

GEP INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS POLICY

Policy:

MESA Approved Instructors/Facilitators agree that all materials produced for a MESA GEP course or workshop including promotional materials, course outlines, instructor manuals, participant guides, workbooks, PowerPoint documents and other visuals, exams, answer sheets, student rosters, student data forms, student evaluation forms, MESA Marks and related rules of usage/completion requirements, and MESA Course presentation policies and procedures (the “work”) are the property of MESA as defined in the federal copyright statute; and as such, MESA is the owner of the “work” and owns all rights, title and interests in the work, including the right to copyright it.

MESA Approved Instructors/Facilitators understand and agree that they are provided with access to the course materials as part of their agreement with licensee organization(s) and/or directly with MESA International and are authorized to use the MESA materials in order to instruct the courses/workshops as part of their agreement with the licensee organization or directly with MESA International. Instructors may make no change, alteration, or modification to any MESA Course/Workshop Materials without the prior written approval of MESA; neither shall they create any derivative works from MESA Course/Workshop Materials. Instructors may, however, add industry specific and/or geographic specific examples to the PowerPoint presentations for the course but they must be approved by MESA. Instructors may interject their own materials, but they must disclose that the materials are not MESA-branded material until they are vetted by MESA. Materials must be submitted to MESA for approval/vetting to education@mesa.org.

MESA Approved Instructors/Facilitators are not permitted to reproduce, republish, upload, post, sell, transfer or in any manner distribute or otherwise permit others to use any MESA Course/Workshop Materials or any copies thereof.

MESA Approved Instructors/Facilitators are prohibited from reverse engineering, decompiling, or disassembling any MESA Course/Workshop Materials.

MESA Approved Instructors/Facilitators agree that they will not arrange to host a MESA course/workshop/learning event on their own without having a license agreement with MESA International.

All licensed materials require periodic updates to maintain a current state of best practices. MESA Approved Instructors/Facilitators agree to submit proposed changes/updates to the course/workshop materials to MESA after each learning event using the MESA Content Review Form.
