Taste that local love—by the fork or by the glass—on their 25-acre property, which includes a full-service bar, loft area, and a 3,000 square foot entertainment barn for special events. Also, on the grounds, they have a firepit, cornhole gaming, and umbrella-covered seating.

For the foodies with diverse palettes, AnnieMac's Kitchen offers not one, but two different styles of cuisine at their downtown Louisa restaurant! From savory southern entrees to mouth-watering Jamaican dishes, Annie Mac's Kitchen combines comfort and creole.

To soak in some additional vitamin D, have your meal outside and watch the train go by.

For those with more adventurous taste buds, try Obrigado's Restaurant's fusion menu! Their insta-worthy dishes offer a unique blend of Mediterranean and Southern foods. Here, you'll be able to try something new or stick with a yummy classic.
