partnership brought a brand new roasting facility for Capital City Coffee Roasters, which is located behind the Antonucci Produce building in Gloversville.

President of the company, Steve Scheidel, says the expansion of Capital City Coffee was greatly influenced by the growth of a well-known retail coffee company. "In 1999, when I first entered into the coffee industry, people didn't buy lattes, cappuccinos, espresso, like they do today." Scheidel said, "The specialty coffee market is something that has rapidly grown in recent years, beginning with companies like Starbucks." He continued, "Today, our colleges, cafes, and restaurants call on us to help with their specialty coffee programs. It's the local consumer that has helped shape our business and allowed us to continue our commitment to roasting artisan coffee."

After relocating to Gloversville, the company made an immediate point of hiring a local staff to help with coffee roasting, equipment service and delivery. As the company continues to expand, it plans to bring on more team members from the area and increase its presence in the region.

"I'm very pleased we were able to relocate our company to the community I grew up in," David Marrotta said about the move to Gloversville. "It's been a lifelong dream, I couldn't be more grateful to invest in this area of Upstate New York."

Offerings from the company include roasted to order coffee, Certified Fair Trade Organic whole bean coffee, flavored coffees, café products like espresso machines, coffee brewers, teas, flavor syrups, smoothie products and much more.

To get in contact with the Capital City Coffee Roasters, call 518-766-9087 or visit their website at www.capitalcityroasters.com.

We held a ribbon cutting, the store gave three local organizations grants of $2,500 each, announced that it had donated $98K worth of food to local food banks, and showed off its new rebranded apparel lines, that it's offering hunters expanded products with hunting rifles and shotguns, and more. Store Manager Cory Willson said that the additions and renovations have added jobs but more importantly make sure it is serving its great customers. He also thanked his associates and management team who helped make sure everything went smoothly. # Hales Mills Country Club features great tournaments well into the fall

Hales Mills Country Club, 146 Steele Road in Johnstown, features some great fall tournaments that are open to the public. Many think that fall is the best time of the year to play golf!

- 9/8 Toys for Tots
- 9/9 JAVAC Tournament
- 9/16 Member/Guest (for Members only)
- 9/22 Village Pizzeria Tournament
- 10/6 VanAuken Tournament
- 10/14 Spackler Impossible Pin Tournament

A history of Hales Mills Country Club:

It's not very often that a beautiful Dairy Farm gets converted to a fantastic golf course. It's even more unique when the original owner sells the facility to another pair of Dairy Farmers!

In 1995 Larry Hollenbeck converted his Dairy Farm into Hales Mills Country Club. The 240-acre eighteen hole facility includes a grass tee driving range, a modern clubhouse and a full-service restaurant that is open to the public for lunch and dinner. In 2013 Hollenbeck sold the course to friends and fellow dairy farmers Roy and Ray Dykeman of Fultonville. Other partners include Angelo Saccocio, Roy Lomanto and Gene Bargstedt.

In five years the course has seen many improvements including drainage and irrigation, tree cutting, and redesign of a couple of holes. The newest project is the renovation of the Signature Par Three Number 8 with the addition of bunkering, pond improvements, and opening up the right side of the green cleaning up some trees and brush. Most importantly Superintendent Carl Albanese and his experienced staff have been very aggressive with new turf management policies concentrating all putting surfaces. Day in and day out Hales Mills Golf Club offers some of the best putting surfaces within 100 miles!

The golf course offers yardages to fit the skill set of the whole family. Ownership believes that golf should be fun and quick! The driving range is open to the public and lessons are available from Chris Mathewson.

The Full Service Restaurant is well known for its Prime Rib Dinners (Thursday's and Friday's), it's Wednesday Chicken Wings Night and famous for hosting Holiday Parties, Family Occasions, and more! Many Holiday Parties are already booked so please contact the club today at 518-736-4622 (or www.halesmillscountryclub.com).

The golf course also offers Annual Memberships. In the near future the Club's 2019 plans will be fannounced. Member and guest privileges are available to all members. For anyone who would like to try out the course AND restaurant they suggest their Tuesday special of $28 for golf AND a burger! You can enjoy your burger before or after play (Dine before 3:00 in order for our kitchen to be ready for dinner). Please call today and mention your Chamber membership for additional discounts.

Men's Association plays Monday's and Ladies on Thursday's. Hales Mills also offers many couples and family events throughout the year. Check out their website at www.halesmillscountryclub.com sign up on our Facebook page to view daily and weekly specials, events and restaurant offerings.

Harvest Tour Guide

Autumn is the perfect time to visit the many agricultural businesses located in the Fulton and Montgomery Counties region. Since 1998, the Fulton Montgomery Harvest Tour Guide has been very successful in promoting agritourism throughout the two-county region and attracting visitors to our local farmers and producers. Fulton and Montgomery Counties have a large variety of fresh local products as well as wonderful resources that reflect the area's agricultural heritage; it is important to continue to promote that aspect of our region year round. Additionally, while visitors are here, they purchase local products, stay in local lodging facilities, and eat in local restaurants.

