DR. KRISTIN BRILL

Dr. Kristin Brill, Jefferson Health's Enterprise Director of Breast Oncology, has extensive expertise in a comprehensive range of services for patients with malignant and benign disease, including breast-conserving surgery, nipple-sparing mastectomy, preventive mastectomy, reconstruction, accelerated partial breast radiation device placement, and clinical trials for breast cancer. Particular areas of focus for Dr. Brill include young women with breast cancer and those at high risk.

Prior to joining Jefferson, Dr. Brill was at Cooper University Health Care, where she was head of the Division of Breast Surgery and Director of the Janet Knowles Breast Cancer Center at MD Anderson Cancer Center at Cooper and Assistant Professor of Surgery at Cooper Medical School of Rowan University in Camden, N.J. She also directed the Breast Surgical Oncology Fellowship at Cooper Medical School and was an adjunct assistant professor in the Department of Surgery at The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center. She is a member of the American Society of Clinical Oncology, American Society of Breast Surgeons, Society of Surgical Oncology, and the Breastcancer.org advisory board.

After receiving her bachelor's degree from Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pa., Dr. Brill received her medical degree from Hahnemann University School of Medicine in Philadelphia. She completed her surgical residency at New York Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn and a breast surgical oncology fellowship at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York.

Dr. Brill is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and is routinely named a "Top Doc" by Philadelphia Magazine and New Jersey Monthly.
