Business Spotlight

Meet Axel Gonzalez, your own personal tutor

Tell us about yourself.

My name is Axel Gonzalez, and I am a private language and enrichment tutor based in Pleasanton, California. I have been a tutor of a variety of subjects since I began my English Masters program at CSU East Bay in 2016, working in a number of different tutoring centers from Fremont up to Danville, and most places in between. I am now doing my own practice – Axel Gonzalez Tutoring - with the goal of providing affordable and truly enriching education.

What subjects do you offer tutoring for?

I offer subject tutoring primarily in English subjects: literature, general reading, composition and college-level essay writing, technical and advanced grammar, creative fiction, as well as test preparation and homework help. I am also connected to a small network of other tutors across the East Bay; whenever I cannot teach a requested subject, or do not have time on my schedule for the requested hours, another tutor can be assigned. My website www.AxelGonzalezTutoring.com offers examples of the most common subjects and schedules.

Where does your tutoring take place?

Tutoring-at-home is the core of my business model, but I have additional access to educational spaces that have charitably been loaned to me by third parties. I am also extremely familiar with different video conferencing and distance education technologies that make personalized tutoring possible throughout Alameda County's shelter in place order. All aspects of my tutoring services are customizable and fluid.

How much does it cost?

Every individual session starts at $50/hr as a base rate, and there are a number of discounts on that base rate depending on how your contract is set-up as well as how many students there are per class. I am happy to offer several different payment structures.

How can I learn more?
