MARCH 8-11, 2023
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

Dear ASA Members & Friends

Welcome to SUBExcel! I am so excited to be joining all of you in gorgeous Fort Worth, Texas, a city full of rich history and vibrant culture. I am immensely looking forward to meeting with everyone here at the beautiful Hilton Fort Worth, and I am excited for what the week holds in store for us. The saying tells us that everything is bigger in Texas, and this year's SUBExcel will be no exception!

During the upcoming week I am looking forward to more opportunities to network and share ideas than ever before, all while having a lot of fun together. We have incredible speakers lined up, as well as some really exciting events planned. I hope to see some of you dancing at the Honky Tonk! Each year SUBExcel is our chance to meet with fellow subcontractors from across the country, and it is always a highlight of my year. If this is your first SUBExcel, welcome! I am confident that this event will become an annual treat for you as well. Our industry is like no other, and great things happen year after year when we all come together.

I look forward to seeing all of you during SUBExcel

Sincerely,
Rusty Plowman
ASA President 2022-2023

Keynote Speakers

Tom Thibodeau

Distinguished Professor of Servant Leadership

Thursday, March 9

8:45 am - 10:00 am

Tom is the Distinguished Professor of Servant Leadership at Viterbo University where he has taught for thirty-five years. He is the founder of the Master of Arts in Servant Leadership degree at Viterbo, the only master's degree of its kind in the nation. He is a founding member of the Place of Grace hospitality house which had been serving meals and human dignity for twenty years. He regularly speaks to national audiences on the developing servant leadership movement.

Chris Cassidy

NASA Astronaut, Navy SEAL, CEO and President of the National Medal of Honor Museum

Friday, March 10

In his talk, "Mission Possible: It's in You," CAPT Cassidy shares his personal story with the audience – both from his time as a Navy SEAL and a NASA astronaut – about the importance of persevering in the face of adversity and on the path to success. Drawing on lessons-learned on the battlefield and in space, CAPT Cassidy inspires groups to embrace the "never-quit" mindset and shows how it's in each and every one of us to recognize opportunities, shape them and take action to thrive in clutch moments and achieve more than we thought was possible as we leave our marks in this world, while bringing others up along the way.

Education Sessions

Signing Contracts Has Consequences!

Thursday, March 9
10:10 am – 11:10 am

Who better to discuss the real meaning and the dangers hidden in the fine print of contract language than a lawyer who does it on a daily basis. We will also discuss insurance and the significant challenges of ensuring you are truly protected and at the same time managing your liability and costs. This session will also provide examples of court cases ASA has battled and won as part of our Subcontractors' Legal Defense fund initiatives.

Panelists:

Show Me the Money (Supply)

Dr. Anirban Basu

Friday, March 10
2:00 pm – 3:00 pm

Soft landing? Something harder? Whither inflation? This presentation will supply in-depth analysis of the major factors shaping economic outcomes, including central bank policymaking, worker attitudes, business confidence, and geopolitics. It will then turn toward a forecast for the year to come, highlighting the major risks that economic stakeholders will likely encounter.

Succession Planning Panel

Friday, March 10
10:20 am – 11:20 am

When to plan, how to plan, when to seek counsel and how to place a value on your business in preparation for its for sale. Your peers will discuss the pitfalls, challenges and their successes in planning their exit, while ensuring the business continues to thrive. Additionally, succession planning ensures that there is no leadership vacuum after the retirement or exit of a senior officer in the organization. In the case of a family business, it ensures that the business continues to run even after the exit or death of important persons in the business. Are you ready?

Cattle Drive with Pub Crawl

Discover the history of Fort Worth's famous Stockyards as you visit local saloons and watering holes. Enjoy the hidden history, cold drinks, and good times. Experience the Stockyards like you never have before! Fort Worth is where the West begins, and nothing embodies Western heritage better than the Fort Worth Stockyards National Historic District. From the original brick walkways to the wooden corrals, every inch of the Stockyards tells the true history of Texas's famous livestock industry.

