ABOUT US

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce is one of the longest-running and most influential business organizations in Canada.

For 134 years, we've helped build Edmonton into the city it is today by advocating for, educating, and connecting our local business community. Since our founding in 1889 as the Edmonton Board of Trade—in a time before Edmonton was even a city—we've provided practical growth opportunities, strong member support and enthusiastic advocacy for the competitive conditions that allow businesses to thrive.

We're part of a robust business community that extends regionally, provincially, nationally, and around the globe within the Chamber and World Trade Centre Networks, and we are unwavering in our commitment to champion Edmonton and the Metropolitan Region as a great place to live, work, learn, and do business. We're proud of our work and our members.

Our Board of Directors is a strong, diverse and balanced blend of business leaders and community influencers, nominated and elected by membership, whose knowledge and experience guides our strategic thinking. At the Board, leadership and operational levels, we strive to reflect the incredible diversity of Edmonton's business community.

LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce respectfully acknowledges that we are situated on Treaty 6 territory, the traditional lands of diverse Indigenous Peoples—First Nations, Métis, and Inuit—who have lived on, cared for, and travelled this land for centuries. The cultures and histories of the Indigenous Peoples of this land continue to enrich our community and help us go forward in truth and collaboration on our reconciliation journey.

“I’ve seen Edmonton’s deeply rooted business community demonstrate tremendous determination and resilience, collectively advancing the growth and vibrancy of our region.”

TAKING THE HURDLES TOGETHER

MESSAGE FROM THE PAST CHAIR

It has been a great honour to serve as Board Chair for the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce in 2022. It was an interesting year of ups and downs for the Chamber and we know that the same was the case for the business community – we know firsthand what you’re up against.

The year held no shortage of challenges for the businesses in Edmonton. Property taxes, hybrid work policies, safety downtown, a shortage of labour, and supply chain complications are just some of the concerns we heard from members in 2022. You called on us to be your voice, and we answered – we advocated on these issues to all orders of government in 2022, and we will continue to do so.

Although this was a difficult year, it was also a year of notable successes. We became one of the first chambers in Canada to begin working with an Elder in Residence; Elder Irene Morin of the Enoch Cree Nation has become a valued partner and member of our team, and we thank her for generously sharing her time, knowledge, and insight. We were able to give back to our city and invest in the next generation’s success with a donation of more than $30,000 to E4C’s School Lunch Program. We debuted new events including the State of the Region this past fall – a catalyst for vital conversations about the future we envision for our region, and what steps we can take to make it happen.

Over this year, I have seen Edmonton’s deeply rooted business community demonstrate tremendous determination and resilience, collectively advancing the growth and vibrancy of our region. Your tenacity and ingenuity has been a constant source of inspiration in my time as Chair, and I am confident that as we continue to navigate and adapt to the challenges of the post-COVID world, the collective insight and expertise of this community will drive our whole region toward a prosperous future.

Dennis R. Schmidt
2022 Board Chair

“Together, we are an economic engine that drives opportunity and vibrancy for our region. Together, we have a powerful voice.”

—Haydar Al Dahhan

LOOKING AHEAD

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

While serving as a member of the Chamber’s Policy Committee, I had the chance to hear from a diversity of Edmonton businesses about their goals and priorities, the obstacles they face, and what the Chamber can do to support them. As the newly elected Board Chair for 2023, I’m excited to work alongside my fellow board members, building on the outstanding work of the Chamber this past year and further enhancing our relevance and impact.

As a business owner, I understand the challenges so many businesses are grappling with. Interest rates, uncertainty, and anxiety are all running high. My colleagues at the Chamber and I are committed to working even harder this year to advocate for and support the unique needs of Edmonton’s job creators— together, we are an economic engine that drives opportunity and vibrancy for our region. And together, we have a powerful voice.

In 2023, the Chamber will be focusing on diversity and inclusion, and ensuring that young leaders see value in what we offer. We will also continue our work on reconciliation, and build partnerships to unlock the immense potential of Edmonton’s urban indigenous population. Additionally, we will advocate for the best possible business environment in the Edmonton Metro Region and continue building collaborative relationships with key partners such as Edmonton Global, Edmonton Unlimited, Health Cities, BOMA Edmonton, Urban Development Institute Edmonton, NAIOP, and the Realtors Association.

