Halloween - She is dressed up as a pumpkin and I am pretending to be a real doctor!

‘¿Otra vez, por favor.’ ‘¿Mande?’ These are the phrases that Dr. Georgina de La Garza, preceptor for my Primary Care Practicum at UW School of Medicine, hears drifting through the door when I’m trying to have an encounter with a Spanish-speaking patient. They are iterations of, “I’m sorry, I didn’t understand,” which is a common phrase for a beginning medical student to utter in either English or Spanish. Dr. De la Garza, who is now precepting me for a second year, is a full-spectrum family physician practicing at Unify Community Health. She’s bilingual, and her Spanish-speaking patients seem almost magnetically attracted to her. She takes time to precept me twice a month, and one of the most important things she has taught me is how good communication can help patients feel safe, seen, and understood. Dr. De la Garza’s exam room is a balm for people needing care, whether their preferred language is English or Spanish. Dr. De la Garza, thanks for teaching me one of the most important skills of a doctor: how to listen to a patient.

SCMS Mission

Serving as the guardian of community health and wellness while leading and promoting the professional practice of medicine.

President's Message

GROWTH IN CHALLENGING TIMES

Since our last issue of The Message, two trends, one positive and the other negative, have dominated the landscape for the SCMS. On the positive front, we have continued to strengthen SCMS as a viable organization that takes its mission of protecting the health of our community seriously. The negative trend is the proverbial elephant in the room, COVID-19.

THE STATE OF THE SCMS IS STRONG.

We have been proactive this year in trying to provide consistent leadership starting with the Executive Committee. This will be the first time in several years that we will have a smooth transition of power with a full slate for the Executive Committee. We have also provided more stability for the Board of Trustees, filling more than the required number of slots outlined in the bylaws. We exceeded our targets for membership. We changed our bylaws to invite greater representation for PAs on the Board of Trustees. Our presence at the WSMA House of Delegates is growing as well as we sent nine members to the HOD meeting this year.

CONQUERING COVID-19

At the beginning of the year, we fully expected to be back to normal operations with COVID-19 under good control based on widespread availability of the vaccines. We underestimated the ability of the virus to create more infectious variants. What's more, we underestimated the public resistance to vaccinations, mask-wearing and social distancing. All the while, the numbers of COVID-19 infections, hospitalizations and deaths rose, threatening to capsize the healthcare system. We responded with yet another public plea in The Spokesman-Review to trust trained healthcare professionals to provide reliable information on how to protect the community. COVID-19 concerns led us to cancel member collegiality events like our summer cruise and we continued with Zoom meetings rather than meeting in person. The WSMA HOD changed its plans for an in person meeting and went virtual, and our annual CME conference remained virtual this year as well. We also kept our efforts at community outreach to organizations like Second Harvest and Blessings Under the Bridge on hold. We have responded to these challenging times with flexibility and resilience.

OUR MISSION

The one thing that strikes me about the past year is summed up by the word relevance. When I first joined the SCMS, we were asking hard questions about whether there was even a need for a regional medical society. Sometimes it takes a crisis for us to realize just how important our mission is. Finally, I'd like to thank our Executive Board and Board of Trustees for their tireless efforts to make all this happen. ■

Works at:

Executive Medical Director, Transplant Services (Abdominal and Thoracic)

Program and Surgical Director, Kidney and Pancreas Transplantation

Providence Sacred Heart Medical Center and Children's Hospital, Spokane, Washington

Specialty:

Transplant Surgeon (Liver, Kidney, and Pancreas Transplantation)

Why SCMS:

Given the unprecedented changes impacting the practice of medicine today, it is very important to reflect on the enduring value of SCMS, with its mission, has always represented a long-standing commitment to the Spokane community-both for professional members and for our patients-facilitating and advocating for the best care possible for Spokane.

Top concerns in medicine:

Physician and other healthcare team member burnout-exacerbated by seemingly endless surge of COVID-19. Managing the burden of increasing regulatory requirements and policies.

Transplant specialty specific-would have to be lack of available donor organs to meet transplant needs. Currently, over 100,000 people waiting for organs.

When not at work

Spending time with family (primarily) and friends.

Go to unwind activity

Soccer, Golf, Movies, and just being outdoors.

What I read:

Allly Up—The Definitive Guide to Building More Inclusive,
Innovative, and Productive Teams

What you might not know about me:

I'm an amateur Magician.

I'm a big fan of magic shows and magic tricks.

Proud moments in medicine:

Every time I spend helping my patients get a life-saving organ transplant, is a proud moment.