The Fort Worth Herd steers can be viewed before and after cattle drives in their pens behind the Livestock Exchange Building or at the Observation Deck just east of the Livestock Exchange Building on East Exchange Avenue. Drovers are available before each cattle drive for photo ops and questions. Be sure and ask for Steer Trading Cards!

Friday, March 10, 7:30 pm

The World's Largest Honky Tonk

Whether you want to strut your dancing stuff, ride a bull, or shoot some pool, we'll all be having fun at Billy Bob's Texas. We'll start the evening with sampling authentic western cuisine, and then get moving - whether on a bull, in a line dance, at the pool table or on your own, exploring the music memorabilia and a variety of other activities.

Stuart Binstock

Stuart Binstock is President and CEO of the Construction Financial Management Association (CFMA). He has extensive experience in management issues, including strategic planning, government affairs, educational programming and delivery, financial management, membership development, non-dues revenue growth, program development, and process improvements.

Binstock has served in executive positions for such trade and professional associations as the National Electrical Contractors Association, Associated General Contractors of America, and American Institute of Architects. He is an experienced moderator of panels at national and regional conferences. He is also a frequent speaker and has been interviewed on television and NPR.

Since Binstock became President and CEO of CFMA, the association's membership has grown from 6,400 to over 9,000 today. Its revenue has grown from $4.6 million to $6.1 million today. This growth has come about by CFMA focusing on bringing value to its members, finding non-dues revenue sources of income and returning nearly 10% of its revenue back to its 99 chapters through a variety of means which has resulted in strengthening CFMA's chapters, thus strengthening the entire Association.

Stuart received his JD from the Catholic University School of Law in Washington, D.C. and has a BS in Industrial and Labor Relations from Cornell University.

Brian Carroll

Brian Carroll is the most recent past ASA President. He has previously served as the ASA Vice President as well as Secretary/Treasurer at ASA. He is a co-owner and outside general counsel for LoneStar Paving in Austin, Texas. Brian is also the managing partner at Sanford & Carroll, PC. The primary focus of his firm is representing contractors and subcontractors in the construction industry. He holds a Bachelor's of Science in Architectural Engineering from the University of Texas at Austin, as well as a law degree from Baylor. Prior to pursuing a law degree, Brian worked as a design engineer for two of the preeminent civil engineering firms in the nation. He has also taught senior and graduate level courses in contracts, liability, and engineering ethics at the University of Texas School of Engineering.

Captain Chris Cassidy

NASA Astronaut, U.S. Navy SEAL, CEO and President of the National Medal of Honor Museum

A decorated veteran of the sea, air, land, and outer space, Captain Chris Cassidy is among the leaders of an exclusive and distinguished group of accomplished military astronauts who have made an impact on and beyond this world. Recognized for his leadership and achievements as a United States Navy SEAL and a NASA astronaut, CAPT Cassidy's various military deployments and spaceflight missions provided the catalysts for an action-packed career where he made the most of every opportunity presented to him, even in challenging and high-stakes environments.

Exclusively represented by Leading Authorities speakers bureau, CAPT Cassidy's talks explore the habits of effective leaders and how they can motivate their teams to overcome the obstacles in front of them, foster a high-performing culture of trust, and thrive in clutch moments when everything is on the line. With a talent for storytelling and well-timed humor, he shares his inspiring journey from the U.S. Naval Academy to becoming NASA's 15th Chief Astronaut – motivating audiences to develop a never-quit mindset to accomplish their goals, and help others along the way.

CAPT Cassidy's career began as a member of the U.S. Navy SEALs team where he spent 11 of his 28 years in the Navy – making two six-month deployments to Afghanistan and a further two deployments to the Mediterranean. During his tenure with the Navy SEALs, he served in various leadership roles, including Executive Officer and Operations Officer of Special Boat Team Twenty and SEAL Delivery Vehicle (SDV) platoon commander in Norfolk, Virginia, as well as SEAL platoon commander at SEAL Team THREE in Coronado, California. Deployed to Afghanistan just two weeks after the September 11 attacks, Cassidy also served as Ground Assault Force Commander for international and U.S.-only combat missions. A master of many trades while serving his country, CAPT Cassidy also amassed several hundred hours underwater as a navigator or mission commander of a two-man flooded submersible SDV which are launched from a full-sized submarine at sea.

