From Paris To Evergreen!

Why is the Chamber of Commerce important to Evergreen? You may have read my articles, seen my live videos promoting business, heard me speak at an event but do you really know why having a Chamber is important in the first place? If you think of our communities like a pond with Evergreen in the center there is an Evergreen Chamber of Commerce, a Colorado Chamber of Commerce, a United States Chamber of Commerce, there are Chambers of Commerce all over the world!

Paris, France is one of my most favorite places to visit. If I were to move there one day I know from my experience in Evergreen that the Chamber of Commerce will be an invaluable resource to my immersion into life in a new city. As a tourist I know that connecting with the local Chamber would give me great ideas about tourist experiences I may not otherwise discover.

Seeing the Chamber of Commerce in Paris reminds me that what we do as a Chamber is important not just to Evergreen but to towns and cities all over the world. A Chamber of Commerce acts as three things in any community, a champion, a convener and a catalyst for growth. This is what we have in common and this is what makes any chamber office a critical resource across the globe.

Being a champion for all things community whether it be for businesses, guests or residents. Our businesses are worth patronizing, our community worth visiting, our way of life is amazing. A champion communicates these ideals in any way possible. Everything we are and everything we do is in the service of a stronger community.

To convene and connect business partners is the reason we host networking events, encouraging the sharing of information about local companies. We work to find power partners to put together to increase the opportunities for success. Our community is relationship driven so our job is to foster and help grow those relationships. The more we know about our local businesses the more we can share with each other in conversation.

To be a catalyst for economic growth in our community drives what we do and how we do it. Growth helps our schools, our businesses and our property values increase over time with the strength of community. It is our belief that the health of the business community and the health of larger community in which it lives are inextricable. And our work – providing the tools that businesses need to succeed – is central to the success of the community as a whole.

From Paris, France to Evergreen, Colorado the Chamber of Commerce is universally recognized for its unique and invaluable role in helping businesses prosper and helping communities thrive. Thank you for your support of our local community. Anytime you need a recommendation go to our website, call our office and follow us on Facebook. We are here to help!

CHAIRMAN'S CIRCLE SPOTLIGHT

Canyon Courier- Evergreen Newspapers An Interview with Kristin Witt, Publisher

27902 Meadow Drive, 200 | Evergreen, 80439

(303) 674-5534

The Canyon Courier is your local newspaper, making us different than any other publication in the area. We have some exceptional monthly publications in our mountain communities, but the only one reporting the news in the greater Evergreen area is the Canyon Courier.

For instance if you know the details of the Artful School Bus and its mission to make the creative process of art accessible to people throughout our area, or if you know about the work being done to the athletic field at Conifer High School, or if you know about the meeting held concerning a potential addiction recovery center on Buffalo Park Road, there is a good chance you get the Canyon Courier, or know someone who does.

The Canyon Courier is a paid subscription product, and every week it is filled, cover to cover with news you can't get anywhere else, because it is local, entirely local – reported by people onsite and in touch. We are different than other newspapers because we are committed to remaining local which means we pay reporters, photographers, editors to be there, when things happen, to get the story first hand. Many newspapers are pulling their editorial content from national sources that allow access to generic articles. We believe our value to the community in part, is the fact that we serve this community on a very personal level.

In October of 2018 we celebrated 60 years as your local newspaper - a notable achievement in this day and age. We looked back over sixty years of reporting the events that have made Evergreen and Conifer what they are today. It was like a walk through the development of a community, the history and humor, as well as the challenges that we have faced – and we found that our mountain communities have much to be proud of.

We are a long established institution, but we are not resting on past success. We have expanded our model to include three glossy publications each year, as well as some high end tabloid issues that focus on the many gifted and generous people who make up our mountain family. Last year we published Women in Extraordinary Professions, highlighting women who have pioneered jobs generally done by men. In May we published Men Who Make a Difference, putting a spotlight on men in our area who generously give back in resource and man hours to meet the needs of the community. Later this year we will be publishing Kids Who Will Change the World, featuring young people who are doing something exceptional to make an impact on their society. We love these publications for the positivity and support they bring to our readership. In August we will publish our third annual Becoming Colorado, a magazine dedicated entirely to exploring what it is that makes Coloradoans different, and why we cherish that difference so fiercely.

We find that that our customers, both readers and advertisers, are people who are invested in our mountain life. They are committed to living an authentic “small town” life, knowing that to keep the wheels turning they will need to become involved. They are well informed, well thought of, and thoroughly committed to the success of their home and environment.

As a business, the Canyon Courier is diligent in supporting our many nonprofits that make life livable in these mountain communities. We provide discounted/free advertising for events and many cash sponsorships. We do it because we are more than your newspaper, we are your neighbors and we care about this community as our own. We always say we are not here only to report, we are here to support and to contribute wherever we are can.

The news isn't always fun, but it is always important. We commit every day to covering it with truth tempered by grace and a bit of wisdom.

Q: What service(s) or product(s) do you offer/manufacture?

Revivid is a manufacturer of CBD, and CBD products. Revivid has several lines including Revivid Sport, which has zero THC included, for athletes and working professionals.

Q: How would you describe this company's values?

Ownership realized the cost of CBD was too high for the average consumer, and started the business to create a product that would drive down the cost of hemp and CBD products to the cost of sugar.

Q: Why do your customers select you over your competitors?

Revivid products are created for every walk of life. While forging ahead in new production methods, we maintain a price under what most other companies can afford to sell at, for both full-spectrum and THC-Free products.

Q: To what do you attribute your success?

We attribute our success to the team of hard-working individuals and the care each person puts into their craft. We have around 60 employees and each one brings something new to the table.
