Message from the President

The Parade of Homes is an annual event presented by the Home Builders Association of the Grand Traverse Area (HBAGTA), showcasing the newest trends in construction and building design in one of the country's most beautiful regions.

As you walk through these Parade Homes, look beyond the décor and closer at the architecture and craftsmanship. Appreciate the detail that goes into the electrical, plumbing, HVAC systems, countertops, flooring and painting. What do the size and shape of the windows and doors do for a home? Check out the exterior of the homes to appreciate the garage door, concrete work, decking and siding.

The builders will be available at each of the homes awaiting your questions, so please take a moment to say hello and provide a kind word about the special detail that has gone into their home.

On behalf of the HBAGTA members, I'd like to thank you for taking the time to walk through our Parade Homes. We hope you enjoy your visit to the 2017 Parade of Homes and recognize all the hard work, attention to detail and overall passion that are an integral part of these beautiful homes.

Sincerely,

Steve Eveleigh, CGP

REMODELED HOME

After

Before

We invite you to make the scenic drive to Platte Lake. Come see how our client-focused Interior Design process leads our trades to produce another Great Northern Home and happy homeowners.

Client project objectives: (4 of 9)

Incorporate a clean craftsmen style mixed with cottage, incorporating white, greens, and grays.

Relocate and update fireplace.

Replace & reconfigure the kitchen and 2.5 bathrooms to be more functional while increasing storage.

Open up stairway to improve sight lines from kitchen to living room, while creating interest.

Solutions: The Designer's narrative (1 of 6)

"The same linear stone-looking tile was used throughout to keep continuity, simplicity and to create rhythm in the house. The tile helped establish the color scheme of whites, creams, and grays and has a wavy pattern, reminiscent of beach sand, thus bringing in a lake cottage element. The Craftsman-style cabinetry, interior doors and millwork create a classic feel. Quartz countertops with glass backsplash and shower tiles incorporate the grays, greens, and creams, for a perfect complement to the cabinetry and millwork."

We invite you. Come and learn the full story of our clients' project objectives and our design build solutions.

REMODELED HOME

After

Before

After

The owners wanted to achieve two goals with this remodel: update the exterior of the home and gain more space in the kitchen and dining areas for family gatherings.

To update the exterior, we did a facelift from top to bottom: new windows, doors, siding, trim and decks. Utilizing the existing structure along with fresh color scheme and trim details we were able to bring new life and character to the outside of the home.

In the interior, we knocked out the middle dividing walls on the main level to create a greatly needed open space for a larger kitchen and dining room layout. The new country kitchen design includes white cabinets, quartz counters, stainless appliances, brick and tile accents plus custom trim details.

The stairway and entry area was also remodeled along with adding a built-in bench with coat hooks.

In the end, we were able to turn this common tri-level into a modern and inviting home.

KEY ITEMS TO CONSIDER WHEN PLANNING A KITCHEN REMODEL

Carolyn Andrews, Kitchen & Bath Designer with Northern Building Supply
Associate Director, Home Builder's Association Grand Traverse Area

Have you envisioned a new kitchen? Updates, new countertops, elegant cabinetry... The possibilities are endless! Are you ready to make your dream kitchen a reality? If so, these remodeling tips apply to you!

First, consider the following:

- Existing footprint: this is simply the current layout of your kitchen space.
- Are you keeping the same layout or are you able to bring down some walls? Find out if any walls are load bearing, as they may require some engineering.
- Are any windows going to move or change size?
- Are there soffits that are going to be pulled out?
- Appliances: Refrigerator, microwave, stove, range, dishwasher, garbage disposal...
- Are you planning to replace all or just some of your appliances?
- Size? Measurement? Most appliances have an industry standard size but some do not, especially refrigerators. Counter depth refrigerators are nice for remodels, especially if there is a limited amount of floor space.
- Flooring: Tile, wood, vinyl, laminate...
- Are you planning to keep the existing flooring?
- Does your current flooring run beneath the base of your cabinets? If not, you may need to change your flooring or be ready to adjust to the cabinets/appliance placement.
- Plumbing: Are you planning to move your sink or dishwasher?
- Size also matters. Apron front sinks are becoming more popular but typically require a special cabinet.

While undermount sinks have replaced the old drop in style, they do require a little bit more room inside the cabinet.

