Kentucky Emergency Alert System
New State Plan – Preliminary Summary

- National Primary Entry Point station (NP, PEP, LP-1); WLW-AM Cincinnati, OH
- State Primary sources (SP):
 - SP-1 WHAS-AM/WAMZ Louisville, KY. Monitors WLW
 - SP-2 WUKY Lexington, KY. Monitors WLW and NPR satellite, national alert feed
- Emergency Operations Center (EOC), Kentucky Division of Emergency Management, Frankfort, KY
In order to enhance reliability and redundancy, the SP-1, SP-2 and EOC are each capable of autonomously originating statewide alerts. Alerts issued by state government or state police (i.e. Amber), are normally cleared through, and originated by the EOC. The Kentucky Early Warning System (KEWS) and KET are now providing, through dedicated microwave links, EOC transmissions to both state primaries and KET.
- Kentucky Educational Television network (KET) has been added to the Ky EAS network.
KET provides instantaneous relay of EAS alerts to the entire state, as a redundancy to the State Relay (SR) network. The new Ky State EAS Plan requires all Local Primary stations (LP-1 and LP-2) to monitor KET, in addition to the two LP radio stations currently being monitored. All KET television channels are assigned the designation of LP-3.

 In the case of dual listings, either one of these stations may be the first monitor source (Whichever provides the best reception). The second source should be another LP-1 or LP-2 radio station.

All stations are required to monitor, and log weekly receptions from, two radio LP sources. Ideally these should be within the station's EM operational area (see map). Any station that is unable to receive two LP's may contact the KySECC or KBA for alternatives. The National Weather Service does not qualify as an LP source, but is highly recommended to any station wishing to broadcast weather alerts. All LP stations are required to add KET as an additional monitor source. Any station may add KET, as a means of enhancing EAS reliability. Analog KET channels may be monitored until eliminated Feb. 17, 2009.
