As usual, there is a lot going on with the State Bar. The committee assignments are set forth in the Newsletter. Executive Director Andy Fergel, President Elect Steve Huff, Strategic Plan Coordinator Beth Overmoe and I recently had a lengthy meeting to go over the committee assignments for the upcoming year. We attempt to keep the membership of the committees at a reasonable number. We also attempt to accommodate those members who submit committee preference forms. Those forms are extremely helpful. Although there are certainly exceptions, we try to limit most individuals to two committees. We cannot always accommodate a person’s first preference for a committee placement. We do, however, try to put everyone who requests a committee assignment to be placed on at least one of the committees they have requested. If there is anyone who requested to be on a committee and received no committee assignment, please let me know and we will make sure we get you put on one.

As part of the process, we also remove people from committees. This sometimes occurs at the request of the committee member and other times based on reports that the individual has not actively participated in the committee. Please do not be offended if you have been removed from a committee assignment. We want to try to accommodate everyone who wants to actively participate.

We are going to try something new next year. Since a number of committees schedule meetings during the Bar Convention, we thought it would make more sense to get committee appointments done before the Bar Convention so new committee members would have an opportunity to participate in meetings held during the Bar Convention. Therefore, the committee preference forms will be available shortly after the first of the year. If you are interested in serving on a committee next year, please let us know because we will be making appointments before next year’s Bar Convention.

One of the committees that will be experiencing some changes is the Law School Committee. In addition to its traditional functions, we have requested that committee also help in fundraising for law school scholarships. We want to do all we can to make sure the USD Law School can remain competitive with the other law schools in the region.

There is one issue which was brought to my attention concerning the Bar Convention that needs to be addressed. If you attended the banquet, you probably noticed that there were a large number of empty seats. There were approximately 175 people who said they were coming that did not show up for the banquet. This resulted in the State Bar spending about $7,500 for uneaten meals. Part of this might be due to the heavy rain that was falling during the banquet. Nevertheless, for next year’s Bar Convention, if you sign up to attend the banquet, please do everything you can to make sure you attend. If something happens that will make you unable to attend, please let the Bar office know as far in advance of the banquet as possible.

The Lawyer Referral Service is getting up and running. An enrollment agreement is contained in the Newsletter. If you are interested in being part of the Lawyer Referral Service, please fill out the enrollment agreement and return it to the State Bar office. We have high hopes that this will be a successful program.

As had been previously reported, State Bar dues can now be paid by credit card through Law Pay. My firm recently signed up with Law Pay. We believe it is going to be very helpful to us in getting bills paid. It is also convenient for clients. If you have not looked into the program, I would encourage you to do so.

As has also been previously reported, with the hiring of the new Executive Director, the decision was made to hire a contract lobbyist. Interviews of potential lobbyists are being conducted on August 21. At this point, it is undetermined how long the Bar will need the contract lobbyist. That will be a decision to be addressed in later years.

Another successful Trial Academy was held during the week of July 9. A report from Tom Welk regarding the Trial Academy is contained in the Newsletter. I encourage you to review it.

Assuming I can get cooperation from the Bar Commission, each month we are going to be featuring one of the Bar Commissioners who will tell you something about themselves and let you know why they have been active in the State Bar. Kellen Willert stepped forward and agreed to be the first volunteer. I hope you will find Kellen's comments interesting. (See page 9)

Finally, with regard to my photograph, last month a recent photograph of me accompanied my report. I looked at that photograph and said I looked awfully old. My wife reminded me that I am old. I decided I did not want to subject my loyal readers to that photograph for the next ten months. Therefore, I found a photograph that proves to those who doubted it that I once had hair. Future issues of the Newsletter will feature other photographs of me, assuming I can find any.

Happy August,

The new YLS Board of Directors met last month. During our meeting we shared our ideas and plans for the Section. We also spent a lot of our time brainstorming how to improve our programming and initiatives to better suit the needs of the Section. Each of us set a goal for the bar year. Our goals ranged from utilizing social media more efficiently to providing outstanding CLE programming to working with technology to establish institutional knowledge. While we all had different goals that matched our different plans and personalities, there was a common thread that connected each goal. Each of us are looking for ways to engage with Section membership. With that, we set our theme for the year…ENGAGE!