Whether moving plumbing, windows or walls, you are altering the layout style. Always be mindful of space allocation to accommodate your kitchen hardware.

Additional things considered with my clients include kitchen functionality.

I often ask, "Was there anything that they loved or hated in their current kitchen? What does their wish list include? Have they been pining for some customizations such as deep pot and pan drawers or tiered cutlery dividers?"

Lastly, many people are hooked on social media and online home improvement websites like Houzz and Pinterest. While these virtual tools can provide ideas and concepts, they can also be overwhelming. Due to the over abundant idea boards and online conception sites, clients can become perplexed and misled. I typically start with a client job by studying their Houzz idea books and/or Pinterest boards and locating the commonalities among each. From there, I guide the client from the virtual possibilities and develop them into realistic options. The goal is to maintain their aesthetic perception when designing the actual result.

Bottom line, if I could offer the most key advice to a client while going through the remodel process, it would be to NOT STRESS and always ASK QUESTIONS! This is your investment, your kitchen and a reflection of your taste. Take the time to pick options that best suit your aesthetic, needs and budget. After all is said and done, it will be well worth all of your efforts!

REMODELED HOME

After

This home, originally built in the 1960's, was purchased in the spring of 2016. The location was perfect, but the home needed much updating.

It had been added on to a few times and remodeled years ago. The homeowners contacted me for this remodel, they were looking for a new look to bring this home up to date. So we started with a new exterior design keeping everything in the original footprint. We also redesigned the interior floor plan to a spacious, open floor plan. The original home had lots of small rooms and low ceilings.

The kitchen area, which was originally the carport, was small with 7' ceilings. The garage was converted into a nice open sunroom and mudroom.

This turned out to be a complete gut on the inside, peeling back the layers of all the previous remodels and additions. The roof trusses were removed as well as the old 8' side walls and replaced with new 9' sidewalls and scissor trusses for that open look. New Pella 850 Series casement windows were added. All the mechanicals, plumbing and electrical were also replaced. At this point the homeowners have a beautiful, new, energy efficient home.

Checklist for Finding and Hiring a Builder or Remodeler

Doing your homework will help you have a more successful experience.

Use this checklist to help you select a home builder or home remodeler to work on or build your home:

Qualify potential Home Builders before wasting their time with the estimating process. A great bid but a poor job record is not going to get you anywhere. This is why it's so important to ask for and check references (which is detailed below). Find out if they are members of a Home Builders Association. Limit the bidding process to no more than three (3) Home Builders. This will give you time to research and determine the Home Builder who is best suited to your project.

Interview potential Home Builders' current and past clients, as well as the professionals the Home Builders work with (trade Home Builders and vendors). Don't trust a referral statement on a piece of paper, get on the phone and speak directly to references or meet them in person. For customer references, find out:

- If the references are new or really old ones.
- If the references are for jobs similar to yours.
- Are the projects similar in scope and price range to yours?
- If they are and have been in good standing

Call customer references. Ask the tough questions:

- How much was the original bid?
- How much was the final project?
- How did the Home Builder handle communication?
- Did he/she keep you informed at all times?
- Were there any surprises?
- Did the job finish on schedule?
- Are/were you satisfied with the project's quality and workmanship?

For Trades Specialty Contractor and vendor (electricians, plumbers, mechanical contractors, etc) references, find out:

- If the Home Builder pays on time. (Note: if the Home Builder does not pay the Trades Specialty Contractor, the Trades Contractor can put a lien on your house--which can require you to pay again.)
- How the Home Builder communicates with them about scheduling.
- How long they have worked together.
- What they like most about working with the Home Builder.
- What would they like to see improved in their relationships with the Home Builder.

REMODELED HOME

Bay Area Contracting, together with BAC Design Group and Senior Designer Marty Rhein are excited to present an Old Mission Peninsula home that, typical of so many homes built in the late 80's, was in dire need of an update - both to style and flow. To accomplish this improvement, the original closed floor plan was opened up; creating a modern home that allows easier movement between spaces.

The kitchen was completely redesigned with all new off-white and pewter glaze cabinets flanking the perimeter, new slate GE appliances, polished granite countertops and two cherry espresso islands. The smaller island, perfect for prep work or an appetizer display works well with the nearby larger island ideal for a quick bite or gathering space for guests.