The Chamber of Commerce is here for all businesses in this city, large or small, new or established. Our community of members is over 1,800 strong now, and we always have room for more. It’s a great privilege and a great responsibility to represent each and every one of these member companies—I look forward to giving my all in this new role and guiding the Chamber to embrace change, make meaningful connections, and drive the future of business in our region swiftly forward.

Haydar Al Dahhan
2023 Board Chair

TRADE ACCELERATOR PROGRAM (TAP)

Exporting can be daunting, costly and time consuming, limiting many businesses' opportunities for growth. The Trade Accelerator Program (TAP) connects small to medium-sized enterprises with industry experts who help each participant develop and execute a personalized market-entry export plan.

This program is the most comprehensive of its kind in our region. Its combination of intensive workshops, peer-to-peer exchange and individual mentoring from leading Canadian export advisors gets participants ready to go global in no time.

In 2022, following several successful cohorts over the last three years, the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce supported the Calgary Chamber in offering TAP to a cohort of Indigenous business owners. We were also proud to run the program for another cohort of our own in the fall, with a total of 13 businesses participating.

2022 HIGHLIGHTS

- Participants' average total revenue grew by approximately 40% within one year of completing the program
- 95% of participants indicated that TAP and writing the export plan were helpful in preparing them for export activities
- 55% of companies sourced financing as a result of TAP, with an average financing amount of $1,206,575

“Venturing into the world of export can be a maze of confusion and uncertainty. TAP helped me unravel that maze and gave me a new set of tools that allowed me to establish a clearly focused plan designed to help me realize my export vision. The program not only connects you with leading experts in a variety of fields, but also helps you dial into the more complex details of international trade that perhaps aren't otherwise apparent or intuitive.

It helped us find international trade partners and launch our brand in both Japan and Korea! I encourage anyone who is interested in better defining and actualizing their own export journey to enroll in TAP.”

Business Expansion

People start businesses for a lot of reasons; some do it for money and others for fame, but for my family and I, we wanted to help grow the diverse eco-system within Alberta, especially within the Asian communities. I was born and raised in the Philippines and moved to Taiwan once I finished my education. After spending two years exploring the world of residential and commercial cleaning, I embarked on my journey to Fort McMurray, Alberta.

After spending a few years working as a nanny as I integrated into western society, I was in-spired to jump right into the deep end and start my own cleaning company, Hyklen Services. It was then that I found out how impactful networking can be for a business, especially a Startup. The company started off as residential cleaning only, but as the need grew, so did our business. We then added commercial and industrial cleaning, which includes foreclosure. The cleaning didn't stop there, as we added snow removal & bin rentals to our services. Hyklen Services currently operates in both Edmonton and Fort McMurray.

As serial entrepreneurs, we wanted to look at other ways of how we can provide reliable, trusted services to the local ecosystem, so we opened CentreTech Automotive and Welding. CentreTech offers a full range of mechanical services in Edmonton and surrounding areas, and a wide range of Welding services catering to both Edmonton and Fort McMurray. Our welding service is completely mobile, we'll come to you, anytime, anywhere.

Having access to networks at the start of my business journey was vital to the growth of Hyklen Services. Since we just expanded into Edmonton, we are so excited to join the business network out here, and there's no better way than through the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce!

Dr. Jagvir Singh

CEO and President,
Refresh Botanicals

Refresh Botanicals™ is organically sourced, but we take it to the next level where our re-search in powerful bioactives allows us to zero in and take a look at specific botanical mole-cules that address very specific skincare concerns so that efficacy is never compromised. Re-fresh Botanicals formulations are intentionally made and offer a global perspective for skin care concerns. We know the value of tried-and-true skincare rituals across the world and combine them with scientifically backed research. We also know that alleviating everyday skincare concerns, regardless of what stage of life you are in, requires scientific evidence through research and the absence of parabens, gluten, petroleum by-products, animal by-products, artificial oils, alcohol and fragrances. Our natural, organic skincare allows you to refresh your routine with unequivocal vitamin and antioxidant support to relieve, restore and revitalize your skin.