Proud moments closer to home would have to be helping our abdominal transplant team perform first ever pancreas transplant in Spokane and our heart transplant team perform the rare operation of combined heart and kidney transplant in patients with heart and kidney failure.

Best advice:

Following graduation from high school, I left Nigeria for the United States, alone, to further my education. My parents said to me, "In life, there are ups and downs, but NEVER give up on your dreams."

What's next:

Looking forward to increasing my participation in organized medicine, both in my current roles as a member of the Board of Trustees (Washington State Medical Association and Spokane County Medical Association) and as Chair, Surgery Department for the Medical Staff at Providence Sacred Heart Medical Center, and collaborating with other board members to advance and advocate for the needs of our members, patients, and community. ■

CCNW ROBOTIC-ASSISTED SURGICAL ONCOLOGY

(509) 228.1000 | (208) 754-3100

Since 2014, Cancer Care Northwest (CCNW) has used robotic-assisted surgical oncology procedures, a safe and effective technique for complex oncologic surgeries, to treat certain forms of cancers. Using the da Vinci® Xi Surgical System, Surgical Oncologist Dr. Maryam Parviz performs minimally invasive surgical procedures, an alternative option to both conventional open surgery and laparoscopy.

ADRENALECTOMY | COLON RESECTION SURGERY | ESOPHAGECTOMY GASTRIC RESECTION | PARTIAL PANCREATECTOMY | RECTAL RESECTION SURGERY RECTOPEXY | SPLENECTOMY

Advantages of Robotic-Assisted Surgical Oncology:

- » Superior surgical precision
- » Increased range of motion
- » Enhanced visualization of the surgical site
- » Easier access to hard-to-reach areas
- » Improved dexterity
- » Sparing of healthy tissue

Patient Benefits:

- » Reduced pain
- » Lower risk of infection or complications
- » Less blood loss
- » Shorter hospital stay
- » Less scarring
- » Faster return to normal activities

On October 8, 2021, the SCMS held their annual CME event, Medicine 2021. Using a virtual platform, an audience of nearly 30 members attended the meeting to hear from an array of local and regional experts. Attendees were able to earn up to 7 hours of Category 1 CME credit.

The morning started with a rigorous review of current atrial fibrillation management from Dr. Christopher Fellows who reminded us it's not nearly as simple as rate vs. rhythm control anymore. Then Dr. Jamie Bowman delivered a thought-provoking update on caring for the entire gender spectrum full of practical tips. Dr. Derek Mitchell lectured next on the top things primary care providers should know before referring to a pain clinic, focused on setting realistic expectations while also enlightening the crowd about new adjunctive treatments offered in Spokane! The morning concluded with a data-packed COVID-19 update from newly confirmed health officer for the Spokane Regional Health District, Dr. Francisco Velasquez.

The afternoon kicked off with a public health advocacy boost from Dr. Jim Sledge about the importance of fluoride. Our final faculty lecture of the day was given by Dr. Jennifer Pasko who spoke passionately about the myths and facts regarding pancreatic cancer survival, reminding us all about the importance of pre-habilitation. The event concluded with our longstanding tradition to hear from some of the youngest and brightest among us – resident physicians! Drs. Sarah Knight, Aditya Nathan and Tyler Reinking (Internal Medicine Residency Spokane) delivered a cutting-edge review on the non-insulin treatments for diabetes and how to tailor options towards significant co-morbidities. Drs. Parvita Panchal and Logan Shetlar (Family Medicine Residency Spokane) concluded the day with a case-based approach to review the most current evidence-based colon cancer screening recommendations.

The event would not have been possible without technical support from the WSMA and we would like to thank all the event supporters for helping make the program a huge success!

If you are interested in joining the planning committee for next year's event please don't hesitate to contact us for more information.

SCMS Virtual Provider Recruiting Fair

As part of our organization’s mission, SCMS’ Medical Education Committee (MEC) hosted its first SCMS Virtual Provider Recruiting Fair on Tuesday, November 2, 2021. “We hope to attract high quality physicians and PAs to choose the Spokane region as a place to work and call home,” stated Dr. Chris Anderson, MEC Co-chair. The event was hosted for providers currently training in the Spokane-based Family Medicine, Internal Medicine and Psychiatry residency programs, and MEDEX PA programs to help make them aware of the opportunities for employment in the area.

Several residents and medical/PA students attended as the evening featured presentations from six local organizations who are hiring, including CHAS, Mann Grandstaff Medical Center Veterans Affairs, MultiCare, Northwest Spine & Pain Medicine, Providence Medical Group and Washington Permanente Medical Group.