We hope to look toward this theme in all that we do. However, there are three specific ways we would like to improve engagement. First, we hope to spark the spirit of engagement in you, our membership. We want to implement programs and initiatives that inspire you to attend and volunteer. Second, we want to focus on leadership engagement. More specifically, we, the Board of Directors, hope to hold each other accountable by being plugged in and ready to work toward our mission. And lastly, we hope to engage with technology on a level that is on par for the year 2018. We will aim to use technology to make your attendance and participation easier than ever before.

How can you plug into the SD YLS? Good question, you can help in several ways. First, you can lend us your time. Please volunteer your time toward public service this year or volunteer to be a mentor with the Hagemann-Morris Mentorship program. You can lend your voice. Please spread the word about all the good things the SD YLS is doing both at home and nationally. If you know a young lawyer in your office, encourage them to get plugged into the Section! Lastly, you can lend your ideas! If you have a CLE idea or legal clinic idea you have been hanging on to, we want to know! We want to implement programs and initiatives that you would like to be a part of.

There are numerous ways to be involved with the Section, please pick the way that best suits your schedule and talents!

Before I leave you, I would like to tell you what the SD YLS is up to for the month of August.

1L Orientation Lunch- On August 7th the YLS will continue the standing tradition of hosting lunch for the incoming 1L class. This lunch serves as an opportunity for the YLS to welcome the 1Ls to the USD family and also inform our newest members about the benefits of Section membership. Any young lawyers in the Vermillion area are welcome to join us for lunch at noon.

YLS Survey- the YLS will be sending out a brief survey to all young lawyers in the state. The purpose of the survey is to gauge what activities young lawyers currently... attend and learn what programming young lawyers desire to see implemented. Please take the time to fill out this brief survey!

In closing, I encourage you to reach out to any of our Board members to voice your concerns and ideas. Your 2018-2019 Board of Directors are:

President- Tamara Nash (Sioux Falls)
Vice-President – Nathan Chicoine (Rapid City)

Fellows of the South Dakota Bar Foundation

Many South Dakota lawyers have risen to the challenge of making SD Bar Foundation a favorite charity. Such generosity deserves public acknowledgement. Therefore, the Bar of Directors has created a "Fellows" program to not only make such acknowledgement, but also to provide opportunity for more of our members to participate and determine their personal level of professional philanthropy. Participation can be on an annual basis or by pledge with payments over a period of time. All contributions made to the "Fellows" program will be deposited in the Foundation's endowment account managed by the SD Community Foundation - famous for low management fees and excellent investment returns. Donations to the endowment are tax deductible and a perpetual gift to our profession and the educational and charities the Foundation supports.

I'm Kellen Willert, and I practice in God's country, a/k/a Belle Fourche, at Bennett Main Gubbrud & Willert, P.C. I don't know that I can say my practice has a main focus, as I end up practicing in many areas of the law including general civil litigation, family law, municipal law, transactional work, estate planning and probate, and real property. Additionally, I get to do military law for the South Dakota Army National Guard. I'm also the Bar Commissioner for the 4th Circuit.

I left the Bar Commissioners' July meeting with joy - not merely because the meeting was over, but because this is a great time to be involved with our Bar. Tom Barnett leaves a legacy that will last as long as our organization. Andy Fergel is stepping in as Executive Director and will expand on what Tom has accomplished and mold a lasting legacy of his own.

Like I said, this is a great time to be involved with our Bar - not "the" Bar, "our" Bar. We are all in this together, and we are collectively in a position to create a culture that fosters a conscious enjoyment in the practice of law. That culture starts on the micro level with each of us zealously advocating for our respective clients while also being civil, approachable, and personable with one another. On the macro level, the culture is enhanced through our Bar and the various services it provides us as members.

Right now is a great time to get involved with our Bar.