We LOVE the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce for many reasons and have really enjoyed getting to know the team there as well. Needless to say, the people are amazing! We are leveraging this local resource and it has been very beneficial. From networking, live events, workshops... we even started exploring initial trade opportunities all from the comfort of our city. We feel the Chamber gives us relevant, professional, extended exposure that we would have not been able to gain easily, it's a great fit.

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Business doesn't happen in a vacuum, and Edmonton doesn't exist in isolation. In addition to supporting and advocating for our members, the Edmonton Chamber collaborates with strategic partners, participates in the national and international Chambers of Commerce and World Trade Centre networks, and engages the broader Edmonton community in vital conversations about the economic state of the region today and how we can secure a prosperous future.

Through partnerships, newsletters, events and other forms of outreach, we're here to inform and engage any Edmontonian with an interest in our city's business ecosystem.

2022 HIGHLIGHTS

→ Sharing news that matters

This year we dug deep into our newsletter data to see how well the newsletter meets member needs. The open rate was already higher than industry average, but we increased that rate further by tailoring content more tightly to the news that impacts Edmonton businesses most.

→ Elder in Residence

We furthered our work with Enoch Cree Nation by partnering with our Elder in Residence, Elder Irene Morin. Elder Morin's perspectives and input guided us in relation to National Truth and Reconciliation Day and Indigenous Veterans Day, and we connected her with other corporations in the region so they could access her knowledge as well.

→ New events, new opportunities

We launched and hosted new marquee events in 2022, including the State of the Region. This new event, which engaged our entire region in a conversation about the criticality of regional collaboration, sold out in under two weeks.

→ Strategic partnerships and alignment

We aligned our strategy for the four-year municipal budget with three other member-funded organizations: BOMA, NAIOP Edmonton and UDI Edmonton. Sharing strong key messages across our organizations aligned Edmonton's business community and strengthened our collective voice as we made the following asks of the City:

- Better define priorities
- Allow for more agility and flexibility
- Focus on the mandates of municipalities

EVENTS

Our events bring Edmonton's business community together to learn, converse, network, and celebrate. We are proud to be a vital connector that helps members gain new knowledge and connections.

WORLD TRADE CENTRE EDMONTON

As part of the World Trade Centre network, we belong to a robust international business community that reaches around the globe. Our conference centre in the historic World Trade Centre building on Jasper Avenue is a fully equipped one-stop facility with productivity, presentation, and meeting space for up to 120 people, and we offer certification of various documents including Certificates of Origin.

GIVING BACK

FEEDING EDMONTON'S FUTURE

As an organization deeply rooted in this community, we care about the future of Edmonton. We know that the next generation of business leaders, entrepreneurs, policy makers and community visionaries are children in Edmonton's schools today—and we know it's hard to learn, grow, play, and make your dreams happen if you're hungry.

E4C's School Lunch Program feeds 2,100 students from kindergarten to grade six at ten Edmonton schools. With this basic need met, schools have seen students' attendance, morale and concentration improve. The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce was proud to donate $30,566 to the School Lunch Program in 2022—our contribution to help families make it through these challenging times and set the next generation up for success.

MEET

Irene Morin

ELDER IN RESIDENCE

At 5% of our overall population, Edmonton has the second largest urban Indigenous population in Canada. Indigenous people in the region have a powerful role to play in Edmonton's economic future, but often face systemic barriers to inclusion. As a Chamber, we can and should use our platform to help reduce those barriers, prioritize Indigenous voices and advance our community's journey of reconciliation.

In June 2022, we were honoured to welcome our first Elder in Residence. Since her appointment this past summer, Elder Irene Morin of the Enoch Cree Nation has provided important guidance to us, to our broader membership, and to other political and community leaders who shape our city. With an indomitable spirit, resilience, optimism, and deep pride in her culture, people and community, Irene has tirelessly dedicated her life to building bridges and advancing the interests of Indigenous peoples.

