STRONG AND SUCCESSFUL

BANKER STEEL COMPANY, an award-winning, AISC-certified steel fabricator, began operations in 1997, and provides the foundation for impressive buildings all over the country. The company is based in Lynchburg and also has facilities in Florida and New Jersey. In total, these facilities run as much as 25,000 tons of steel at any given time.

"If you can dream it, we can fabricate it," says CEO Don Banker.

Banker Steel has been at the forefront of some of the most high-profile projects in recent decades. They have provided the first steel to rebuild the World Trade Center Tower 1 following the attack of 9/11. They also helped to construct Barclays Center in Brooklyn, New York, the Orlando Soccer Stadium, the MGM Resort at National Harbor and the Marine Corps Museum.

Over the last two decades, Banker Steel has become of one of the top steel fabricators on the east coast, winning numerous awards for their hard work and dedication to excellence.

While parts of the job are labor-intensive and require handson work, technological advances have made the job easier. The most up-to-date equipment and processes are utilized to ensure that every piece of steel created is accurate down to the smallest detail. This allows new pieces to quickly be created as a project scope changes. Powerful 3D modeling and Building Information Modeling (BIM) software is used to create detailed virtual models that can be used to examine every part of a project.

Banker Steel says they are different from many competitors in that they truly invest in their employees.

"We empower each employee with the authority to participate in our overall process and product quality," says Chet McPhatter, President of Banker Steel. This means that anyone can have input into the process. For example, if you believe you have spotted an area where quality or efficiency can be improved, company leadership actively encourages you to speak up.

You'll have the opportunity to learn how steel fabrication works, including skills that will allow you significant opportunity for personal and professional growth. You'll work with people from across the country on challenging, unique and interesting projects. And, you'll be supported by leaders who are actively working to improve the company and the lives of those who make it great.

Banker Steel's benefits include medical, dental, vision and life insurance, 401-K and paid holidays. To learn more and to see current job openings, visit www.bankersteel.com.