In the coming issues, your Commissioners will be writing about why we got involved in our Bar and how involvement has impacted our careers. Prior to becoming a Commissioner, my involvement with our Bar was being on a committee that helped redraft some legislation and attending a few CLE's. That involvement was fostered by my partners, Max Main and Dwight Gubbrud. Now I've been on the Commission just over a year, have gotten my feet wet, and am having a great time.

I wanted to be more involved in our Bar and assumed at some point I would get more involved. When my respected predecessor, Bob Morris, was nearing the end of his term as 4th Circuit Commissioner, I looked inward and determined that there was no reason to wait.

At the time I came onto the Commission, I had kids aged 3, 4, and 8...with school, Scouts, 4-H, sports, et cetera, it wouldn't get any easier to dedicate more time and be more involved in our Bar until my kids were out of school. So, I thought "why wait". My partners signed off on the idea and then I called Bob and asked him what his thoughts were and, like he does in mentoring so many others, he helped me understand what I was asking for and getting myself into and then told me "good luck".

Being a Commissioner has been a fantastic experience. I've met others I likely would not have otherwise met or socialized with, learned a lot, and have had the opportunity and privilege to be a small part of steering our Bar into the future. Overall, it's been rewarding and enjoyable.

Involvement in our Bar has positively impacted my career by further educating me on how our profession is regulated, administered, and perceived, and it has given me networking opportunities that are unavailable outside of our Bar.

Many people ask how they can get more involved in our Bar and/or "what's in it for me". Just like many civic organizations, such as the Lion's Club, involvement in our Bar should be based on what can we do to make this community or organization better versus what will the community or organization do for us. Perhaps quoting JFK is too cliché, but you all know what I'm talking about.

Getting involved can start with a phone call, email, or good old fashioned face to face conversation. Find something that interests you and talk with someone that is involved in that area you're interested in. Our Bar is very friendly and most members would welcome such conversations.

Often times we get categorized into younger members and older members. When it comes to involvement in our Bar, there are members that are involved and members that are not involved (other than paying dues). Both categories include older and younger members. Certainly, as we go through different seasons in our own lives our ability to be involved will fluctuate. Regardless of what season of life you're in, I encourage you to maintain a level of involvement beyond just paying dues and reading the newsletter.
If you’re a member that is not involved, consider becoming more involved in some respect. Our Bar offers opportunities for both social involvement as well as business/law practice involvement, and you can choose the balance that’s right for you. There are many ways to get involved whether it’s being on an active committee or section, attending and/or presenting CLE’s, attending mixers, volunteering for the Hagemann-Morris Mentorship Coin Program, taking an Access to Justice case, and/or attending our annual convention.

If you’re a member that is involved, find another member and personally invite them to join you with whatever Bar function you’re involved in or, at least, talk to them about how your involvement in our Bar has positively impacted your practice. Articles like this will not boost member involvement nearly as much as a personal invitation.

The faculty this year consisted of Heather Lammers-Bogard, Jim Roby, Lonnie Braun, Bob Morris, Clint Sargent, Renee Christensen, Shawn Nichols and Jana Miner. We all owe these lawyers a great debt of gratitude for helping our younger lawyers hone their advocacy skills. These lawyers gave one week of their time without compensation plus intense preparation and their mentorship in helping our younger lawyers.

The Trial Academy could not have taken place without a number of people. Firstly, the National Institute of Trial Advocacy (NITA) again provided the materials and faculty training for the product liability factual case study. Mark Caldwell, who has been the NITA contact for the Trial Academy since 2005 again provided valuable faculty training prior to the commencement of the Trial Academy. In addition, the administrative function of the Academy in collecting, distributing materials, arranging housing and meals for the participants was spearheaded by Devra Hermosilla of the USD Law School and her able assistant, Lanae Romey, who we thank for their efforts.

The co-trial directors for the Trial Academy were Dave Gienapp and Dick Casey, who will be taking over Dave’s duties. These two lawyers provided the “hands-on direction” during the Academy.
We also need to give a huge “shout out” to Stephanie Pochop and Lonnie Braun, South Dakota Chapter American Board of Trial Advocates (“ABOTA”) members, who worked tirelessly to try to recruit a full class of participants. Contacts were made with judges, lawyers and various organizations to recruit participants.