Each organization provided an overview of its open positions and discussed the collaborative role between the PA students and residents, followed by an open Q&A. Thank you to all those who participated in the event! ■

YOUR foundation! What is it, what should it be, why should you care?

The foundation was originally set up to be the charitable arm of the Medical Society and in that capacity provided grants and funding to numerous organizations in the community which fulfilled the mission statement to:

- promote and support the development of future physician and physician assistant leaders within our community, and
- identify and fund important and innovative projects that advance the health of our community.

The Foundation later saw a large expansion of duties with the initiation of Project Access and assumption of a managerial role of that program. An amazing program highly supported by most of our members with donation of both time and treasure. Referrals to Project Access essentially went away with the ACA as many of the needy in Spokane were able to enroll in healthcare programs. The Foundation lost its biggest project and the grants which helped with funding. This coincided with a decrease in enrollment in the SCMS and the number of members contributing to the Foundation.

So where are we now?

The Board of Trustees of the Foundation has been pondering the future. We still have funds available for any community organization or member with a project which is mission oriented. You need simply to apply.

Should we work hard to expand these funds and play a larger role in our community?

Physicians in general are viewed as being fairly stingy with their charitable giving - not necessarily a fair opinion but one that is nevertheless true. Should we try to change this perception? Increase our presence in the community as a united group of physicians and physician assistants? The need is out there, and we could be a major factor in advancing the health of our community.

We welcome ideas, input, dreams, grant applications, and of course donations of your dollars and time!! You may download the application from our website at www.spcms.org, under the "About Us" tab, SCMS Foundation dropdown selection. ■

Attending the WSMA House of Delegates Meeting

By Erin Rose Medina, MD
2021 SCMS Secretary-Treasurer

In the last issue of The Message, I shared about the process of writing a resolution for the WSMA House of Delegates meeting. Now I'd like to share about the HOD meeting itself. In this meeting, delegates from county medical societies and specialty groups across the state meet to propose resolutions that are adopted as WSMA policy then used to advocate for or against bills in the state legislature. This year, a number of by-laws changes were also discussed, and like last year, the meeting was held virtually.

Like most online adaptations, the virtual format had benefits and drawbacks. One huge benefit (I felt) was that each person commenting during the discussion time was limited to 90 seconds. This limited long-winded discussion which has led to meetings going long when held in person. Meeting remotely potentially allowed more people to participate, as no cross-state road trips or hotel stays were needed. The biggest drawback was not being able to see people in person and network.

The meeting itself was quite productive. The first day consisted of discussing the proposed by-laws changes and resolutions, and the second day was for voting on them. The proposed by-laws changes were a little outside my wheelhouse, though others felt very strongly about them one way or the other. The process of that part of the meeting was a little tedious and held all of the excitement of an Entmoot. The discussion on the resolutions is the most interesting part of the meeting, in my opinion. This year we discussed resolutions on topics ranging from violence against Asian Americans to expanding parental leave for medical students and residents to inequities in the juvenile justice system. Many of the resolutions were written by the medical student section. It is exciting and refreshing to see our future doctors and doctors in training engaging in advocacy early in their careers. I can't imagine putting that much time and energy into anything other than survival during those difficult years, so I applaud them.

I'd like to encourage anyone wondering what they can do to make a difference in our broken system to consider serving as a delegate for the HOD meeting. It may seem a little intimidating at first, and parts of the meeting are not exactly enthralling, but making one's voice heard is empowering. ■

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ADVANCED DERMATOLOGY & SKIN SURGERY is pleased to announce Courtney Gwinn, M.D., has joined our team. Dr. Gwinn is a board-certified dermatologist, American College of Mohs Surgery (ACMS) trained Mohs and Reconstructive Surgeon, and American Society of Dermatologic Surgery (ASDS) trained Cosmetic and Procedural Surgeon. Dr. Gwinn completed her fellowship at SkinCare Physicians in Chestnut Hill, MA, and is also well-versed in cosmetic dermatology. She begins seeing patients on October 1, 2021.

COMPASSIONATE ADDICTION TREATMENT (CAT) SEEKING VOLUNTEER PROVIDERS I am the medical director for Compassionate Addiction Treatment in downtown Spokane. CAT is a low barrier facility that provides medical assisted treatment with Suboxone for opioid addicted individuals and provides counseling and social services assistance. We are seeking additional volunteer providers that could work 4 hours a week seeing patients. The work is very gratifying, and the staff are dedicated to their mission helping this underserved population to climb back to a normal life. If you are aware of any providers looking for a meaningful volunteer opportunity, please contact me: Michael Mainer, M.D., Medical Director, michael.mainer46@gmail.com, (509) 951-3877.