The FREE agritourism map is available at the following locations:

- Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce, 2 North Main Street, Gloversville and 1166 Riverfront Center, Amsterdam
- Fulton County Visitor Center, State Routes 30 & 29, Vail Mills

– Montgomery County Soil and Water Conservation District 4001, State Highway 5S, Fultonville

PTECH Student Interns with Amsterdam Mohawks

You could say 16-year-old Nick Wayman hit a home run with his internship this summer.

Wayman, a junior in HFM PTECH's business pathway, has been working for the Amsterdam Mohawks baseball team since the middle of May and continued with the team through August. The experience helped steer him down a more focused career path, and he now sees a sports marketing career as a possibility.

"This internship had everything I want to do in my career. I never thought I'd have an opportunity like this," he said.

Since school let out for the summer, Wayman has been putting in full-time hours with the Mohawks. To see him at the field — talking with players and other employees and taking photos of fans, among other things — you might assume he's been working this gig for much longer.

"You have to get out of your comfort zone and open up and talk to people," he said.

Nick Wayman poses with Mojo, the Mohawks' mascot.

He's especially grateful for the networking with local business people he's been able to do throughout the internship.

"You meet so many great people and make good connections with the sponsors," he said. "I've grown some great relationships, and I get constant feedback. The experience has been amazing."

Some of Wayman's responsibilities include posting photos and other materials to the Mohawks' social media channels, updating the website, and writing the script for the announcer. The overall goal, however, is not lost on him.

"We do everything we can to give these players what they need to be successful and go pro," he said, adding that they also work hard to grow the team's fan base.

If a problem arises during a game, Wayman said he and the other staff members work very hard to make sure no one can tell that anything is amiss.

"You have to think and act fast, so no one notices," he said. "There's a lot of collaboration that needs to happen. There's a lot going on behind the scenes."

The other Mohawks interns are college students who are a few years older than Wayman. But Brian Spagnola, president and general manager of the Mohawks, said the young PTECH student has shown great professionalism.

"Nick has really worked his tail off. He just jumps right in wherever we need him," he said.

The interns are given particular nights for which to coordinate activities, and Wayman was assigned Garage Sale Night and NASCAR Night. For NASCAR Night, he arranged to bring drivers and cars to the field and mapped out activities throughout the evening.

"Nick came up with ideas of his own, and that's what we're looking for," Spagnola said.

Barry Rouse, director of activities, said he has been impressed with Wayman's work ethic and the ideas he brings to meetings.

"Nick is motivated, hard-working, attentive to detail and organized," he said.

Wayman credits his work at PTECH for providing the necessary professional skills for the internship. "I wouldn't have been able to do this without PTECH," he said. "PTECH has built me to be the person that I am."

Ag PTECH students participate in Summer Bridge Experiences

As summer comes to an end, our Ag PTECH incoming freshman students have started the school year a few weeks early by participating in the annual Summer Bridge session. Summer Bridge started Monday August 6 and ran for two weeks. The students spent half of their time at the Ag PTECH in St. Johnsville, the other half at SUNY Cobleskill, the participating college. The two-week long Summer Bridge experience is designed to introduce students to the program in St. Johnsville and at SUNY Cobleskill and is a way for students and staff to get to know one another before the start of the school year.

While at Ag PTECH, students helped weed and clean up the new high tunnel that was finished in April. While at SUNY Cobleskill, students met with Dave Campbell, professor and chef at SUNY Cobleskill to explore the food sciences program. While there they took a tour of the kitchen and made their own pizzas!

Out of the two weeks of Summer Bridge, two of those days are spent at various AG PTECH business partner site locations for workplace tours. On Tuesday August 7 the students started their day at K.C. Canary Tractor Museum in Gloversville. While there, Keith Canary spoke to the students about the different machinery they house, showed off some model cars and even ran some old equipment for students to be able to see just exactly how the old engines worked. The second stop on their tour was to Goderie Tree Farm in Johnstown. Jared Goderie gave the students a walking tour of the 250-acre farm and showed the students their new tomato greenhouse, blueberry bushes and the hop vines. Students learned about the different types of trees grown on premise and what it takes to care for them. After lunch on the farm students headed to Rogers Family Orchard, where Mitch Rogers gave a walking tour of their land. Mitch informed the students of the different types of apple trees, how and why they trim them, and even had students feed the 12 pigs that have on the property! During the walking tour students were accompanied by a very mouthy rooster that had the whole group laughing.

During the second week of Summer Bridge, the students visited with alpacas at Clearview farm, Sand Flats Orchard, Wemple and Edicks and Hudson River Tractor.