With the conclusion of this class, 160 young lawyers have participated in the Trial Academy since inception in 2005. This year we were able to provide seven scholarships. This brings the total scholarships provided to 52.

Finally, the Trial Academy could not be conducted with the sustained financial support of the South Dakota Trial Lawyers, South Dakota Defense Lawyers and the South Dakota ABOTA chapter, who collectively have contributed over $50,000.00, plus ALPS, the professional legal malpractice carrier, who contributed $5,000.00 in “seed money.”

This Project demonstrates how collaboratively our Bar works together with the USD Law School, and NITA to provide our younger lawyers with skills necessary to provide competency to serve our clients.

RE: Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation.

Dear Andrew:

The Trustees Council of the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation held its Annual Meeting in Victoria, British Columbia on July 18, 19, & 20, 2018. The RMMLF Scholarship Recipient Attendance Program pays travel, accommodation, and incidental expenses for law students to attend Foundation Institutes and Short Courses. Applications for this assistance can be made through the law school Trustee. Since 1980, the Foundation’s two Scholarship Committees have awarded $2,946,031 to 550 scholars.
The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year:

President - William B. Prince, of Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Salt Lake City, Utah;

As you know, buy-sell agreements can get stale. Just because your client can “check the box” that he/she has such agreement, doesn’t mean they are “in the clear” of avoiding a legal battle with a shareholder. It is time to brush the dust of the agreement, review the language, and fix what’s outdated. Oftentimes, these agreements include a formula to calculate value. While these formulas are usually written to withstand the test of time, it is unrealistic to think they will work forever.

Therefore, contact your favorite certified valuation analyst to review the valuation formula or to devise a new one.

In June, Cutler Law Firm Partner Nichole Mohning spent a week volunteering with Community Health Initiative (CHI) Haiti. Nichole was part of a team of volunteers compromised of medical providers and non-medical volunteers from across the United States as well as Haitian doctors and staff. The team conducted medical clinics in the villages of Do Digue and Fondol which are located about an hour northwest of Port-au-Prince.

CHI is a nonprofit organization based out of Coralville, Iowa with a mission of partnering with the rural Haitian communities to identify needs and implement solutions. Along with providing continuous primary health care by conducting several medical and surgical clinics each year in these villages, CHI has assisted with water treatment, latrines and recycling programs.

Mohning primarily assisted with obtaining medical histories from the patients and entering data in the electronic medical records system. The non-medical volunteers were also trained to assist in performing basic treatment such as conducting blood sugar and lab tests, taking blood pressures and giving injections. The team saw nearly 1,700 patients over five days.

"I was honored to be a part of such a dedicated and talented group of doctors, nurses, volunteers and staff from the United States and Haiti. It was amazing to see the level of care being provided in the most basic of environments. The area we worked in was incredibly beautiful, yet tough given the terrain and poverty. The people of this region are equally beautiful and tough. It was a privilege to get to know and work with them," said Mohning.

What is so rewarding about working with CHI is its mission to work with people in the communities to create the infrastructure and tools necessary for them to provide for themselves. It is a partnership with the goal to not be needed. While the circumstances are certainly very different, its mission is similar to how Mohning approaches her relationship with clients. Mohning works proactively with employers to identify needs and risks and jointly design and implement solutions with the goal that legal counsel will not be needed to defend claims at a later date.

"The term life-changing is often overused, but there is really no other way to describe the experience," said Mohning. "I look forward to returning to Haiti in the future and continuing to find ways that I can use my skills to help carry on the mission of CHI."

Mohning joined Cutler Law Firm in 2008 and practices primarily in the area of employment law. Cutler Law Firm, LLP is a full-service law firm based in downtown Sioux Falls.

Immigration law and immigration consequences become relevant in other areas of law when non-citizen clients are involved. To assist other practitioners, the immigration committee has put together general information on some of these situations. The committee’s goal is to generate awareness of some of the more common non-immigration legal issues that are problematic for the client’s status or future status options. Please see previous editions of the bar newsletter for an introduction to this series of articles.