The original red oak woodwork dated the home. White trim was integrated to update the oak doorways and the floors were re-finished with a modern stain color. The original short, dark, underwhelming fireplace mantel was transformed to a beautiful 10 foot tall white ship lap overmantel surrounding the existing multicolored brick. A new barn door was installed to brighten the mudroom/laundry room that features custom storage cubbies. Don't miss your chance to see how practical design improvements can transform a closed floor plan house, so common in our area.

REMODELED HOME

After

Before

After

When they first bought this home, the homeowners had a vision in mind of the property's potential. As they shared it with us, we knew that this design/build remodel was one of our favorite types of projects. It encompassed everything that we're passionate about in remodeling- the ability to create a new living environment that really works for the family.

Grand Bay Building and Remodeling added a full second floor to the existing home to create the space and bedrooms that this family needed. A main floor bedroom suite is the only untouched part of the original home and now serves as a guest suite. The stair case is centrally located next to a bedroom converted to a main floor office. This project is a perfect example of the popular open floor plan trend. The redesign of the kitchen, island and dining dramatically changed the main floor of the home.

The second floor is the private family space. It includes a large master suite, Jack and Jill bedrooms, laundry, as well as a wonderfully large family room. The addition of a roof to the existing wrap around deck completes the exterior. The completed project meets our remodeling goal- the home looks like it was always meant to be this way.

We'd like to thank the homeowners for allowing us to share this project. We'll be on site during the Parade of Remodeled Home weekend and look forward to meeting you.

New or Renewed: A Brief Comparison Between Building New and Remodeling

By Caleb Norris

For the 2017 Parade of Homes, the Grand Traverse Area Home Builders' Association will once again be showcasing a selection of remodeled homes, in addition to the regular schedule of new homes. Held on two separate weekends, the remodels and new builds (first and second weekends respectively) will no doubt raise questions about the pros and cons of each.

The decision between building new or remodeling is at times pretty clear, but there are circumstances that can muddy the waters. Following are a few common concerns and questions that our design team hears from clients considering whether to build or remodel.

At Norris Design we're often asked about the costs of remodeling. The general assumption is that there's a big savings when remodeling as opposed to building new, but this isn't always true. Remodeling requires working around existing structures and details, which drives up cost. So even if your project is small (i.e. one-room addition, bath renovation, or basement build-out), you may still pay more per square foot than or the same space in a new build. Depending on the extent of the remodeling, there's a point at which tearing down an existing home and building new becomes more cost effective.

Another common assumption is that you'll save some money by doing the work yourself. We live in the age of the self-empowered DIYer, but be warned: this plan can backfire. Remodels tend to present hidden imperfections of the home that create more work. There are unforeseen time delays, and the stress of coordinating all the parts and pieces of the project is something to consider. In the end these things can lead to higher cost than if you'd hired a professional.

