APRIL KIMBLE

April Kimble has spent the last 15 years supporting the employee experience through her work as an internal communicator, intranet maven, and development and engagement leader. Helping employees feel connected to their company, understand the business, and engaged at work ultimately makes employees and leaders happier, and that's what her work is all about.

In her personal life, April is an artist and creator who paints, knits and crochets, gardens, and makes messes in the kitchen. She has embraced the work/life balance she found in remote work and is dedicated to using her old commuting time to fulfill her passions. A painting of April's was recently accepted in a juried show at Perkins Center for the Arts in South Jersey and her website where she blogs and has a portfolio of her work is www.creatingapril.com.