Child Abuse/Neglect

The immigration consequences of abuse and neglect proceedings depend on your client’s immigration status. For legal permanent residents and other lawfully admitted aliens, caution is required; for aliens without legal admission the United States, abuse and neglect proceedings make your client deportable. The federal statute pertaining to removal of legal permanent residents and other lawfully admitted aliens can be found at 8 C.F.R. § 1227. The statute requires a conviction for the LPR or lawfully admitted alien to be put into removal proceedings. A conviction will result in removal proceedings for any non-U.S. citizen.

Abuse and neglect proceedings are civil proceedings rather than criminal. For a non-U.S. citizen parent, abuse and neglect proceedings are preferable to a criminal case. If the parent has not been legally admitted to the United States, this can lead to removal. Although a legal permanent resident should not be put into removal proceedings because of child abuse or neglect proceedings, these proceedings can affect the alien’s citizenship application. A legal permanent resident is required to prove “good moral character” for at least 5 years before filing for citizenship. Failing to protect children from abuse or neglect is an issue of “good moral character.”

Involuntary Termination of Parental Rights

Abuse and neglect proceedings can lead to the termination of parental rights. The termination of parental rights by itself would not automatically cause problems for a non-citizen. It can cause problems for the non-citizen parent that actively abused or neglected the child. The non-citizen parent and the attorney representing that parent need to be wary of any findings of fact and conclusions of law in which a court determines that the parent abused or neglected the child. Voluntary termination of parental rights should not be a problem for the non-citizen parent’s status or future status options.

Lawyers make referrals. It's something that comes with the territory. For some, making a referral is almost a daily occurrence. They are often made after work is declined. Staff may make them in response to a cold call or give one to a client who needs a service that the firm doesn't provide. Referrals are sometimes made during dinner conversations, at social events, or after a presentation given to the general public. Names may be passed along to family members, friends, a colleague, and to good clients. After all, we do want to make sure our good clients are well taken care of! Too often however, referrals seem to be made without any thought of the potential malpractice exposure. Is such casualness justifiable? Unfortunately, the answer is sometimes no.

Nationwide, malpractice coverage statistics vary geographically and over time due to any number of reasons. Some lawyers do not feel that malpractice coverage is necessary. They prefer to protect their assets in other ways. Others simply can't afford the coverage, particularly during economic hard times. I have even had a few lawyers tell me that they believe having malpractice coverage simply invites claims. As they see it, if they have no insurance no one will bother suing them. Regardless, this is a roundabout way of sharing that contrary to popular belief not all lawyers are insured for malpractice. In fact in a few states the percentage of uncovered lawyers has been estimated to be as high as 50%. This reality begs the question of what would happen if a lawyer made a referral to another lawyer who was uninsured and that lawyer eventually made a mistake? Might the referring lawyer be exposed? You bet. There are ways that liability can be found. It's a hunt for a deep pocket and it will be framed as negligent referral. The good news is that avoiding this type of claim is relatively easy.

The most dangerous type of referral is one that results in a referral fee and it doesn't matter if the fee was expected or simply offered as a gift. Acceptance of the fee can and will bring to the referring attorney liability for the other attorney's work. If a fee is offered, the best advice is to decline it or suggest that the referral fee be refunded to the client because referral fees are too easily viewed by the client as payment for legal advice to have them work with the other attorney.

If your practice is to accept referral fees, proceed fully aware of the risk involved and be up front with the client about the arrangement. Remember, when you share fees you share liability. Rule 1.5 of the Model Rules of Professional Conduct states that a division of a fee can only occur if the division is in proportion to the services performed and the client agrees in writing. In addition, the fee must be reasonable and each lawyer will assume joint responsibility for the representation. This rule clearly requires that a referring attorney who will be accepting a referral fee inform the client of the presence of the referral fee and obtain written consent to the fee division. Given all this, it would seem to be prudent to stay in contact with the other attorney in order to monitor critical dates and see that work is completed on time because there is no free lunch here.