Making his way from Earth to the cosmos, CAPT Cassidy was selected as an astronaut candidate by NASA in 2004. Assigned his first spaceflight in 2009 as a mission specialist aboard the STS-127, he became the 500th person in history to fly into space, as well as the second-ever SEAL. In subsequent flight experiences, CAPT Cassidy was assigned to Expedition 35 in 2013 as a flight engineer and Expedition 63 as Commander of the International Space Station in 2020. While at NASA, CAPT Cassidy accumulated 378 days in space, and 54 hours, 51 minutes of spacewalk time, placing him in an elite group of four U.S. crew members with 10 spacewalks. He was named NASA's Chief Astronaut in 2015, a role in which he was responsible for flight assignments, mission preparation, and on-orbit support of U.S. crews, as well as organizing astronaut office support for future launch vehicles. He served in this position for two years before returning to normal flight status. In May 2021, three-time space veteran CAPT Cassidy announced his retirement from both NASA and the Navy, transitioning into his current role as CEO of the National Medal of Honor Museum. He also serves on the board of directors for the JFK Library Foundation and the Navy SEAL Foundation, and as an advisor for New Vista Acquisition Corp.

Among CAPT Cassidy's awards and honors are the Bronze Star with combat "V," the Presidential Unit Citation for leading a nine-day operation at the Zharwar Kili cave complex on the Afghanistan/Pakistan border, a second Bronze Star for combat leadership during Operation Enduring Freedom, and the NASA Exceptional Achievement Medal. He completed the 2014 Ironman World Championship in Kona, Hawaii and spent three weeks cycling through the Amazon rainforest in 2017. CAPT Cassidy earned his Bachelor of Science in mathematics from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1993 and his Master of Science in ocean engineering from MIT in 2000. He was awarded an honorary Ph.D. from Husson University in 2015, and a second honorary Ph.D. from the University of Maine at Augusta in 2021.

Angela M. Wentz

Angie currently serves as the Executive Director, ASA Western Pennsylvania.

Angie started her career in the family business,

Zottola Steel Corp. She specialized in the highway division and later branched off to start Highway Construction Products, a WBE company, selling steel products to Penn DOT highway contractors for 10 years.

After taking a few years off to raise her two sons, she was approached in 2002 by the President of ASA Western PA to manage their books and schedule their meetings. This allowed her to work from home and still care for the boys. There were 18 members at the time. As the years went on and membership grew, so did the responsibilities of the job along with membership.

21 years later, membership has grown to over 80, monthly meetings are more frequent, and social events like our Annual Networking Evening and Golf Outing have become well-known and well attended by the construction community.

In her spare time, she enjoys volunteering at church, working out at the YMCA and biking the trails of Western PA.

Larry Williams

Larry has been with the Marek Companies, a family-owned group of commercial and residential interior construction companies, for the past 42 years where he has served in various executive capacities including Employee Relations Manager, Risk Manager and Director of Human Resources.

In 1996, he was instrumental in founding MEMCO, a Marek-owned payroll and staffing company where he continues to serve as President. Under his guidance MEMCO has grown to more than 3000 employees serving the construction industry with 10 offices spanning Texas, Colorado, Georgia and Tennessee.

Larry is a 1975 graduate of the University of Texas at Austin and has been involved in the construction industry for nearly 50 years. He has been active in workforce-related issues affecting the construction industry for much of his career with MEMCO and Marek.

James T. Yand

Jim Yand's practice focuses on resolving challenges involved in construction and property development. He has more than 30 years of experience resolving high-conflict cases that often determine the continued success of the client's project or business. His representation across the construction chain also allows him to craft and litigate contract terms that achieve the most effective results.

This work also extends to serving as outside counsel for various trade groups and advising on a range of business questions that arise. Jim is a frequent author and speaker on various construction industry topics.

Jim lives in Seattle with his wife and children. Born in Thailand and raised there until he was 12, Jim enjoys cooking Thai food for friends and family as his creative outlet.