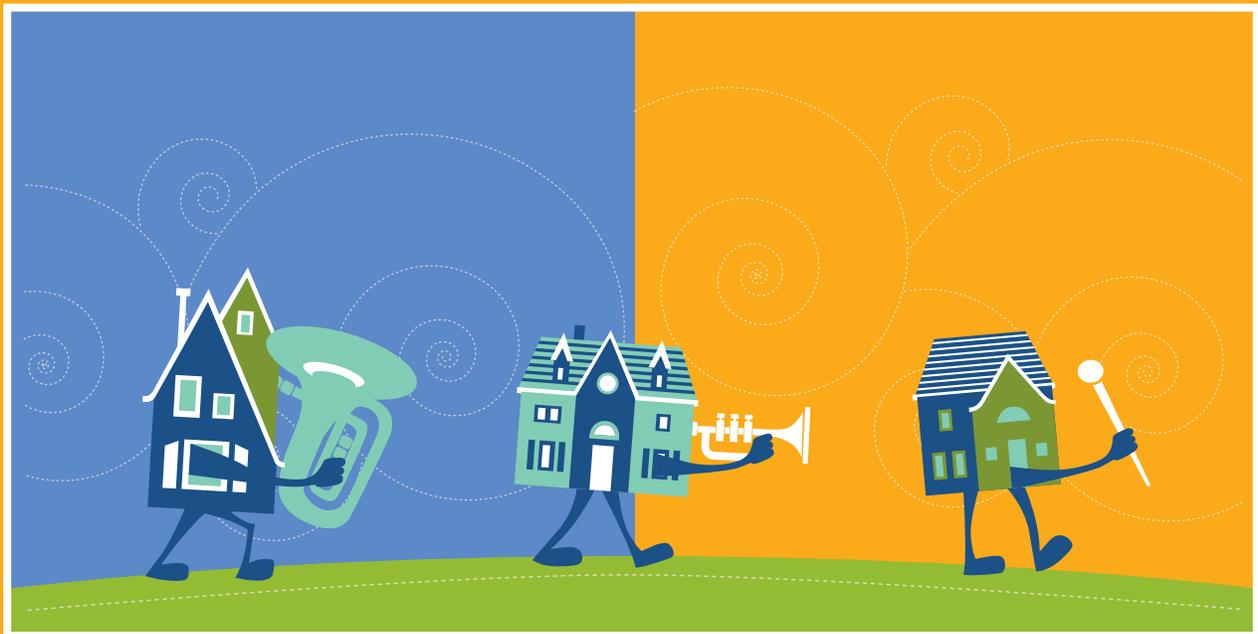

Energy efficiency is another issue to take into account. Many people come to the design table thinking they need in-floor heat, or that a walk-out lower level will be musty and cold like the houses they've lived in. Not so with the new houses of today. Current minimum standards for insulating and sealing create homes that are more comfortable and easy to air condition than homes of the past. Even the past 5 years have seen huge advances, so say goodbye to chilly floors and freezing basements! If you're remodeling, consider adding insulation to existing basements and crawl spaces. This will drastically improve the energy efficiency and overall quality of your home, far beyond what a fresh coat of paint could do.

What about lay-out? A new home can take whatever shape the home owner's needs and desires require (and budget allows), but with an imaginative designer, a remodel can have a lot of flexibility. Of course there are times the limitations of the existing home become restrictive, but this shouldn't be assumed. A general guideline is: if you are overall happy with the layout of your existing home, a cosmetic remodel is very achievable. If you like most of the layout but want to move some rooms to different locations within the structure or add rooms, then you're looking at a more challenging design process with more limitations, but it's still achievable. If you want to gut the existing house and totally renovate and rearrange the interior, then you are quickly approaching the threshold of tear-down and build new.

Also consider where you'll live during the construction process. Obviously, with a new build you'll need someplace to stay during construction, but remodeling can be equally displacing. It depends on the extent of the remodel, but more often than not, temporary accommodations will be needed and highly beneficial. Not all remodel projects affect vital areas of the house, but the noise, disruption of routine, and mess can be enough of a reason to temporarily vacate your home. In addition to being more peaceful for you and your family, it frees the builder to work more quickly, making the whole project more cost effective and stress-free.

Whichever way you go, one thing is certain: you are embarking on an exciting adventure, at the end of which awaits a home that will be new to you!

8192 Peninsula Drive, Traverse City

NEW HOME

Main Floor 2438 sf 3 bedroom / 3.5 bath
Lower Level 2132 sf

The owners of this stunning waterfront walkout on Old Mission Peninsula envisioned a casual, welcoming home with wide-open spaces where they could host friends and celebrate family. The challenge for BAC and BAC Design Group was to incorporate classic design elements inspired by nature and surrounding vintage farms while maintaining an overall urban flair. This was achieved on the exterior with dark grey LP board + batten and lap siding – echoing a “painter’s palette” of field rocks, barn boards, and tree bark – as well as linear metal roofing accents, natural cedar columns anchored by ledge stone bases on the lower-level patio, and black iron railings on the covered veranda above.

A subtle and harmonious interplay of textures and contrasts characterize the interior. On the main level, the kitchen’s brushed dark-brown granite, brick backsplash tile, and smooth white quartz countertops meet matte painted-wood cabinets. Rustic barn beams highlight the great room’s white tongue-and-groove vaulted ceiling, and a blackened steel-wrapped chimney adds modern drama to the rustic stone fireplace. Wide-plank European white oak floors form a warm backdrop for crisp shiplap wainscoting. An en-suite master bedroom and den form the entire south wing of the house, and two more bedrooms flank a large lower-level family room with a vintage-style wet bar.

Home finishes include:

- Three fireplaces
- Mudroom
- Huge walk-in pantry
- Drywall-wrapped windows
- 3-car garage
- Billiard room