Two side notes are in order. First, prior to ever making a referral where a referral fee is expected, consider making certain that the attorney you are referring to has malpractice insurance in place and that the limits are adequate for the size of the matter being referred. Do not accept verbal verification of coverage. There are attorneys who will say they are insured in order to obtain the business. Ask the other attorney for a copy of the declaration page to the malpractice policy prior to ever making this kind of referral. Second, occasionally an attorney who has recently been disbarred will seek to refer clients and request a referral fee. If the referral happened to be made while this attorney was in good standing with the bar, payment of the referral fee would be acceptable. If this attorney is seeking to make the referral and asking for a fee after being disbarred, the payment of a referral fee would be prohibited under Model Rule 5.4(a) which prohibits the sharing of fees with a non-attorney.

That said, acceptance of a referral fee is not the only method of creating a liability from a referral. Referrals to specific lawyers or a referral made with a promise such as “Attorney X is the finest personal injury plaintiff attorney in the area and always gets great results” can also create liability. To avoid exposure for a negligent referral claim, the rules are simple. When referring anyone to another lawyer always provide a minimum of three names and make no promises. Of course, suggesting the individual contact a state or local bar referral service would be another very safe practice.

Sometimes, however, we do wish to make a specific referral if for no other reason than to see that a good client is properly taken care of. If negligent referral claims are a concern for you, consider documenting adequate malpractice coverage by asking the other lawyer for a copy of the declarations page to her malpractice policy prior to making a specific referral. Why? It’s because one shouldn’t run with assumptions. Negligent referral claims are about coverage, not competency. Competent lawyers can and sometimes do make a mistake or miss a deadline and again, not all lawyers are insured.

One other type of attorney referral that can potentially create a serious problem is the referral made to an officemate in an office-sharing situation. By their very nature office sharing arrangements create added vicarious liability for every lawyer in the space. A simple referral to an officemate just increases the difficulty of avoiding this liability should a claim ever arise. In this situation it is particularly important to give a minimum of three names. It is fine to include an officemate in this list. Just be certain to disclose that one of the names provided is an attorney in the suite, make no promises about the suitemate, and be certain that the client understands that this attorney is completely independent. It would also be advisable to document how this referral was made in some fashion. Finally never make a referral to an officemate who is uninsured or underinsured. This risk simply isn’t worth it.

Now here is the interesting twist to the issue of negligent referral. Many referrals are made to non-clients. A lawyer’s duties to non-clients are minimal and thus negligent referral claims arising out of such referrals are few and far between. The real concern is when an attorney refers a client to another attorney or, perhaps more frequently, to another professional. Making matters worse, words of assurance are also often shared with the client in this situation perhaps as a way to make sure the client follows through. To underscore this concern, consider an estate planner who regularly refers clients to the same CPA and is surprised to learn, after the CPA has made an error, the CPA has no errors and omissions coverage. The client, now harmed, may very well look to the estate planning lawyer for a recovery based upon her legal advice to work with that particular CPA. Here, following the above advice becomes even more important. The same rules should apply whenever making a referral to an existing client. Always provide a minimum of three names, make no promises, and verify that an errors and omissions policy is in place if a specific referral is preferred.

Remember that these rules not only apply to referrals made after work is declined. They also apply to referrals made at a dinner party, in an e-mail to a friend, in response to an e-mail from someone contacting you as a result of a visit to your firm’s website, in a casual conversation following a public presentation, on a chat site, or in response to an inquiry over the phone.

The next issue concerns staff. Occasionally a firm will have a sound referral policy in place that all attorneys understand and follow yet a staff member may be completely unaware of the reason the policy is in place and thus not follow the rules in every instance. There is no ill will here, just an honest desire to try and see that clients get the best help possible. Their motivation is to provide good service. This staff person will make a specific referral to an attorney or other professional whom they know and think highly of blissfully unaware of the associated risks. For clients who are upset, staff may even try to reassure them by making certain “harmless” promises about the receiving attorney. “Attorney X is a very good attorney and well respected by our firm.” If attorney X misses a statute date and is uninsured or underinsured, the client may not agree with the statement that attorney X is a good lawyer and they may want to hold the firm liable for their loss.
Make certain that all staff understand your firm’s policy and procedure for referrals and also the reasons why such a policy is in place. Develop a referral list with three names for the various types of matters the firm will refer out and make it available to everyone in the office. If this list doesn’t cover a referral request, have the staff pass the matter on to one of the attorneys, politely decline by stating the firm does not make referrals, or have staff refer to the state or local bar referral line.