Irene's extensive career included working in the 1960's for what was then the Department of Indian Affairs, and later for the Edmonton Separate School Board, Native Counselling Services of Alberta, Native Friendship Centre, the Senate of Canada in Ottawa, and for the Enoch Cree Nation for nearly 30 years. As a survivor of the Blue Quills Indian Residential School in Alberta, she was involved in grassroots activism that made Blue Quills the first school officially administered by Indigenous representatives in 1970. Now called University nuhelot'jne thaiyots'j nistameyimâkanak Blue Quills, the school is an example of a successful, independent Indigenous educational institution—with a mandate to "advance and protect Indigenous forms of life and thinking through teaching, research and community service, guided by the natural laws of the Cree people and grounded in the Cree language."

In 2017, she received both the Queen Elizabeth II Golden Jubilee Medal and the Senate of Canada 150th Anniversary Medal, recognizing her outstanding contributions to her local community and Canadian society. As those accolades suggest, Irene's dedication over the course of her career has enriched countless lives and created meaningful change. We thank Irene wholeheartedly for sharing her knowledge and experience with us, and we look forward to working together further in the coming year.

POLICY AND AVOCACY

Our job creators—from small local enterprises to large corporations—are the economic engine that drives our country. As one of the longest-standing business organizations in Canada, the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce uses our powerful voice to influence decisions made by every order of government, ensuring businesses have the competitive conditions they need to succeed.

Policymakers rarely set out to hurt businesses, but without access to an expert perspective, they may not see the full implications of their decisions. Our role is to provide that perspective, and to raise the alarm when we see risks to our community's economic future. On issues from property tax rates to community safety and wellbeing, we ensure the voice of Edmonton's business community is heard.

2022 HIGHLIGHTS

- 6 POLICY COMMITTEES
- 85 MEMBERS ON POLICY COMMITTEES
- 25 NEW POLICY POSITIONS PUBLISHED
- CREATED ANNUAL CITY BUDGET CAMPAIGN AND PRESENTATION TO COUNCIL
- FEDERAL AND PROVINCIAL ELECTION PRIORITIES VOICED TO ALL PARTIES

2022 POLICY HIGHLIGHTS

Working alongside our network partners with the Alberta Chambers of Commerce, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Global Cities Council, the Edmonton Chamber added our members' voices to provincial and national conversations and raised awareness of issues facing businesses throughout the year. Some of the important advocacy work included:

COMMUNITY SAFETY AND WELLBEING

Edmonton continues to need significant investment to improve community safety and support the social programs that help vulnerable people connect with the right help at the right time. Through advocacy to all levels of government, we continue to call for action to address community safety and wellbeing priorities to improve the quality of life in our city.

TRADE BARRIERS

Supply chain challenges continue to affect businesses due to a variety of factors. We continue to press all orders of government for the removal of national and international trade barriers to reduce barriers where possible.

TALENT ATTRACTION

Many industries are facing a shortage of workers. Our Chamber Team called on the government to promote Edmonton and Alberta nationally and internationally to support the growth of talent in our region.

CONNECTIVITY

Businesses increasingly rely on internet connectivity, yet many of our surrounding areas don't have access. We advocated for continued investment in broadband internet connectivity to support robust business communications across the province.

SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

Paired with a labour shortage, there are many people unable to find work, resulting in a skills gap. We advocated for increased capacity in the post-secondary education system to support skill development in high-priority fields and for expansion of work-integrated learning opportunities to help bridge this gap so all Albertans can find meaningful employment.

CHILDCARE

Quality, affordable early learning and childcare is a high priority for businesses as it boosts workforce participation, productivity, and talent attraction. We advocated for investments in Early Learning and Child Care to expand affordable, accessible and high-quality childcare spaces.

In addition to these sponsorships, the Chamber of Commerce contributed $10,000.00 to support the 2022 Forward Slash initiative organized by the Edmonton Metropolitan Region EDC. This sponsorship played a pivotal role in advancing the Chamber's efforts to promote economic development and business growth in the region, showcasing the Chamber's commitment to collaboration and partnership with other key stakeholders.

Overall, the Chamber of Commerce's sponsorships in 2022 had a significant impact on the local business community, fostering collaboration, knowledge-sharing, and making a contribution toward greater investment in our city. The Chamber's annual report for 2022 acknowledges and appreciates the invaluable contributions of these sponsorships, which helped drive the Chamber's mission and goals forward.
