INTRODUCTION

APRIL 5, 2021

Dear Community Stakeholder,

Our local economy was deeply impacted when the first positive case of COVID-19 was identified in Eagle County back in March of 2020. We have rebounded and by most measures have turned the corner, yet there is still work to be done. Tourism accounts for nearly half of all jobs in Eagle County, and although the tourism dollars have largely returned we still have a long road ahead to full and complete economic recovery. We have the opportunity to leverage our community brand and assets to take advantage of the remote-work trend and the quality of life in Eagle County to welcome our second homeowner community to spend more time (and money) here, thus supporting our community and our businesses.

What Can We Do?

Thirty-eight percent of local housing units are vacant vacation homes that can be occupied. By working together to invite our second-home owners to live in Eagle County, we help rebuild our economy, support our businesses, and protect our way of life. Our homeowners are financially and emotionally invested in our communities and enjoy the same property rights as full-time residents. Welcoming these property owners to “Come Here, Live Here, Stay Here” will boost local spending and help continue to revitalize and energize our economy – and our community.

How Can We Do It?

Introducing an updated version of the Welcome Home Campaign Toolkit, a collection of graphics and messages that invite our second-home owners to relocate to Eagle County. Use these campaigns to connect with second-home owners and together we will lead our community toward a new definition of sustainable, long-term economic health.

Vail Valley Partnership created this campaign because decisive action is required to support our residents and businesses to protect our future. This is our time to come together and send a message from our community to our second-home owners: Welcome Home.