Last but not least, an often overlooked source of potential liability for negligent referral claims may come from links on your firm’s website. If there are links to other sites, an appropriate external links disclaimer should be prominently displayed near these links. The disclaimer should simply state that the firm has provided these links for the convenience of users of the site and that these links do not constitute an endorsement of the linked websites, or of the information, products, or services contained therein.

In reality negligent referral claims are not a significant problem for malpractice carriers. Yet when they arise, and they do, these claims can be costly. Given that the actions that can be taken to avoid this type of claim are highly effective and quite minimal, there really is no reason not to take the prudent course of action and follow the advice shared here.
Donald E. Covey, 73, of Winner, S.D. passed away Monday, June 11, 2018.

Don graduated from USD in ’67 with a B.A. in Government and in ’73 with a J.D. Don proudly served as copy editor of the law review. After graduation, he worked as one of the first law-trained magistrates in South Dakota and then entered private practice. He practiced for 41 years in Winner, S.D., taking his turn as Tripp County State’s Attorney and as court appointed defense counsel in Tripp and many other counties. He also practiced in federal court.

He served on numerous SD State Bar and Rosebud Bar committees, including the Ethics and ALPS Committees.

In addition to his dedication to the practice of law (he carried a copy of the United States Constitution with him), Don was dedicated to serving his community, both as an attorney and a citizen, by participating in Rotary, the Winner School Board, Winner Investment Club, several conservation districts, church council, and many others too numerous to mention.

One of his proudest accomplishments was his work on the committee that brought medical professionals to rural areas. Don took time away from his practice to share his beautiful signing voice at many funerals and weddings and also participated in several barbershop choruses.

Don leaves behind his loving wife, four children and their spouses, ten grandchildren, five siblings, and many nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends. He was preceded in death by many esteemed colleagues who shared his passion for, dedication to, and courage in defending the rule of law.

STRESS and DEPRESSION HELP

Contact information for the regional mental health centers in South Dakota is located at www.statebarofsouthdakota.com (“For SDBAR Members” Under the Health & Wellness tab, click on the Stress/Depression/Addiction link. We have reached an understanding with all these centers and all will honor our agreement. If you are stressed out or you believe that you may be suffering from depression, the State Bar encourages you to seek a professional evaluation. If you don’t have insurance or otherwise lack the financial resources, the State Bar project, funded by ALPS and the SD Bar Foundation, will cover the evaluation and several follow-up counseling sessions if indicated. You need only schedule the appointment and show them your 2018 active membership card. This is a confidential project. Counseling records are not, repeat, not made available to the State Bar. We just pay the bill for those who can’t afford it, up to the limit of $500 per lawyer.

If you have a law partner or lawyer friend that you believe may be suffering from stress and depression, visit with them. Encourage this lawyer to consider having an evaluation. Depression caught at the early stages prior to becoming chronic is much, much easier to address. In just a few counseling sessions, you or your friend can learn techniques to deal with the stress more effectively in our lives, whether personal or professional.

SOLACE PROGRAM

If you are aware of anyone within the South Dakota Legal Community (lawyers, law office personnel, judges, courthouse employees, or law students) who have suffered a sudden and/or catastrophic loss due to an unexpected event, illness, or injury, the South Dakota SOLACE Program may be able to assist. Please contact solace@sdbar.net if you, or someone you know, could benefit from this program.

We have a statewide (and beyond) network of generous South Dakota attorneys willing to get involved and help. We do not solicit cash but can assist with contributions of clothing, housing, transportation, medical community contacts, and a myriad of other possible solutions through the thousands of contacts available through the State Bar of South Dakota and its membership.
CLASSIFIEDS Contact | Email your employment announcement to tracie.bradford@sdbar.net by August 26th to have it included in the September newsletter. Please be sure to include a closing date. To see more jobs listings, visit www.statebarofsouthdakota.com.
